Peking Claims H-Bomb Successfully Exploded

Mao's Boast Cited After Desert Test

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China announced it successfully exploded its first hydrogen bomb "over the western region" of the mainland today and said the test thrust China's nuclear weapons development into an entirely new stage.

The official New China News Agency, in an English-language broadcast monitored in Tokyo, said success of the testing of China's first hydrogen bomb "represents another leap in the development of China's nuclear weapons."

'NEW STAGE'

It said the latest test "marks the entry of the development of China's nuclear weapons into an entirely new stage."

The bomb is believed to have been triggered at China's big nuclear testing site at Lop Nor in remote Sinkiang Province.

The news agency said Mao Tse-tung predicted back in June 1958 that "I think it is entirely possible" for China to "make some atom bombs and hydrogen bombs in 10 years' time."

The first word of the test came in a Chinese - language broadcast of Radio Peking.

SIXTH TEST

It was the sixth nuclear test by the Chinese since Oct. 16, 1964.

The announcement said: "Vhina's hydrogen bomb test will give very great encouragement and support to the people of Vietnam fighting against the United States and the Arab people who are resisting against the Israeli aggressors."

NO WARNING

The Peking report came without any forewarning that there would be an "important announcement"—such as the Chinese have been making the past few years.

The announcement said:

"We solemnly declare to the people of China and the whole world that this prediction of Chairman Mao has now been realized while our proletarian cultural revolution is winning resolute victory.

"After five nuclear tests during a period of two years and eight months, China's first hydrogen bomb was successfully exploded in the air over western region today, June 17, 1967.

"This successful test explosion of a hydrogen bomb shows China's nuclear weapons development has entered a new stage."

Viet Cong Sets Savage Trap For U.S. Unit

SAIGON (AP) — Communist guerrillas jumped a U.S. battalion in a jungle clearing today and raked it savagely with machine-gun fire before being silenced by strafing jets and artillery.

Associated Press photographer Henry Huet, who was with the embattled Americans, reported about 15 of them were killed and 40 to 50 wounded in the bitter three-hour battle.

The battalion of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division was hit about 30 miles north of Saigon as it began to set up a perimeter in War Zone D, one of the biggest remaining Red strongholds in Vietnam.

The battalion had set out early today through the jungle for the clearing. About noon three companies — perhaps 500 men — were in the area or just outside the treeline.

When the third twin-engined Chinook helicopters arrived in the 400-yard-long clearing with the battalion's heavy equipment, the Communists opened fire — seemingly from all around the clearing.

U.S. soldiers hit the ground, the big helicopters threw out their loads, and the troop commanders shouted orders and grabbed radios to call for air and artillery.

Within about 15 minutes, U.S. artillery was pounding the Reds. In another 15 minutes the jets had arrived.

"If it hadn't been for the air and artillery," Huet reported.

FAWN'S FAREWELL — Mrs. Donald Cowan of San Anselmo and "Stormy," the fawn rescued one rainy night, bid each other goodbye today, separated by anonymous callers' ill will. (Independent-Journal photo)

TROUBLED GOOD DEED

Children's Museum Gets Foundling Deer

Mrs. Donald Cowan of San Anselmo fought back the tears today as she bid goodbye to her pet fawn "Stormy" in a parting brought on by 28 malicious telephone calls and countless threats of arrest.

She presented the three-month-old deer to Louise A. Boyd Natural Science Museum in San Rafael for safe keeping after months of harassment, she said.

Mrs. Cowan saved the fawn from attack by a German shepherd dog on her patio during a rainstorm in April and the pet has been the center of a storm of controversy ever since.

A picture of her feeding the deer from a bottle, which appeared in the Independent-Journal in May, was followed by a series of anonymous phone calls.

"One elderly woman said I should have left the deer to be torn to pieces by the dog. She said we have too many deer in Marin County," said Mrs. Cowan. Others told her she ought to be jailed.

Mrs. Cowan said a state park warden told her she could be arrested if she kept the pet and, in desperation, she turned for help to the Boyd Museum, who agreed to accept it.

"Stormy's mother was chased away by other dogs and the fawn, which was only three hours old at the time, has become very attached to me," Mrs. Cowan said. "No matter what people say, I would do the same again if I found a helpless deer being attacked and in danger of being killed. Wouldn't anyone?"

Mrs. Cowan said today she will visit the museum at regular intervals to see Stormy. "I'm bringing down his own blanket," she said. "I don't think he would be at home without it."

Firemen Find Body In Small Apartment

A 56-year-old Sausalito man was found dead early this morning in the bathroom of his blazing studio apartment at 104 Bulkley Avenue.

The body of Donald E. Marvin was discovered by firemen who arrived at 3:10 a.m. to find the 15-by-20 foot room engulfed in flame.

Deputy Coroner E. R. Fontaine said Marvin apparently died of smoke inhalation but that he had a history of hypoglemia, a lack of sugar in the blood, and could have collapsed while trying to escape.

Assistant Fire Chief Frank Christ said firemen extinguished the blaze within five minutes. He estimated damage to the apartment and personal belongings at $3000.

Fontaine said Marvin had been living in Sausalito since his recent separation from his wife Marmion of 92 La Verne Avenue, Mill Valley. His body was taken to Russell and Gooch Mortuary for autopsy.

Kosygin Only World Leader At U.N. Emergency Session

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—The General Assembly opened the Soviet-demanded emergency session on the Middle East today and then adjourned until Monday after a 41-minute meeting and a clash between the United States and Jordan over the agenda.

Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin was the only leader from a major world power on hand when the meeting opened at 10:11 a.m.

Assembly President Abdul Rhaman Pazhwak of Afghanistan asked the delegates not to debate the agenda issue at the outset after a brief clash between U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg and Ambassador Muhammade H. El-Farra of Jordan.

Goldberg said the United States was "participating in this session on the implicit understanding that everything, every problem that was before the Security Council is now before the General Assembly."

The United States, with Israel and Botswana, were the only countries to vote against convening the special session.

"Peace is at stake in the Middle East," Goldberg said. "And so is the good name and reputation of the United Nations itself, sorely put into question during the past several days."

El-Farra took issue with Goldberg's statement.

"It is not true that everything now is before the assembly," the Jordanian ambassador said. "What is before the assembly is the immediate withdrawal of

TOMALES FACULTY SPLIT UNCOVERED

Lack Of 'Friendly, Happy, Atmosphere' Prods Teachers To Establish Committee

By ROBERT STREBEIGH

Tomales High School's teachers undertook yesterday to put their faction - ridden faculty house in order as a first step toward making the school a better place for the students.

The 14-member faculty's action — formation of a study committee — came after release of a special report, in which 93 per cent of the teachers said they lacked "a happy, friendly atmosphere" in their relations with each other. The point was driven home by their 86 per cent agreement that "this faculty has rival cliques."

Much of the report reflected that deep division within the faculty, with only two adverse judgments receiving as high a level of agreement. The old school building was condemned by 86 per cent for failing to provide "a wholesome atmosphere for our pupils." The same percentage was disatisfied with teachers' work rooms and rest rooms in the old structure.

Favorable opinions of the teachers, achieving 86 per cent or higher agreement, out-numbered the unfavorable 15-to-4.

There was 100 per cent teacher approval of four conditions at the school: freedom to use their own teaching methods and ideas; participation in salary scale formation; freedom to join teachers' organizations; freedom of teachers and their representatives to attend board meetings.

The report, prepared by the California Teachers Association, was presented at a special public meeting at 10 a.m. yesterday at the school. The district trustees had asked the association to make a "staff

Race Violence Still Rocks Florida City

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two policemen were struck by stones or bricks in St. Petersburg, Fla., early today after a crowd of 50 to 100 angry Negroes gathered when four persons were arrested in a Negro slum area on charges of strong armed robbery.

Meanwhile, roving gangs in Philadelphia threw gasoline bombs, bricks and bottles at passing cars early today in an area where a similar outbreak occurred last week. Helmeted policemen and fire equipment were called to the scene. Several patrol cars were reported struck by missiles hurled from rooftops, but no injuries were reported.

Officers said nobody was injured in the 30 minutes of violence which flared in St. Petersburg, about 20 miles west of Tampa Bay where racial violence occurred earlier this week.

A police spokesman said the four Negroes arrested were suspected of beating and robbing a gas station attendant shortly after midnight, slamming the hood of a car down on his head until he was unconscious.

One fire occurred at a furniture store in the area and police said they had received reports that it was started by a gasoline bomb. Several false alarms also occurred during the ensuing hours but police said they expected no more trouble.

An uneasy peace prevailed in Cincinnati, Ohio, despite a number of incidents, including a shot fired at a group of Negroes from a passing car Friday night. Police apprehended three white youths in a car and held them for investigation.

LBJ Meets Australian, Keeps Eye On Kosygin

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson swings into a foreign policy session with Australian Prime Minister Harold Holt today as a possible prelude to a more crucial one later with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

Johnson, who returned early today from politicking at Austin, Tex., met with Holt at nearby Camp David, Md. Their plan for an informal, friendly diplomatic meeting at the LBJ Ranch in Texas was upset by Kosygin's visit to the United Nations in New York.

The debate between Johnson and the No. 2 man in the Soviet hierarchy may begin Monday when the President addresses professors and leading educators at the State Department in what White House officials call a major speech on Vietnam and the uneasy truce in the Middle East.

Johnson said last night in Austin the first and greatest requirement for establishing lasting peace in the Middle East is that "each nation must accept the right of its neighbors to stable and secure existence."

But Johnson also stressed once more the United States stands for "the territorial integrity and political independence of all states in the area." The word "all" was underlined in the text of his speech.

Peking Protests Riot At Embassy In India

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China accused the government of India today of "engineering" an attack on the Chinese Embassy in New Delhi by an angry Indian mob. Seven Chinese diplomats and embassy staff members were hospitalized after the assault yesterday.

Peking announced that "starting from this moment, no person of Indian nationality in the Indian Embassy in China is allowed to leave the embassy without permission of the Chinese authorities concerned."

Explosion Damages Mideast Pipeline

ADEN (UPI)—An explosion ripped a British owned petroleum pipeline in Aden harbor last night.

The blast followed the refusal by thes Arab port workers union to handle British and American ships.

Storms Possible

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)— A minor disturbance centering off the Southern California coast is expected to cause scattered thunderstorms in the Sierra and parts of Central California over the weekend.

Marin Boosts Data Processing Budget To Half-Million Dollars

Marin county supervisors yesterday increased the county's data processing budget from $347,692 this year to $505,389 in the coming fiscal year, acting largely on the advice of a three-month study by consultants.

The Systems Development Corp. recommended in its $13,-350 study for Marin, that the staff in the systems division be increased from 11 to 19 persons, that henceforth file information for the computer be put on disks rather than tapes and that salaries be increased.

Included in the budget recommended was $88,000 for further contractual services, which will probably be done by Systems Development Corp., to set up additional programs while the county staff is being built up.

The operations portion of the budget will remain about the same as the current, continuing to operate with 14 persons.

Norman Schneidewind, who directed the Marin study for the consultants, told the board it should probably raise the salary for the yet unfilled post of department director if the county is to get the quality wanted.

He said that 80 persons applied for the job when advertised at $16,000 to $18,000 a year, but they did not represent top people in the field. The one man recommended among these applicants got another job before supervisors had a chance to interview him.

Supervisors yesterday, citing the importance of data processing and the need for efficient management, ordered the salary raised to range from $20,000 to $22,000.

The board also appointed Supervisors John F. McInnis and Ernest N. Kettenhofen to serve as liaison with the department.

In other budget deliberations yesterday, supervisors put off the request of Health Director Carolyn B. Albrecht for an additional sanitarian to inspect rental housing to prevent deterioration of residential areas in Marin. This will be considered after the county administrator completes a proposed study of the health department, the board said.

Supervisors liked the idea of a public health statistician, but thought such a person might serve several departments and might best be put under the county administrator. They turned down Dr. Albrecht's re-

NEW DANCE MAKES SCENE OVER MARIN

Marin got the message yesterday but San Francisco didn't, which may indicate something.

A sky-writing airplane yesterday scrawled out over Angel Island: "Bugalu is love—Love is bugalu."

An attempt to write the same message in San Francisco skies was defeated by winds which blew away the letters.

The bugalu, according to cognoscenti, is a recent dance innovation succeeding the jerk, frug and ancestral twist.

Nasser Allies Urge Guerrilla War

CAIRO (UPI) — Informed sources said today Syria and Algeria, backed by Soviet pledges of military and economic aid, are trying to persuade U. A. R. President Gamal Abdel Nasser to wage guerrilla warfare against Israel.

The sources said the joint Arab guerrilla strategy was behind the surprise visit to Cairo of Syrian President Noureddin Al Attassi.

Attassi arrived here last night from Algiers after lengthy conference with Algerian President Houari Boumedienne who went to Moscow earlier in the week for talks with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

Algerian Foreign Minister Abdelaziz Bouteflika pledged Nasser 50,000 troops plus air support, according to the sources. Algeria declared war on Israel and has said it is not bound by the U.N. cease-fire between Israel and its other Arab neighbors.

The sources were not clear whether Egypt's allies wanted to launch the operation immediately or await the outcome of diplomatic moves and the special U.N. General Assembly meeting on the Middle East crisis.

Egypt was pushing a busy anti-Israel and anti-Western offensive on two fronts, at the United Nations and among Arab foreign ministers meeting in Kuwait to map strategy in the wake of the Arab-Israeli war.

Israeli Attack Deliberate, U.S. Navy Men Testify

VALETTA, Malta (AP) — Senior crewmen of the damaged U.S. Navy ship Liberty are convinced that Israel's air and torpedo boat attack that cost 34 American lives was deliberate, a responsible source said in Valetta Saturday.

They have testified to that effect before the Navy inquiry court now in secret session aboard the ship as she undergoes emergency repair in a Malta drydock, the source said.

Their conviction was based on the belief that the Israelis had ample time to identify the Liberty, and on the intensity of the attack.

Liberty was struck June 8 as she lay 15 miles off the Israeli coast. She is a freighter converted three years ago to a naval communications research ship.

Except for her array of antennae she has the contours of a merchant ship and her only armament was four .50-caliber machine guns.

She sailed into the Mediterranean from her base at Norfolk, Va., in the first week of June and had been in position off the Israeli coast only 24 hours when attacked.

Officially, her task was to maintain communications with U.S. embassies in the war-torn Middle East, as they planned evacuations of U.S. citizens.

But all military men in Malta, long versed in the ways of war, take it for granted that Liberty also was ordered to intercept radio communications of the fighting Israeli and Arab forces.

For four hours before the attack the ship had been under surveillance from Israeli planes circling overhead.

"We were flying the Stars and Stripes and it's absolutely impossible that they shouldn't know who we were," a survivor said. "This was a deliberate and planned attack and the remarkable thing about it was the accuracy of their air fire."

Despite the aerial surveillance, the attack came as a total surprise. Some of Liberty's off-duty crewmen were sunbathing on deck when jets screamed in.

The action lasted less than an hour. Liberty received 81 hits from aircraft rocket and cannon fire. The rockets tore through her plates like paper.

Most fire was concentrated on the bridge, where the ship's executive officer was killed. A bullet tore through the cabin of the commanding officer, Cmdr. William McGonagle, piercing the plating just above his pillow. He was not in the bunk but later was hit in the leg by shrapnel on the bridge.

Because of secrecy imposed by the inquiry court, there has been no official report of the number of jets involved.

Indications, however, are that three did the actual damage.

Liberty already was blazing from the jet attack when torpedo boats fired, at least three torpedos in the classic pattern — one for the bow, one amidships and one for the stern.

One was shot out of the water by the remnants of Liberty's gun crews. One missed. One struck on the starboard side, tearing a hole 20 feet wide by 25 high in Liberty's plating, most of it below waterline.

Midwest Hit By Violent Weather

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Thunderstorms and high winds produced tornadic conditions in the Midwest today and threatened flooded areas of the Great Plains.

Although the violent thunderstorms that battered Nebraska during the week were moving eastward, officials feared that even light rains would bring further damage to the flooded rivers in eastern Nebraska.

Funnel clouds were reported in wide patches of the nation from New Mexico to Ohio late Friday and early today.

At least five persons were reported killed due to the violent weather across the Midwest. A mother in Glen Ellyn, Ill., was struck and killed by lightning as she walked to her car last night.

Winds up to 81 miles an hour screeched through Flint, Mich., last night. Gusts up to 63 m.p.h. were reported in Chicago and 60 m.p.h in Missouri and Ohio.

Tornado watches remained up early today in Illinois, Ohio, Indiana and Michigan. New Mexico, struck by high winds and heavy rain yesterday, was clearing today.

Stiff winds toppled a 360-foot radio tower near Carlsbad City, N.M., Friday. Highways in the southeast part of the state were washed out by the hard rains.

Storms were spawned in the East today by the warm, muggy air which was being pushed by cool air from the West. As the cool air passed over the nation's mid-section, skies began to clear.

More than an inch of rain fell at Wilkes Barre, Pa., in a six-hour period early today. Most of the East was receiving rain or showers today.

The developing rains in the East were expected to drop temperatures today after they soared to record levels in much of the area yesterday.

Dodd Defender Loses Vote Switching Try

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wary of a filibuster by backers of Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, Senate ethics committee members say they'll press their parliamentary advantage in the censure case of the Connecticut Democrat.

Before recessing debate until Monday on the committee's resolution to censure Dodd, the Senate agreed yesterday to vote separately on the two counts involved in the measure accusing Dodd of financial misconduct.

But committee members blocked an attempt by Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La. — Democratic whip and Dodd's self-appointed defender — to get an immediate vote on what many senators view is the lesser of the two charges.

After holding the floor nearly the entire day in speaking on Dodd's behalf, Long tried to get consent for an immediate vote on the charge that his white-haired colleague double-billed both the Senate and private organizations for seven trips.

The other count against Dodd is that he converted to his personal use $116,083 in funds raised at political testimonial dinners and other political events.

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, objected, thus blocking Long's bid. Afterwards Bennett, vice chairman of the ethics panel, explained why.

"I think we'd have lost," he told newsmen. Bennett said Long's lengthy appeal had confused senators.

The Utah Republican said committee members and some other senators fear that if Dodd should win on the double-billing count, there might be a filibuster.

Long held the floor for six hours yesterday, alternately cajoling and reprimanding fellow senators. He roamed the Senate aisles, shaking his fists to hammer home arguments.

Of Dodd he said: "He was a fine man and he is now a high-type, lovable man who wouldn't cheat anybody."

During Long's lengthy speech he recalled his uncle, Earl Long, three times governor of Louisiana, who died seven years ago.

There are times, Nephew Russell told the Senate, when it is proper and politically wise to use campaign-oriented money for personal purposes.

He said that can be the case if a potentially strong candidate cannot run unless his bills are paid.

"That's what Uncle Earl called a good, practical use of political money," Long said.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Rail Strike Stalls For Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The railroad unions have agreed to postpone their 12:01 a.m. Monday strike deadline rather than risk the possibility of Congress compelling a settlement.

The union announcement was made yesterday by Michael Fox, president of the Railway Employees Department, AFL-CIO, who said the nationwide walkout had been postponed "pending action by a joint committee of Senate and House," as yet not formed.

The Senate planned no action until it voted on a censure resolution against Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, Conn., early next week.

Anti-strike legislation passed by the Senate, as recommended by President Johnson, would impose a settlement if rail labor and management were unable to agree voluntarily in the next 90 days.

The House balked at compelling unions to accept government arbitration and voted Thursday to strip the measure of all but the section prohibiting the strike diurng the next 90 days, and setting up a new mediation panel.

Methodists Rap Death Penalty

STOCKTON (AP)—The California-Nevada Conference of the Methodist Church has called for national legislation to abolish capital punishment.

Resolutions passed by the conference in session at the University of Pacific yesterday also called for more trustworthiness in statements of government officials, criticized the CIA for some of its methods and urged that Thurgood Marshall's appointment to the U.S. Supreme Court be confirmed.

The conference, urging support for abolishing the capital punishment, said: "Studies have failed to show that the death penalty acts as a deterrent to homicide and that it has been shown to operate in a discriminatory manner against the underprivileged who cannot afford proper defense."

Flood Waters Sweep Nebraska

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. (UPI) — Record flood waters today left one-third of this city of 25,000 homeless. The partially sunken city turned to the federal government in the wake of the rising tide that killed four and destroyed millions of dollars of property.

"It's terrible . . . almost unbelievable," said Mayor Howard Peterson.

Eight thousand residents took refuge in schools, churches, hotels, motels and other public places.

Col. Burl Johnson of the National Guard said waters will rise two more feet in Grand Island, another foot at Louisville, Waterloo and Crete, 1½ feet at Wilber, three feet at West Point and Seward and 5.7 feet at Beatrice.

In all, 500,000 acres of eastern Nebraska were under water and another 200,000-400,000 acres were partially covered, a federal official said.

Satellite Lofted

VANDENBERG AFB, Calif. (UPI)—A secret satellite was launched yesterday atop a Thor-Agena booster combination on an undisclosed mission.

Garbage Solution?

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Pacific Gas & Electric Co. and two scavenger firms have proposed building a facility to incinerate San Francisco's garbage and provide clean fill and power at the same time.

The proposed plant could be operating within four years, the city Chamber of Commerce was told yesterday.

Refuse would be burned to manufacture steam which would be sold to PG&E for conversion to electricity. Residue from the incinerator would be granular and usable as clean fill.

UFO Photographed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Television station KCRA last night showed five pictures taken by a 12-year-old boy, assertedly showing a flying saucer.

The five photographs showed the object on the ground, in the air and at a 45 - degree angle above an abandoned automobile.

The negatives were obtained by newsman Mike Boyd from the family of Tony Spruill, North San Juan, who said he took them on June 2.

Death Penalty Set

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A transient from North Carolina, James Bradford Jr., must die in California's gas chamber for the murder of a 23-year-old woman.

The jury that convicted Bradford last Saturday ordered yesterday that he die. Judge Herbert V. Walker set July 7 for formal sentencing.

Bradford, 31, denied the killing of Betty Peace of Durham, N.C., whose body was found Nov. 11 on a deserted mountain road. Investigators said a gallon of sulphuric acid had been poured over her head.

Father Drowns

CONCORD (AP)—Harold Hall, 34, fell and drowned Thursday alongside his cabin cruiser in Suisun Bay as his young son, Lance, 9, tried desperately to stop the boat and throw out a life preserver.

Assessor Gives Up

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Sacramento County's assessor says she won't fight the State Supreme Court's order that she give up her plan to base property tax assessments on 100 per cent of market value.

With an air of resignation, Assessor Irene Hickman said yesterday that she would go along with the decision handed down a day earlier.

Slayer Sentenced

SACRAMENTO (AP) — An unemployed photographer's assistant was given the death penalty yesterday for the hammer slaying of a liquor store owner during an $87 robbery.

The jury of six men and six women deliberated for 4½ hours before reading the verdict to Gerald Albert Beivelman, 28, whom they found guilty Tuesday of first degree murder.

He was convicted of killing Mrs. Marie McGraw, 51, during the March 12 robbery of Sacramento's Bank Bottle Shop she and her husband owned.

Bomb Halt Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Frank Horton, R-N.Y., says President Johnson should order a three-day conditional halt to American bombing raids over North Vietnam to coincide with the arrival at the United Nations of Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin.

Sailors Get Nod

CAIRO (AP) — Egypt has agreed to the evacuation of crewmen from 15 ships stranded in the Suez Canal by the Middle East war, it was reported today.

The 15 vessels have been riding at anchor in the Great Bitter Lake since the outbreak of war between Egypt and Israel June 5.

Course Change Due

PASADENA (UPI) — At least one midcourse maneuver will be made to correct the trajectory of America's Mariner 5 spacecraft to put it on a perfect course to Venus.

Scientists at Jet Propulsion Laboratory said yesterday the course change, scheduled for sometime next week, would aim the 540-pound craft to fly by the mysterious planet at a distance within 2,000 miles.

Viet Crash Kills 28

SAIGON (AP) — A U.S. Air Force C130 exploded and burned after it attempted to abort a takeoff from An Khe airport Saturday night, killing 28 persons, the American Command announced. There were 21 survivors, it said.

Luci Stars At Party For LBJ

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Luci Johnson Nugent began the countdown today on the birth of her baby after being the belle of the presidential ball last night.

Luci, 19, attended the President's Club Democratic fund-raising dinner with her husband, Pat, mainly to have a reunion with the President, who flew in for a few hours to party with Democratic bigwigs.

Both the President and his daughter enjoyed their short time together. "Are you ready," Johnson teasingly whispered to his daughter.

"Yeh, I'm ready," Luci nodded happily.

When reporters last night noted to her that she had picked June 17 as D-day, Luci said that "supposedly" was to be the birthdate. "It's nine months tomorrow," she said.

Luci's older sister, Lynda Bird, wearing a long blue gown, joined the party with an old beau, Joe Batson, son of a multimillionaire Amarillo, Tex., rancher.

The President made a big show of saying goodby to Luci with kisses and hugs.

But after Johnson and his wife departed, Luci skipped back to the main ballroom of the auditorium and began dancing again. When she tried to jitterbug, she got a reproving "Luci!" from her husband.

Vote Apathy Criticized By Rafferty

State Superintendent of Schools Max Rafferty—thinking of running as a conservative alternative to Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel in the 1968 Republican primary election—had some harsh words for non-voting Americans last night in Novato.

Labeling this decade the "sick sixties," Rafferty blamed the non-voter's apathy for the appointment of lenient judges and teachers opposed to the draft and the war in Vietnam.

He urged participation by all Americans in elections at every level of government, especially in school districts and of those with the power to appoint judges.

The apathy that produced the non-voter, Rafferty said, is also responsible for permitting distribution of pornography, tolerance of drug abuse, sexual license and a failure to support the police.

He spoke at the Novato Chamber of Commerce annual dinner at the San Marino Club, at which new officers were installed: Jack Kinnery, as president; Calvin Maurer, first vice president; William Siler, second vice president, and Irving Links, treasurer.

Trustees To Elect

Election of officers of Ross School District Board will be held Monday at a meeting of trustees at 7:30 p.m. in Ross School. Up for discussion is the curriculum for the coming school year, and a review of the position of vice principal.

San Rafael Theft

Two 80-inch-tall doors valued at $100 were stolen Wednesday night from Larkins Construction Company, 120 Canal Street, San Rafael police reported today.

Nicasio Gives Eight Diplomas

Five eighth graders received diplomas in commencement exercises at Nicasio School last night.

The speaker was San Rafael attorney Raymond H. Stone. Diplomas were presented by Nick Kobseff of the Nicasio School District Board. Invocation was by Rev. John Connery, pastor of Our Lady of Loretto Catholic Church at Nicasio.

All five graduates were presented awards for athletic achievement. A reception was given by the Mothers Club after commencement.

Session Postponed

Guidance on sizes of directional signs in a city park will be requested of the Tiburon board of design review at its 8 p.m. meeting Monday in city hall by public words director Louis H. Brunini.

Marin Students Travel Afar For Diplomas

Four Marin County residents have received degrees this month from distant universities and colleges.

Richard K. Hawkins, former student body president of San Rafael High School, received his Ph. D. in psychology from the University of California at Los Angeles Wednesday.

A bachelor of arts degree from Harvard University was presented to John Jay Osborn Jr. of 35 Peninsula Road, Belvedere, Thursday.

Honor student Adolph G. Stoll Jr. has received his Sterling Silver Diploma from the Colorado School of Mines for earning both bachelor and master's degrees in a four-and-a-half year program. He plans to study chemical engineering at the University of California at Berkeley this fall.

Russell R. Vossbrink of 100 "J" Street, San Rafael, was awarded the degree of Doctor of Pharmacy Saturday from the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco.

Marijuana Case Goes To Juvenile Court

Case of John Adam Dawson 18, charged with marijuana possession, has been certified from Marin Municipal Court to Juvenile Court, Asst. Public Defender Harold J. Truett said yesterday.

Dawson, of 1118 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield, allegedly had marijuana in Larkspur April 16.

SCRAP METAL — This 1962 Plymouth was demolished but driver Elizabeth Ann Titus escaped major injury early today when the car hit two trucks and a tree on Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael. Police Sgt. James W. Carlton inspects the damage.

Lincoln Curve Traps Another Auto Driver

Elizabeth Ann Titus, 21, daughter of P. & O. Orient Lines president Warren S. Titus, escaped serious injury early today when her car bounced off two parked trucks and a tree at an accident-prone curve on a San Rafael street.

Miss Titus, of 60 Moncada Way, San Rafael, was reported in fair condition at Marin General Hospital with a cut forehead and hip bruises received when she was thrown from the car as it careened off the tree.

Witnesses, according to San Rafael police, said she was driving north on Lincoln Avenue at high speed at 12:30 a.m. and lost control where the street curves left sharply.

Her car hit a pickup truck owned by Ralph W. Wells of 1450 Lincoln Avenue, hit the tree, then crossed the street and hit a pickup truck owned by Joseph D. Young of 54 La Brea Way, San Rafael. Miss Titus' car was demolished.

Miss Titus must have been thrown through either the windshield or rear window, police said. The doors of her sedan were jammed tight by the accident.

Wells said 16 of his vehicles have been hit in the six years he has lived on the curve, seven of them total losses. The tree is also battered from a series of accidents, he said.

Speed limit on the street is 25 miles an hour, and a flashing yellow light warns drivers of the curve.

THEY ONLY STOLE A LOOK FROM MARIN

Two moonstruck, stargazing teen-agers had Sheriff's Deputy John O. Goff worried there, for a moment.

He was called to Tiburon Boulevard near Greenwood Beach Road, Tiburon, at 9:30 p.m. Thursday when a passing motorist reported two youths might be cimmitting a burglary.

Instead, Goff found Robert Morey and John Slauther, both of Montara, taking photographs of the moon and certain stars for a course at their college. They said the fog was too thick over San Francisco.

Rail Line Progresses Backward

Something old hae been added under the ancient redwoods of Mendocino County, California.

In what the California Western Railroad describes as its "great leap backward," steam is replacing diesel as the star tourist draw west of Willits.

California Western, a logging line since 1885, in 1965 augmented its wildly popular "Skunk" diesel tramcars with a sparkling vermillion-and-gold steam locomotive and four turn-of-the-century chair cars. Once-a-day service between Fort Bragg and Willits resumes May 27 after a winter layoff, to run through Sept. 18 (weekends only: April 29 - May 21, Sept. 23 - Oct. 29).

Behind this plush retrogression is the public's fierce desire to ride once more behind an Iron Horse. CWRR junked its steam passenger trains in 1925, replaced them with a self-propelled diesel street car on a 40-mile corkscrew to the Coast. Hoggers crum bosses, parlor boys and pinheads (railrodese for engineers, conductors, flagmen and brakemen) scoffed at the ungainly diesels, said their fumes smelled worse than a skunk.

But the Skunks made capital of the scornful nickname. They attracted 40,000 passengers a year, to the confusion of the railroad owners, who really wanted to be in the freight business.

Faced with a profitable passenger operation, the CWRR faced 'round and bowed to the demand. Manager F. H. Sturgis resurrected a Mikado superheated steam "lokey" up in Medford, found four passenger cars back East on the Erie and Lackawanna, and CWRR went back into high iron.

Vermillion-and-black, beige-and-gold, "Old 45" now chugs her 40 miles each way, leaving Fort Bragg at 10 a.m., returning from Willits at 2:25 p.m. to complete her "candy run" at 4:55.

Through towering redwoods and over more hairpin bends and trestles than any short railroad, the new "Super Skunk" hauls 300 delighted passengers at a clip. Engineer Bill Munson tugs at the whistle cord and Old 45 "wears a feather" of steam at ecstatic intervals.

The "Super" is the only standard-gauge steam passenger train in the West; and the first to revert to Jamie Watt power. A hundred thousand enthusiasts rode Skunks and Supers last year, driving up U.S. Highway 101 to Willits, or up State Route 1 to Fort Bragg.

Now and then the "Super" passes one of the diesel Skunks on a siding at Northspur or Irmulco, or Shake City. Then Munson really leans on the cord, to teach these smelly upstarts proper respect for railroading.

Sausalito Staff Voted Pay Boosts

The finance committee of the Sausalito City Council, completing budget deliberations, last night recommended the salary of City Mgr. George M. Patterson be increased from $14,500 annually to $15,900.

Patterson had not requested a raise. He was appointed city manager in November, replacing Charles A. Brown, who resigned to work for the federal government in Venezuela.

Besides Patterson's salary, which is included in a $25,027 budget for his office, the two-member finance committee approved eight other budget recommendations last night.

The hearing was the third on Patterson's proposed $1.1 million spending program for fiscal 1968, up from $859,000 this year. Patterson expected no increase in the present tax rate of $1.315 per $100 of assessed valuation.

The City Council is scheduled to adopt the full budget at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

A capital improvement program of $327,130 for the new Bridegway sea wall and preliminary work on the new public library was approved by the committee, composed of Councilmen Jan Paul Dyk and Alexander R. Imlay.

Also recommended were a $115,998 miscellaneous fund for employee benefits, city insurance and audit and election expenses; a $9,036 finance department budget, up $886 for new bookkeeping equipment; a $7,818 appropriation for public buildings and lands, down from this year's figure of $33,800, which was needed for the new corporation yard; a budget of $7,813 for the city clerk's office; a $2,695 city council budget, down $42, and a civil service appropriation for employee recruiting of $2,194, down $50.

OBITUARIES

Thomas Brannigan Dies At 82

Muir Woods Fair Off This Year

The annual Mountain Fair on Panoramic Highway will not be held this year by the Muir Woods Park Improvement Association.

Association president Robert O. Edwards said today: "Members who do most of the work feel that, this year, they would like to take a rest."

The fairs started in 1959 and last year attracted 4,000 people and produced $2,000 for the association.

Members last night renewed strong objections to the reassessed valuation of their properties which, they said, was inflating the value of land five-fold, Edwards said.

The association set its next meeting for July 21 at 8 p.m. in the clubhouse.

SAME OLD THING — Harold W. Wells of 1450 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, gazes ruefully at his battered truck, hit by a car early today. Wells, who lives at a sharp curve on Lincoln, has had 16 vehicles hit in six years.

The board granted $720 in physician's fees to increase the number of family planning clinics from two to four with the understanding that these, too, were subject to change after the administrator's study.

Supervisors will reconvene at 9:30 a.m. Monday at the Civic Center, taking up the administrator's, county counsel's, fire department, library, parks and recreation, county clerk's, municipal court, public defender and justice court budgets in that order.

Hunting Dogs Outrank Women

NEW YORK (AP) — Aboriginies of Western Australia rate their women after their hunting dogs in the social order of things, a scientist inducted into one of the tribes told a youth seminar at The Explorers Club.

Henry W. H. Butler, who will conduct a wildlife study of a small Australian island under a club grant, said men rate first, children next, the hunting dogs third and women fourth. Perhaps the women's lot isn't as bad as it seems. The men do much of the cooking.

Thieves Hit Shop

Leo B. Griese of the Griese Radiator Repair Service, 701 Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael reported to sheriff's deputies yesterday the theft of new and old radiator cores worth $275.

Medicine Man To Display Navajo Sand Paintings

The ancient Indian art of sand painting, practiced by the Indians in the Southwest before the coming of the White Man, will be demonstrated at the grounds of the Western Weekend Celebration this year.

Fred Stevens of Lupton, Ariz., also known by his Indian name of Grey Squirrel, will give a demonstration daily, Wednesday through Sunday (June 21 through 25), in the Royal Crown Cola Pavilion at the grounds on San Marin Drive just west of Highway 101. Stevens is a medicine man of the Navajo tribe.

DAILY PAINTING

He will make one or more of the paintings each day, destroying them before the day ends, according to the ancient custom of his people.

Stevens, or Grey Squirrel, will bring his colored sand with him. He will show the Navajo method of letting a stream of the fine sand run between his thumb and forefinger creating a design as he goes.

Sand painting is a part of a religious ceremony of the Navajos. The rite often lasts from three to 10 days. Paintings are made and then destroyed as the medicine man conducts healing chants for patients. Invocations to Navajo gods, songs and prayers are part of the ceremony.

LONG KEPT SECRET

Hosteen Klah, great uncle of Stevens and a medicine man himself, helped record and reproduce some of the ancient traditional designs for the sand painters.

Until very recent years, the sand paintings were restricted to ceremonials and seen only by those taking part in them. With the restriction lifted by modern Navajos, sand painting has been done in various parts of the United States and Europe.

WEAVING DISPLAY

Mrs. Bertha Stevens, wife of the sand painter, will demonstrate Navajo weaving, making her own loom from two cedar poles.

Their son, Little Beaver, 15, and Sun Cloud, 12, will take part in the Navajo dancing during Western Weekend.

WAR

"there is no telling what would have happened."

The Communists also unleashed mortar and rocket attacks today on U.S. and South Vietnamese positions in the central highlands — an area where the next big Red offensive is expected.

At the same time Gen. William G. Westmoreland's headquarters revealed that it had reinforced the highlands area with the 173rd Airborne Brigade, more than three weeks ago. The movement had been held secret until today.

The Communists have been raking U.S. and South Vietnamese posts with mortar probes for days. The attacks today hit a U.S. Special Forces camp, an engineering company headquarters, the South Vietnamese 24th Special Zone military headquarters in Kontum City and the 2nd Field Hospital, also in Kontum City.

Air strikes yesterday were generally limited to the supply lines down the coast of North Vietnam, but a few raiders struck deep into the nation's heartland to hit power stations and storage areas above Hanoi and Haiphong.

Pilots from the nuclear-powered aircraft carrier Enterprise made a predawn strike with 1,000-pound bombs on the Bac Giang power plant 23 miles north of Hanoi and another on a storage area 34 miles north of Haiphong.

the forces which invaded our area. We cannot accomodate the aggression. We cannot think in terms of other problems before we get rid of the aggressor."

Pazhwak appealed to the members not to debate the issue at this juncture and said he would take it the assembly accepted the provisional agenda calling for discussion of Israeli "aggression" and withdrawal from Arab territory. There was no objection.

Kosygin, who flew into New York during the early morning hours to attend the session, sat in the first place of the Soviet delegation but did not speak.

The assembly adjourned at 10:52 a.m. until 10:30 a.m. EDT Monday to begin general debate on the question.

Leaving the meeting, Kosygin told newsmen that things were going "all right."

Then he pointed to himself and said with a broad grin:

"I'm holding up all right, too."

A security force of thousands was assigned to safeguard Soviet Premier Kosygin and other pro-Arab and Communist bloc dignitaries visiting the United Nations today.

With pro-Israeli passions running high in this metropolitan area of nearly three million Jews, authorities deployed 2,000 to 3,000 uniformed and plainclothes policemen, plus hundreds of men from a dozen city, state, federal and U.N. agencies to the task of security.

Authorities were fearful of demonstrations and disorders growing out of resentment over the Kremlin's role in the Israeli-Arab crisis, in addition to other policies of the Soviet Union.

Even before Kosygin's Soviet Ilyushin 18 turboprop aircraft touched down at Kennedy International Airport demonstrations against him were called by a number of organizations.

As a result, police issued special regulations governing demonstrations—no sticks or poles permitted and opposing groups to be separated and no demonstrations on any route the premier may travel.

Skid Hurts Driver

Troy Clifton, 21, of Santa Rosa was treated yesterday at Marin General Hospital for multiple bruises suffered when the car he was driving skidded and overturned at 2:30 p.m. in the northbound lane of Highway 101 near the Sir Francis Drake Underpass at Greenbrae.

Woman Still Critical

Lena Marie de Matei, 74, of 45 San Rafael Drive, San Rafael, remained in critical condition today at Marin General Hospital with head injuries received Wednesday when she was struck by a car.

Driver Fined $115

Fred Brown, 27, of San Francisco, was fined $115 and placed on a year's probation yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving. San Anselmo police arrested him June 7 on Greenfield Avenue.

Mail Trucks Listed

San Rafael's completely mechanized mail service operates with 33 mailsters and 24 delivery trucks and not a total of 53 mailsters as reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

Stamps Stolen

A thief took eight books of trading stamps and about $25 in coins Thursday from the home of Louis M. Molles Jr., 178 Mission Avenue, San Rafael police said today.

Civil Rights Song Works

BOSTON (AP) — The civil rights anthem, "We Shall Overcome," won newsmen and photographers refuge from the cold while waiting for a Democratic unity conferecne to end at the home of U.S. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

The newshawks gathered in the early morning cold outside the Kennedy residence. After about an hour, they opened up with the civil rights song and on the third chorus a door opened, admitting the newsmen until the conference ended.

Repeat Contestant

Janice Kimbell, one of the contestants for Western Weekend Queen this year, was chosen the queen of the rodeo event last year.

New Rides Set For Youngsters

The carnival at Western Weekend this year will have several new rides to delight the younger set, according to Larry Davis, owner.

This year Davis has been awarded the exclusive carnival rights to the California State Fair. This is the first time that one carnival has had this concession alone. So Davis has added $80,000 worth of new rides to his group.

Some of these will be brought to the Novato Western Weekend grounds at San Marin Drive and Highway 101.

Children Offered Ride To Grounds

When the site of Western Weekend grounds was selected, there was some concern about the children getting from downtown Novato to the grounds.

The two routes to the grounds lay via Simmons Lane or using Highway 101. It was felt that there would be some danger in children using Highway 101 with their bicycles.

All of this was solved by C-Bar-N Ranch, which will run a Hayride Taxi for the children from Grant Avenue to the Western Weekend grounds.

Three Huge Cities Will Dominate U.S

WASHINGTON (SS) — The rush to megalopolis is so strong that by 2,000 A.D. 60 per cent of the mainland United States population will live in three urban zones.

Dr. Jerome P. Pickard, research director of the Urban Land Institute, in a study financed by the Ford Foundation, lumps the Atlantic Seaboard with the lower Great Lakes area as the "Metropolitan Belt." The other two megalopolitan areas will be in California and Florida, he predicts.

Health Aide Moves

Wallace Chipman, administrative assistant in Marin health department, will leave that post July 12 to take a job as assistant director of health planning in the Alameda County Health Department. Chipman has been with Marin County three and a half years.

Motorist 'Good'

John Higgins, 33, of 87 Woodland Avenue, San Anselmo, was reported in fairly good condition today by Marin General Hospital, where he was admitted after a traffic accident in Sausalito late Thursday. He suffered a bruised abdomen and cut tongue.

Bogus Bills To Be On Display

A display of counterfeit money will be on display at the Western Weekend headquarters at the San Marin Sales office on San Marin Drive.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation in San Francisco is loaning the exhibit to Western Weekend.

The FBI has not kept a record of where or when each of the counterfeit bills came into their possession, nor of the source. They also warn that no pictures may be taken of it as it is illegal to photograph money.

Indian Artifacts Display Slated

Artifacts of the Miwok Indians dug up by the Novato High School archaeology club will be on display at the Western Weekend in the Royal Crown Cola Pavilion.

On display will be mortars and pestles, arrow points, beads and many other items dug up on sites near Novato by the club members.

Peter Moore is president of the club and Thomas Jackson is the curator. John McBeath is the faculty advisor.

John Gilmore First President For Fete

John Gilmore was elected the first president of Western Weekend Inc. after the non-profit organization was formed on Jan. 12 last year at the first meeting of the corporation.

Starting with $1,972.81 which was left over from that year's celebration, the organization is now putting on its first Western Weekend celebration. The Novato Jaycees had been putting on the celebration in past years.

Lack Of Water Puts Halt To Big Event

The annual waterball fight between the Kentfield and Novato Fire Departments will not be held this year.

In the past this has been one of the biggest crowd pleasers in the celebration. However, there are not sufficient fire hydrant connections at the grounds on San Marin Drive to stage the fight this year, so it was canceled.

Leydecker Still Fair

Byron W. Leydecker, president of Redwood National Bank, remained in fair condition today in the heart unit at Marin General Hospital, where he was admitted June 5 after a heart attack.

Painter's Bids Due

Painting contractors' bids on Mill Valley's paint-up, clean-up of commercial districts will be opened 5 p.m. Monday in the chamber of commerce office. The month-long project is to start in mid-July.

Radio, Cash Gone

A $15 transistor radio and $120 in cash were stolen Thursday from the residence of Safeway manager Everett A. Palmer, 8 Blossom Drive, San Rafael police said today.

Contrasting Jacket Is Perfect To Wear Over Casual Styles

By EUNICE FARMER

Today, when the contrastaing jacket has been accepted by fashion experts, there is no excuse for not having something to throw over your shoulders should the weather change from morning to night. I found that an off white, rather tailored, unlined jacket was just about perfect to wear over almost all casual clothes.

Sweaters are often too hot and usually don't coordinate as well. Be sure your jacket can be washed and has a no-iron finish. Don't depend on the dry cleaning service in foreign countries.

Dressy occasions are few and far between, and you aren't expected to look the same when traveling as you do at home. Consider a jacket and dress combination in a beautiful color. If possible, the dress could have a slightly low back. This ensemble can be accessorized beautifully and will fit into any occasion!

Don't take slacks or shorts for traveling in Europe. They are definitely frowned upon, and you will rarely find women wearing them as you do in this country. If you want to take one pair for lounging in your own hotel room, this is perfect. However, don't stock up on them and plan to wear them while sightseeing. They just don't enhance the decor of beautiful churches, or museums. They don't show the proper respect for them.

Mrs. Lucy Stewart, Morley, Mich., is this week's tailor trix pressing board winner for her following suggestion.

Here's what I had to do when I made bound butttonholes on the left front instead of the right front. I didn't have enough material to make a new front, so I had to find a solution.

I sewed the buttons to the wrong side of the right front, using plain colored, flat buttons. The results: Concealed buttons that gave a very smooth appearance to the straight lines of the design. This was one accident that produced a final look much more to my liking than the original plan.

Summer is camp time for lots of children. My little girl will be spending six weeks in camp, and I would like to share some of the ideas that Mrs. Wiggins sends along for all of her campers.

A discarded single drape makes a perfect camp bedspread. If you don't have one, I'm sure one of your friends can help you out. Save on those laundry bills at camp by sending clothes that need no ironing!

Send along some real "grundy" clothes for mud hikes. Also, an assortment of odds and ends that they can use for costume night.

DEAR MRS. FARMER,

I have some fabric shoes that have been tinted and no longer look nice. I hate to throw them away, and I know that shoes can be covered with fabric. Could you please give us some information about how to do this?

JUDY K.

DEAR JUDY K.,

Glad you asked about this again. Some of you young gals get by without spending money on a new pair of shoes and print shoes are most attractive with solid colored dresses for summer.

A lightweight silk or lightweight cotton fabric will work best, usually a print that isn't too large. Actually, leather shoes can be covered also. However, if the shoe is too dark for your fabric, you may have to do a double process and place a lightweight lining fabric on your shoes first.

1. Cut fabric on the bias grain in sections. The first section can be cut for the toe area, ending at the side seams of your shoes. Always allow a little extra on all edges; the excess is easily trimmed away.

2. If possible, try to obtain millinary glue. It won't leave a white mark on your fabric if you get a little excess on. Spread lightly on the shoe, not on your fabric. Place fabric on this section and smooth out carefully to avoid wrinkles.

3. Use a nail file and carefully push the fabric into the seam at the edges of the soles. Don't trim excess fabric off at this time.

4. Be sure to let each section dry thoroughly before beginning another. After the front half is finished, fit another bias piece for the back half, turning over a small fold to finish the raw edges where the seams join at the sides of your shoes.

5. Before covering the heels, carefully pull up the leather that finished the inside of the heels. After you have covered the heels and the glue is dry, glue the piece of leather in place again. This will cover the raw edges of your fabric.

6. After the shoe is thoroughly dry, carefully trim the excess fabric from around the edges of the sole with a sharp razor blade.

7. Last, turn under about ½ inch at the throat of the shoes. Clip if necessary and glue to inside of shoe.

You really have nothing to lose since your old shoes couldn't be worn anyway. So have a little fun and see how much you'll love these new shoes.

MR. AND MRS. RAYMOND A. SCHRUTZ

Jill Nelson Weds Raymond Schrutz

Making their home in Fairfax are newlywed Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Anthony Schrutz, who were married at the First Methodist Church in San Rafael.

The bride, the former Jill Andrea Nelson, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Egar L. Nelson of San Anselmo, and her husband is the son of Mrs. Jerome P. Schrutz of Fairfax.

For the May 27 rite Jill wore a short Chantilly lace gown with ruffled hemline.

Mrs. Donald Franklin of San Rafael was her only attendant, wearing deep pink crepe in a tent style dress.

Robert Ahola of Fairfax was the best man and the ushers were Martin Nelson of San Rafael and Jack Nelson of San Anselmo. Jack is the brother of the bride.

The bridegroom's mother's home was the setting for the reception which followed.

Jill and Raymond both are Sir Francis Drake High School graduates and attended College of Marin. The grandson of Mrs. E. E. Kempf of Fairfax, he is employed with a plumbing supply firm in Berkeley.

Sisterhood, Board Set Dinner

Members of the congregation of Kol Shofar will celebrate the first combined installation of the officers of the Sisterhood and the Congregational Board with a dinner at 7:30 p.m., tomorrow at Sabella's Restaurant.

Sisterhood officers are Mesdames Alex Gould, president; Evelyn Johnson, Ruth Pheffer, Daniel Altman, recording secretary; Fred Rudow, corresponding secretary; Warren Robinson, treasurer; Phil Ruby and David Block, financial secretary.

Wedding Season Brings An Alert

The Better Business Bureau of San Francisco has issued an alert to the Bay Area during this particularly popular wedding season. A telephone call to the parents of the bride or bridegroom saying a package will be delivered on the wedding day could be bad news. Several callers turned out to be robbers.

While the family attended the wedding the thief entered and did his work. The bureau warns that if you get a call about a package or other delivery or repair, notify the police or keep someone at home.

Caution can keep the happy day happy.

Cleaning Leather

Spot-clean pastel and white leather belts with thick suds, working quickly with a sponge or small brush. Next, rinse-wipe them with a clean, damp cloth and then with a dry cloth.

Job's Daughters Plan Two Events

Honored Queen Lynn Satmary will preside at an inspection and initiation of Bethel 246, International Order of Job's Daughters, at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday.

Initiates will be Joyce Miley, Carolyn Bauer, Deborah Houston, Deborah Hansen, Nancey Dorfer and Susan Hauert with Mrs. Muriel Jockish and Richard Frakes as guardian and associate guardian.

Washing Linen

Linen is one fabric that does well in the presence of heat, so it can be washed in plenty of hot soap or detergent suds and rinses. Then press it while quite damp. Use a hot iron for a smooth, lustrous finish.

Weekend Is Seeing Busy Times

By MOLLY MARIN

On Vancouver Island, British Columbia, today for their son's graduation are the Arthur H. Collbrans of Belvedere. They flew north Thursday to see James Collbran graduate and give the valedictory address for the seniors at Shawnigan Lake School, where he has been the first boy from the United States to be appointed "head boy" for the school. James soon will leave for Europe on the school tour, and as a member of the tennis team he will participate in meets in England, Dublin and Scotland with similar boys school teams. Afterward he will tour the Continent and will stay for a time on the Riviera. He will enter University of Pacific in the fall.

Missing the graduation ceremony was the Collbrans' daughter, Cindy, who is spending a year with the Red Cross in Vietnam, and after three months is now at a village outside of Plaiku. She reports that the spirit of camaraderie is marvelous, her mother says. The Collbrans will return to Belvedere tomorrow.

THE WEEKEND is seeing busy times—The Stinson Beach home of the Martin Skewes-Coxes was the scene of a welcome back luncheon today for William and Barbara Bentley and the H. Boyd Seymours Jr. . . . The Alan McLenegans of Kentfield will be feted at a silver anniversary party tomorrow by her parents, the Wallace E. Scotts at their home in Belvedere . . . The Kirk Underhills of Belvedere will be patrons tonight for the birthday ball marking the natal day of Queen Elizabeth II at the Fairmont tonight. He is a leader in the English Speaking Union.

HOSTING A reception for 50 guests at their Mill Valley home for wives and members of the Presbytery of the Redwoods were the Rev. and Mrs. George F. Walker. Assisting the hosts were the Rev. and Mrs. Alan Searles of Vallejo and the Rev. and Mrs. Henry Kent of San Rafael. The reception was in honor of the Rev. and Mrs. Wesley C. Baker, San Rafael, who are moving to New York City in August; the Rev. and Mrs. David F. Barnett Jr., Santa Rosa, who are moving next month to pastor a church in the Sacramento Presbytery and the Rev. Marie Hubbel, McKinleyville, who is moving in early September to Chicago. Miss Hubbel is returning to McCormick Seminary for further graduate study.

ENTERTAINER GUEST OF DOGGY SET

Entertainer Mary Goodneighbor was the guest of Mesdames Rowland Darnell and Jefferson Greer of the Black Point doggy set for champagne luncheon at The Dock in Tiburon yesterday. Miss Goodneighbor, who also is widely known in East Coast dog show society for her Good Neighbor Kennels Welsh Corgis, is vacationing in San Francisco from her New Jersey home.

Following luncheon, the trio visited the Tiburon home of Sidney Reynolds, recently of Boston, who is recuperating from surgery. Reynolds is co-owner of Herman Digby, the corgi who won best local dog in show honors at last September's Sir Francis Drake Kennel Club show.

Miss Goodneighbor, professionally known on stage as "Irma the Body," is an ecdysiast.

Classes To Begin

An eight-week women's physical fitness course will be held Tuesday and Thursdays starting Tuesday at 10 a.m. at Mill Valley Community and Youth Center. The one-hour classes are sponsored by the parks and recreation department.

Kathleen McNaboe Is Bride In St. Anselm's Ceremony

In a 2 p.m. ceremony at St. Anselm's Church in San Anselmo on June 10, Kathleen McNaboe of San Anselmo became the bride of Richard Denison.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McNaboe of San Anselmo.

For her wedding the bride wore a white Chantilly lace and silk A-line gown with modified train.

Joan McNaboe was maid of honor for her sister and bridesmaids were Patricia McNaboe, also a sister of the bride and Elaine Denison, the bridegroom's sister. They wore pink linen Empire dresses.

Dennis Anderson served the bridegroom as best man and ushering were Jeffrey Reynolds, Anthony Silveira and John and Thomas McNaboe, the bride's brothers.

A reception followed the ceremony at Deer Park Villa in Fairfax.

The bride was graduated from Marin Catholic High School and the University of California at Davis. She is also the sister of Gerald McNaboe of San Anselmo.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Denison of Broderick, Calif., was graduated from the University of California at Berkeley. He is also the brother of Linda and Edward Denison and Mesdames Charles Harris of Ripon and Stewart Gitlin of New York City.

The couple will reside in Chicago.

Stains Come Out In Sudsy Water

NEW YORK (UPI)—When a picnic or a car trip leaves you with grease or tar stains to tackle, remember this: pure fats and oils usually come out in sudsy water, if you give special attention to the spots.

Cleaning experts say for tar-like or heavy greases, rub the spots with lard, then wash in very hot soap or detergent suds.

DEEP STEAM Wall-to-Wall Carpet Cleaning
This unique new process cleans deep and yet treats the finest carpet with loving care . . .

CLEANS DEEP actually removes soil from both the pile of the carpet and the carpet backing. It does not scrub it deeper into the fabric, that's the big difference.

GENTLE ACTION uses no brushes or scrubbing action and does not distort the pile of your carpet, so your carpet will not have that washed look.

MOISTURE CONTROL the cleaning unit controls the steam, which carries the cleaning agent, so that it penetrates only to the carpet backing.

RESTORES PILE the powerful extraction process removes moisture immediately, thus avoiding shrinkage, and lifts matted pile to "like new" appearance.

SANITARY sterilizes and removes all foreign matter, thus assisting in some allergy cases.

SAFE PROCESS this steam clean process was scientifically developed especially for the professional carpet cleaner. It is GUARANTEED to be COMPLETELY SAFE for all fabrics under all conditions.

ECONOMICAL reduces the need for frequent professional cleaning because it removes the deeply embedded soil and leaves no residue in the carpet fibers to collect dirt. Thoroughly cleaned carpets wear much longer—all this and moth proofing, too!

SOIL EXTRACTED—NOT SCRUBBED DEEPER,
That's the Difference!

THIS DEEP STEAM PROCESS IS GUARANTEED TO BE COMPLETELY SAFE ON ALL FABRICS UNDER ALL CONDITIONS!

Have your loose rugs and furniture steam cleaned at our plant

State Budget Sure To Be Compromise

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Senate fiscal experts—pushing a $5.10 billion budget—left Gov. Ronald Reagan the choice today of accepting more money than he asked or using his blue pencil to make potentially unpopular cuts.

"The governor has the last whack at it," said Sen. George Miller Jr., D-Martinez, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, which sent the budget to the floor yesterday.

The action cleared the way for a Senate floor vote Monday or Tuesday, Miller said. The vote would return the bill to the Assembly, which will turn it down—throwing the whole budget issue, as usual, into the hands of a two-house conference committee.

Facing the committee is the budget deadline — midnight, June 30, the end of the fiscal year.

With the budget out of the way, Miller said Senate fiscal committees will go to work on a tax increase to balance the budget.

A cut-down Reagan tax bill—trimmed from more than $1 billion down to $872 million—will be heard by the Senate Revenue and Taxation Committee Monday.

Reagan's economy plans were hard hit by the Senate committee—just as they had met opposition in the Assembly last week.

The Senate committee approved a 6.5 per cent salary hike for University of California faculty, plus a 3.1 per cent increase in their fringe benefits. In addition, professors in some key areas — medicine, engineering, law and business administration, would get an additional 1 per cent in pay.

State college professors were voted a 8.5 per cent pay increase, along with 1.9 per cent more in fringe benefits.

Reagan had asked only a 5 per cent pay raise for faculty of both the university and the colleges.

All but ignoring Reagan's elimination of some 3,700 Mental Hygiene Department jobs, the Senate committee restored money for some 2,000 medical workers in state mental hospitals.

And money for all 13 state service centers in big city slums threatened with racial strife was restored.

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

THE GOVERNOR

Rafferty—Gov. Ronald Reagan was endorsed for President by Public Instruction Supt. Max Rafferty

THE SENATE

Committees:

Budget — The finance committee sent to the floor its version of the 1967-68 state budget. It totaled $5.104 billion, which was $50 million less than the Assembly budget and $44.8 million more than that suggested by Governor Reagan.

Texts — The education committee approved legislation designed to make new school textbooks more easily available for public inspection. The bill was the outgrowth of the controversy over the text "Land of the Free." (AB279—Collier, R-Los Angeles.)

THE ASSEMBLY

Passed:

Glue—Makes it a crime to drive a vehicle while under the influence of fumes from glue. To Senate. (AB2430—Wilson, R-San Diego.)

Birds—Gives protected bird status to Bluejays and Black-Billed Magpies. To Senate. (AB1105—McGee, R-Van Nuys.)

Committee actions:

Vote—The industrial relations committee killed legislation requiring labor unions to conduct secret ballot referendums before calling strikes or signing contract agreements. (AB1709—Conrad, R-Sherman Oaks.)

Board — The industrial relations committee killed a measure creating a state mediation board with power to intervene in any labor dispute and make issues known to the public.(AB1651 — Conrad, R-Sherman Oaks.)

Radio, Lamp Won In Art Contest

Twelve-year-old Candy Whitmore, sixth grader at Adaline S. Kent School, has won a transistor radio and a high intensity lamp in a national art contest for children sponsored by the Parents Magazine Culture Institute.

Miss Whitmore, daughter of Gordon Whitmore of 79 Francis Avenue, Larkspur, won a second prize in the senior division for her "astheometry" entry, done with needle and thread on construction paper.

A second grader at Adaline Kent School, Elizabeth Wilkins, daughter of Mrs. Nancy Wilkins of Larkspur, won an honorable mention in the contest's junior division.

Women's Art Show

A display of works by French women artists will open June 26 at the Musee D'art International on Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael. Artists include Yolande Ardissone, Yvette Alde, Elizabeth Guggenheim and Helene d'Andlau. The gallery is open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Survey Finds Split In Tomales Faculty

satisfaction survey" in order to create a basis for discussion of teachers' problems. As Trustee Jean Adams put it: "To open up lines of communications."

James Williamson, CTA personnel standards executive, told the trustees and faculty that the survey made no claim to verifying the teachers' favorable and unfavorable opinions. However, he said, those opinions do point out "problem areas" where the facts should be sought by the faculty, the administration and the school board.

A problem area, Williamson said, existed when disapproval was expressed by 40 per cent or more of the faculty; from 30 to 39 per cent disapproval indicated a "potential problem;" below 30 per cent, no problem.

The survey, consisting of 91 questions answered by the teachers, was divided into nine categories: working conditions, job security, status, faculty relations, principal-teacher relations, confidence in the administration, school board, educational values, general reaction to the district.

Working conditions were largely satisfactory with only two complaints — aside from those about old building — hitting over 40 on the problem scale: inadequate classroom equipment (43), and too much classroom interruption (57).

Lack of tenure in Marin's only non-tenure district was the sole problem (68) cited under job security.

There were no problems under "status" and 82 per cent said, "Teachers are respected in this school community."

The teachers' relations with each other fared worst in the survey, which quoted these faculty comments: "division between old-timers and newcomers" and "teacher conflict is a major source of dissatisfaction — stems from poor communications."

As is the case in most districts where "staff satisfaction surveys" are taken, the superintendent, Anthony Matulich, came in for some hard knocks in his other role as principal. Of 17 questions relating to the principal, 11 fell in the problem range.

On these, as in much else, the faculty was fairly evenly divided on all but five complaints: lack of clear instructions (64), failure to back up teachers in disciplining students (68), not enough special help for new teachers (75), not usually available when needed (71), not enough praise for a job well done (68).

The teachers, however did give their principal-superintendent high marks for : sense of humor (82), not divulging confidential information (82) and showing no favoritism among teachers (72).

There were 12 problem areas among the 21 questions on confidence in the administration.

The three main ones were: dissatisfaction with teaching supervision (71), inefficient operation of the school (75), pupil absenteeism (71).

The school board and superintendent were found by 89 per cent to get along without noticeable friction, but 54 per cent felt teachers were treated more like hired hands thatn professional employees and 47 per cent did not think they were paid all the district could afford.

The faculty was evenly divided on the school's educational values, creating these problem areas: the school's pupil promotion policy (50), meeting the needs of most of the pupils (50), inadequate eductional standards (47).

The general reaction to the district showed 54 per cent of the teachers declining to "recommend this school . . . as a good place to work."

CTA's Williamson told the teachers that many of the problems would have to be solved by them.

Trustee Jean Adams said, "We knew there were factions within the faculty before this report.

Trustee Roy A. Parks said, "We can't make you get together."

English teacher Kathryn Lawson replied, "Whatever the survey indicates, we had it done and are willing to work on it."

The faculty appointed a committee of three teachers — Clinton Purcell, James Kovalik and Robert de la Vergne — to study the report and to meet with the whole faculty in July both to define and solve the school's problems in cooperation with the superintendent and the board of trustees.

NO BOTTICELLI TABLEAU FOR MARIN, MAN

There was something reminiscent of Botticelli's Venus about three hippies seen bathing in a pool at the base of the Kent Lake spillway near Lagunitas.

Like the legendary goddess of love and beauty, the two men and one woman arose from the waters nude.

Melvin J. Muzinich of the Marin Municipal Water District saw them Wednesday and they were warned that nakedness in a public place is against established law and that if they did it again they would be arrested. A report was made by the Sheriff's Office today.

Entertainers Plan Scholarships Show

Gary Philp with Joe Corporon will present a show called "The Thirsty Ear" at the Mill Valley Golf Clubhouse tomorrow at 8 p.m. for the benefit of the Pacific Day School Scholarship Fund.

The two artists perform stories, sometimes with actions, guitar or song and the program will include items by Ray Bradbury and James Thurber.

Library Readies Youth Program

Sausalito Library's annual children's summer program starts next week and, for the first time, features a story hour for school-age children on Tuesdays at 3:30 p.m.

Conducting the six-week program will be Mrs. Margaret (Dolly) Georgetti and Mrs. Janet Gartner. Mrs. Georgetti also will continue her story hour for pre-school children Thursday at 3:30 p.m.

Theme of the reading program is "haunt your public library." Mysteries and science fiction will be featured.

Organ Recital Set

Alexander Post, head of the organ department at San Francisco State College, will present an organ recital Friday at 10 a.m. in the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo. He will perform French music from the 18th to the 20th Century.

Conservatory Theater Has Equity Woes

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The American Conservatory Theater has been forced to cancel its anticipated 1968 winter-spring season in Chicago.

The Actors Equity, representing the professional actors, demanded the company pay "road tour" rates for the Chicago run, which director William Ball said would add $200,000 to a deficit already expected to reach $400,000 for the 22 - week Midwest season.

This also put in doubt the highly acclaimed Theater's future in San Francisco. ACT has a firm arrangement in San Francisco for its season running through February, 1968, but its future after that was partly based on the assumption that it would perform both in Chicago and San Francisco.

Ball said the group does not wish to undertake short runs anywhere because this does not enable it to have regular try-out" a program to assure conwas optimistic "we can work out"a program to assure continuation of the company.

SHAKESPEARE FESTIVAL

ACT Performers To Take Forest Meadows Roles

Some of the outstanding members of the American Conservatory Theater, San Francisco, will make appearances at the new Forest Meadows Theater, San Rafael during the seventh season of Marin Shakespeare Festival which opens July 15.

Premier production will be "Twelfth Night" with "King Lear" opening July 21 and running concurrently. Curtain time at all performances will be 8:30 p.m.

Among the cast will be Robert Feero, who appeared in ACT's "Tartuffe" and "Superman;" John Talt, who has also performed with ACT; and Herman Poppe, who has acted with the Oregon Shakespeare Festival.

Playing Regan in "King Lear" will be Hope Alexander, daughter of the Mara Alexander, Bay Area actress and teacher.

In the role of Viola in "Twelfth Night" and Goneril in "King Lear" will be Kathleen Thompson, who has just completed a season of Shakespeare in Detroit and with the University of Michigan.

Volunteers are still required for technical work and to play small parts in the productions, said a spokesman for the festival at its Forest Meadows office.

Youth Cited After His Car Hits Girl

Petra L. Martin, 19, of 4 Timothy Avenue, San Anselmo, was cited by police yesterday for failure to yield to a pedestrian in the crosswalk after the car he was driving struck a Lagunitas girl at Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Saunders Avenue.

Barbara Wilson, 15, was knocked to the pavement about 12:30 p.m. as she was leaving Sir Francis Drake High School. She was treated at Marin General Hospital.

ART REVIEW

Printmakers Display Dedication To Skill

By LAURA DEVENDORF

Many people paint as a hobby but a printmaker-hobbyist would be a rare bird indeed.

The technical mastery, incredible patience and often, brute strength required by the medium would seem to frustrate other than the dedicated or accomplished artist and some strong support for that idea is the June print show at Gallery III at 69 Tamal Vista Boulevard, Corte Maders.

There isn't an inept print in sight in this exhibit by six Bay Area printmakers. It is notable for its technical excellence but in particular, for the fresh and diverse concepts it presents within the limits of the medium.

Landscapes as Patricia Tobacco Forrester etches them are endless hairlined entanglements of leafless trees. Black and white and painstakingly literal, they could not seem more removed from the fairy tale feeling of Albert Garvey's densely colored work.

For Garvey, a landscape is an imaginary forest or castle and mountains all of which could be colorful plates from a children's story book.

Neither artist has the slightest thing in common with the sophistication of Eleanore Bender's cosmic format. For some time Mrs. Bender has been exploring her mysterious galaxies and machines but now she is adding bold areas of color to her detailed encrusted surfaces which are as rich as any around.

Technically, Dennis Beall works much the same way. His surfaces too, are heavy with embossing, really massive for the usual feeling you get from the medium. His use of black, red, white and blue, of huge eyes and symbols is striking but his play on shapes is even more so.

In "New Gothic," a missile shape is the same as a gothic church window and the impact of the repeated shape is heightened by other symbols such as military abbreviations and a cross.

Content, again, is perhaps the strongest point of Eleanor Rappe's prints. Many are like old tintypes but as she moves into several where men and vultures share emphasis she has some provocative things to suggest about man — as does Helen Breger.

Set mostly in Mediterranean countries, Mrs. Breger's prints capture the national characteristics of the land and people. With a somber use of tone and line, a massing of blacks, a shot of vigorous color or the half-seen expression on a face she imbues her scenes with a compelling strength and sadness. She gives you a lot to consider as do all six artists, individually. Together, it's the idea of the limitless expression possible in a medium too many have ignored as too difficult for such limited possibilities.

Pro Musica To Sing At Organists Parley

Marin Pro Musica, directed by Wilbur F. Russell, will present the program at the opening banquet Monday of the Far Western Regional Conference of the American Guild of Organists.

The banquet will be at 8 p.m. in the Gold Room of the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco. The group will sing music commemorating the 400th anniversary of Monteverdi and the 85th anniversary of Stravinsky.

Am I Appealing?

Houses, like women, are appealing to different people. Some like them large; others like them brightly painted; others like them more subdued. Some like a large front yard; others a large back yard. Everyone looks for an attractive one. My statistics are:

★ 3 bedrooms
★ Carpets
★ Drapes
★ Patio
★ Double garage
★ Large fen. back yard

Do I appeal to you? You won't be sure until you look at me. Call 892-3215 or come by 28 PLAZA DEMIRA. You'll be glad you did. I'm a friendly one!

Ross

MY FAIR LADY
Eliza Doolittle would feel right at home in this stately country mansion with its touches of Edwardian grandeur and magnificent English-style gardens. Built in 1906 and modernized over the years, this venerable estate has seen the great and near-great enter its baronial hall and gather in the drawing room and high-ceilinged music room. The dining room, with its breakfast alcove, has seated as many as 30 for dinner, and social room with wet bar will hold dozens for more casual entertaining. Eight bedrooms, 6½ baths, 2 caretakers' cottages — all within the 2⅓ acres of grounds in the heart of old Ross.

★ ONLY $20,950!
The emphasis is definitely on the price in this little home with the big value. And best of all, there is no need for "fixing up." Already beautifully maintained, this two bedroom home is located on a quiet, dead-end street in an established area of nice homes. Close to schools, commuting and shopping. The kitchen is all-electric with built-in stove, dishwasher and disposal. A honey of a home for honeymooners or a retirement retreat for grandparents.

i BEST-SELLER WANT-ADS

He Started Getting An Education Early

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI)—Donald Couch has been "in education" since he was six weeks old. He and his family moved into the basement of Alexander Hogg Elementary School, where his father took a job as custodian, back in the 1930s.

Couch stayed with it. He went to public school, then Texas Christian University, then taught at Oakhurst Elementary School. He became principal nine years ago and still holds that job.

An Infinite Variety That Custom Cannot Cloy

Marin spreads beneath the aerial camera's eye her rich variety: her marshlands and mountains, open space and developed land, her waterways and highways. Corte Madera's tidy homes beside their small lagoons occupy the foreground. North of the larger lagoon and across the empty ground is Redwood High School, beyond which lies the developing Greenbrae Marina. To the east of the school are offices and stores and warehouses fronting on Highway 101. The rhythmic concrete curves of Greenbrae overpass carry the highway across Corte Madera Creek. West of the highway the homes of Greenbrae occupy their rolling ridge. East of the highway is the Hutchinson Co. rock quarry. The highway continues north over California Hill to San Rafael, whose valley stretches from the populous west to the empty eastern tidelands on the bay. Above San Rafael tower her hills, the houses progressively thinning out as they mount the slopes. Beyond the hills, unseen, lies more of the varied work of man and nature that is Marin.

What Can We Do About Drugs?

By BILL STALL

SACRAMENTO (AP)—"What can we do?"

That, in effect, is the anguished plea of a mother wondering how close her children are to the lures of drugs and narcotics — the dexies, LSD, marijuana, heroin.

Or worse yet, if they already have passed the temptation point and have been goofed up on bennies, taken wild trips on LSD or have flown high on pot.

"Why not publish the hows and what to do?" the mother asks.

Today, California schools have a new tool in fighting the problem of drug use by American youths: a 130-page teacher guide and source book entitled "Drug Abuse."

The anxious mother or father will find no easy answers in it and may be chagrined to read that the older generation must shoulder some of the blame, due to setting a poor example.

But Dr. Max Rafferty, the state school chief, says, "I firmly believe that this is the best weapon yet developed in the war against drug usage."

The handbook gives teachers the latest facts, says Rafferty, as well as advice on "how to put this information across to young people."

The goal of California's drug education program is set forth this way, in the preface to "Drug Abuse":

"The ultimate solution, if one exists, to the problem of drug abuse rests not in the control of drugs, but in the development of human beings who are resistant to drug abuse.

"In the final analysis, education about drugs may be deemed successful only if it leads the young person to say 'NO' when he is confronted with the possibility of drug abuse."

When should this education process start?

The crucial period is even before Johnny or Sally is a teen-ager, says "Drug Abuse," compiled by Angela Kitzinger of San Diego State College and Patricia J. Hill of the State Education Department.

"From the latest available California statistics, it appears that significant us of both dangerous drugs and marijuana begins in the early 'teens. If education is to serve a preventive function, it should reach pupils . . . no later than when they are in the seventh or eighth grade."

The student must have a solid grounding in the dangers of all types of drugs and narcotics well before he is in high schoo, the authors advise.

LSD, the illusion-producing drug, is singled out as a particular danger.

"Because the use of LSD has created many serious problems in recent years and is threatening to create many more, instruction about this potentially harmful drug should begin as early as it is discreet and feasible to do so.'

Curiosity to a large extent, the report concludes: curiosity about who they are and what they want to do with their lives.

"They are searching for identity; they have many conflicts. They often rebel against their parents and other adults. They are looking for fun, are exploring new things and are responsive to the persuasion of their peers."

Most high school students are headed toward responsible citizenship. But teachers are advised that some already "may be headed toward narcotic use. Drug abuse instruction may help some of them, but not most of them."

These youngsters might have been helped, if personality problems and character disorders had been detected early in their school life, the handbook says.

Another group of students is at the crossroads.

"Instruction on dangerous drugs and chemicals, marijuana, LSD, and narcotics is of primary importance for these youth since they are quite vulnerable to the allurements of experimenting . . ."

The handbook outlines a course of instruction much like that of a science, history or English class. First come the fundamentals: identification of the different substances; what effects they have, on both the body ond mind; what can be done to help the addict or user; what laws are in effect.

Teachers are encouraged to require students to do research, hold frank group discussions and meet with doctors, law enforcement officers and druggists to learn their views.

While the basis of the whole course is that drugs are bad ("marijuana is a total outlaw"), the suggested course material and test questions propose a factual approach. A sample test question:

"True or False: Marijuana contains a powerful chemical that appears to incite its users to commit acts of violence. (False.)"

Or:

"The recent increase in sex crimes throughout the United States is attributable, in part, to the increase in narcotic use." (False — The guide notes that "in general, the use of heroin does not lead to the commission of sex crimes, but rather to a reduction or obliteration of sexual interest and activity."

The handbook specifically cautions, "In no instance shall the instruction involve the use of erroneous information or the use of scare tactics."

Class projects proposed include this example on LSD:

"Organize the class into small groups and direct each one to think of reasons why any young person might use LSD. Have each group list its reasons on the chalkboard. Then discuss these with the class. Encourage the pupils to give their opinions as to (1) how the victim got trapped into using the drug in the first place: and (2) how he might have avoided getting trapped."

Through study and discussion, the state's top educators hope, youngsters will discover the importance of demanding real solutions to problems rather than illusionary ones, sought through drugs, or no solutions at all.

Another feature of the handbook is a guide to teachers in detecting the possible drug or narcotics user.

Truancy may be the first tipoff, the handbook advises. The student taking pills or drugs likely will lose interest in school activities and work, drift away from his classmates or "form associations among those who share this 'new and exciting' way of life. He is evasive and uncommunicative if questioned."

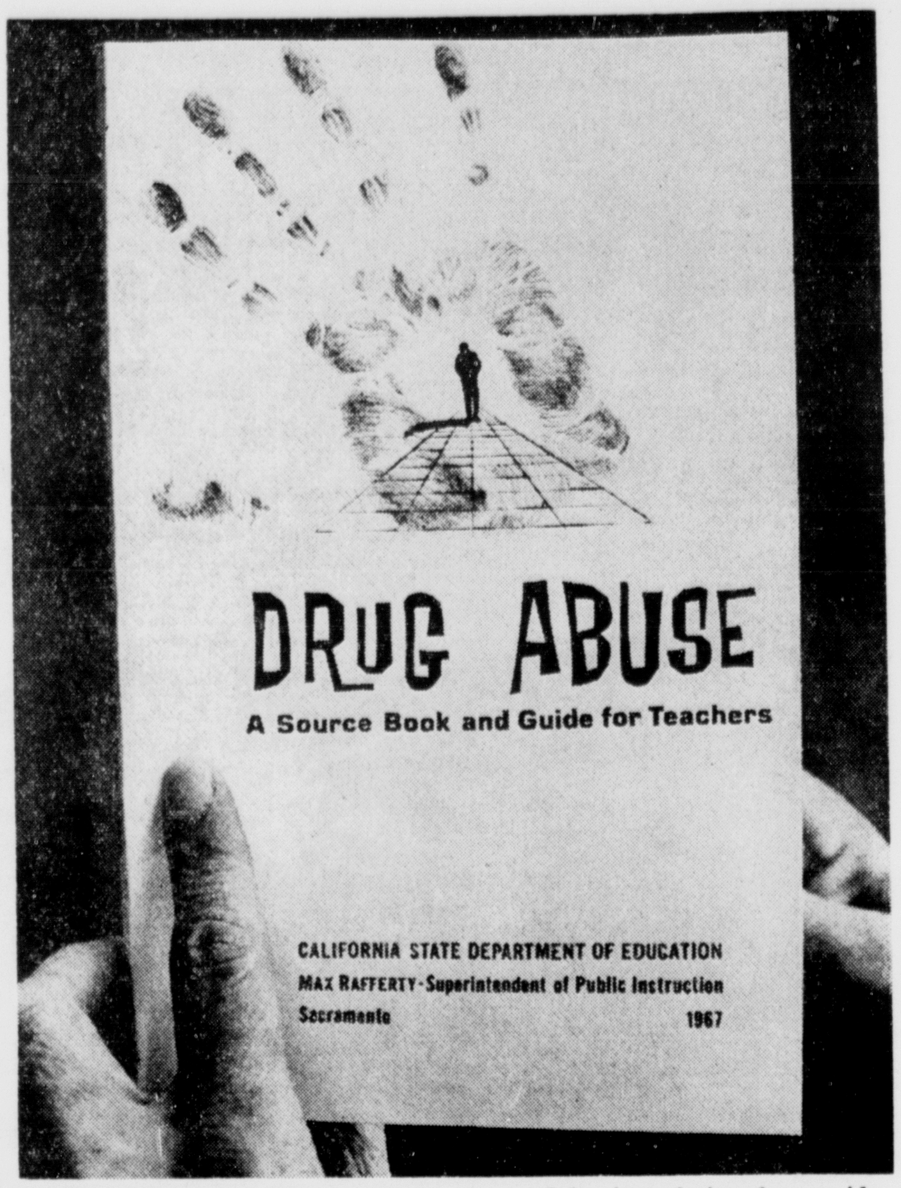
Detection is detailed on through the dangerous drug user, the glue sniffer, the marijuana smoker, the LSD user, and the narcotics user.

But teachers are cautioned against jumping to conclusions. And they are advised that they aren't expected to follow the guide to the letter.

The teaching will be most fruitful if tuned as closely as possible to the individual. The entire community, including parents' groups, should be organized to help combat the problem, and the student should be aware of the effect of drug use on the rest of society — the "squares."

From the earliest grades, the educators advise, "The strongest deterrent to drug abuse in the child's future lies in his strength of character— in his ability and determination to face life and enjoy it through the wholesome and constructive use of his own resources."

From the earliest grades, the educators advise, "The strongest deterrent to drug abuse in the child's future lies in his strength of character — in his ability and determination to face life and enjoy it through the wholesome and constructive use of his own resources."



GUIDE — This is the cover of the booklet "Drug Abuse" which will be available to teachers throughout the state at the start of the next school year. It has been designed as an aid in solving the narcotics problem among youth in California. (Independent-Journal photo)

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Certain Types Of Cancer, Including Lung, Can Be Halted

VAN DELLEN

Certain types of cancer are preventable. Almost 200 years ago Sir Percival Pott, an English physician, noticed that scrotal malignancies occurred almost solely among chimney sweeps. More than a century later we found that soot contains substances that cause cancer of the skin.

Before the turn of the century an unusually large number of lead miners in Czechoslovakia suffered from cancer of the lung. Scientists found later that the mines also contained radioactive uranium which accounted for the lesions. Lung cancer still remains one of our most common malignancies. The American Cancer Society estimates that 59,000 Americans will develop the condition in 1967. Of these, approximately 52,000 will die. Seventy per cent of these cases and deaths could have been prevented if there was no cigaret smoking.

THE WAY a person dies is important. Last fall 144 were killed in Aberfan (Wales) when a pile of slag slid down into the village. It was a shocking catastrophe and plans were made to ensure that a similar disaster could not occur elsewhere. Meanwhile Parliament Minister Dr. John Dunwoody told the Commons that in Britain lung cancer fatalities take more lives than would be lost in one Aberfan disaster every other day.

Unusual ways of dying are newsworthy whereas dying of cancer or in a highway accident is so routine that no one except the immediate family is concerned. The individual who succumbs to a malignancy is just as dead as the Aberfanian killed under the slag pile, but his demise will not have the same impact on the public even though lung cancers are as easy to prevent as landslides.

CANCERS OF the skin are largely preventable. For several decades we have known that excessive exposure to the sun produces these lesions. The farmer, sailor, and fisherman who must spend long hours in the sun should wear a brimmed hat and a long-sleeved shirt. The person who gets into trouble is the sun worshipper who takes pride in a deep tan.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

FOUL BREATH

F. F. writes: Can bad breath come from bronchial secretions?

REPLY

Yes. Any purulent secretion in the back of the throat or from the nose or bronchi can give rise to a foul odor. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on bad breath.

SEVERE CRAMP

Mrs. B. writes: Could leg cramps cause a blood vessel to break?

REPLY

Now and then a severe leg cramp is followed by a black-and-blue spot over the calf, indicating hemorrhage into a muscle or under the skin.

BONY GROWTH

L. I. writes: Should an exostosis on the left knee be taken out if it swells after the slightest injury?

REPLY

Yes, if it is your physician's opinion that the bony growth is producing distress.

SLEEPLESS

D. M. writes: How long can a person live without sleep?

REPLY

Animals have been kept awake for 14 days but, to my knowledge, there is no information on the lethal period of wakefulness in humans.

Today's Health Hint — Proper eating habits are needed to stay lean.

Former Larkspur Official Divorced

The wife of Larkspur's first city manager, Ronald E. Piper, was granted an uncontested interlocutory decree of divorce in Marin Superior Court yesterday.

Aurora Piper had alleged cruelty.

Piper resigned as Larkspur's city manager in February of 1966 after nine years, to enter private business.

Lagunitas Girl Hit By San Anselmo Auto

Barbara Wilson, 15, of Lagunitas was treated yesterday at Marin General Hospital for bruises suffered when struck by a car at 12:35 p.m. at the intersection of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Saunders Avenue, San Anselmo police reported.

The driver, Petra Leigh Martin, 19, of 4 Timothy Court, San Anselmo, was cited for failure to yield right of way to a pedestrian.

TEACHERS DUE NEW HANDBOOK ON NARCOTICS

The Independent-Journal recently published a series of Associated Press articles on the drug-narcotics problem among youth in California.

The accompanying article was prepared to answer more questions about the problem. Some answers — but no easy ones — may be found in a new teacher's handbook, recently issued by the State Department Of Public Instruction in Sacramento.

Copies of the handbook are being made available to school superintendents throughout the state, prepared for use when school takes up again in the fall.

Several copies already have arrived in Marin. School officials are being told they may order more copies from the office of Dr. Max Rafferty in Sacramento on request.

Novatans To Inspect Santa Rosa Downtown

The Novato Downtown Study Committee will visit Santa Rosa Thursday to study that city's improvement of its business area.

At its meeting last Thursday, the committee heard a report on effects of the proposed freeway through Novato from City Planner Robert Lagle. The committee asked Lagle to furnish a layout of plans for alteration of the DeLong-Diablo Avenue intersection with Highway 101 for the next committee meeting.

Slam-Bang Approach Can Sometimes Shorten Agony

The slam-bang approach to a bridge hand gets the agony over quickly.

This isn't as good as making your contract, but it's better than losing slowly.

South won the first trick with the ace of diamonds and led out the ace of trumps and a low trump.

The idea appealed to West, who co-operated by taking his second trump trick, too.

West then led the 10 of diamonds, forcing South to ruff with his last trump.

South led a heart to the ace and returned the queen of clubs for a finesse, but West won and cashed a diamond trick, defeating the contract.

It was all over in a trice, but still North wasn't happy.

"Why were you in such a hurry to draw trumps:" he wanted to know, but South had a new reason to hurry.

He wanted to get on with the next hand.

GIVE UP TRICK

After winning the first trick with the ace of diamonds South shouls lead a low club and give the trick up to the king of clubs.

West takes the king of clubs and returns a diamond, forcing South to ruff.

Now South can afford to lead a low trump (but not the ace)

West wins and leads another diamond, forcing South to ruff again.

South cashes the ace of spades and runs the clubs.

West can ruff when he likes, but then declarer easily has the rest with top hearts, good clubs and dummy's remaining trumps.

ANSWER: Bid two diamonds.

Bid two diamonds first, and make up your mind later whether to raise hearts or bid notrump.

National Work Draft Studied

NEW DELHI (AP) — The central government is considering inaugurating some form of national service for students.

The plan, as drawn up by representatives of the defense, education and home ministries would provide a variety of nation-building activities, including construction work, for students during holidays and leisure hours.

A conference of university officials is expected to discuss the scheme. India does not have compulsory military training.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, June 17, the 168th day of 1967 with 197 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full stage. The Morning star is Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars, Venus and Jupiter.

Born on this day in 1921 was William Anderson, commander of the submarine "Nautilus," the first to make an undersea crossing of the North Pole.

On this day in history:

In 1775, 3,500 British soldiers attacked 1,000 American patriots on Bunker Hill across the Charles River from Boston. The British lost more than 1,000 men a nd the Americans lost 441.

In 1928, Amelia Earhart became the first woman to fly across the Atlantic in a plane piloted by Wilmer Stultz.

In 1953, residents of the Russian-occupied zone of Berlin staged mass anti-Communist riots protesting working and living conditions.

In 1965, John Patrick Cody was appointed Roman Catholic archbishop of Chicago.

A thought for the day — British poet Sir John Suckling said: "Women are the baggage of life: they are troublesome, and hinder us in the great march, yet we cannot be without them."

SAN RAFAEL FACES SEWER PROBLEMS

Tight Budget Prompts Suggestion For New Sewer Plans; Bond Issue May Be Required

San Rafael's Public Works Department is requesting funds to bolster the city's storm and sanitary and sewer systems, which were strained in January floods.

The problem is that there's not enough money in the proposed 1967-68 budget to meet all requests for capital improvements.

City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen has advised the council that if there is an urgent need for replacements and improvements for storm and sanitary systems, "thought should be given to a bond issue to do a complete program."

The proposed public works department budget totals $436,463, excluding a requested $415,000 in capital improvement projects.

The department's request alone totals more than there is available for capital improvement expenditures from the general fund.

The department's budget last year totaled $1,053,199 including $561,000 in capital improvements and $61,280 for street trees and parkways, an account since switched to the parks and recreation department.

The department has requested $20,000 for an engineering study on storm and sanitary sewers and $100,000 for improvement of sanitary sewers.

It also has requested $100,000 for the Bret Harte storm system and $75,000 for storm drain improvement and replacement.

Under streets and highways, it has requested $45,000 to repair storm damage to streets, $50,000 for resurfacing of streets and islands, and $25,000 for traffic signals at Fourth and C streets, Fourth and D streets and Fifth and E streets.

The breakdown on the proposed operating budget is street maintenance, $152,309; street sweeping, $38,388; street lighting and signals, $140,676; street painting, $25,862; storm and sanitary sewers, $55,576; parking meters, $2,180; and garage, $21,472.

The proposed budget doesn't include any additional personnel for the department.

The proposed capital outlay expenditures are a pick-up truck, $2,000, truck radio, $700, and paint machine, $1,500.

The proposed budget for a separate account entitled "public works-engineering and administration" is $141,986, down $4,484 from last year. The bulk of this budget, $131,256, is for personnel including supervisor of public works, city engineer, other engineers and office workers.

Hawkins Math Award Given At Tam High

Wayne S. Smith, Tamalpais high school freshman, was named Wednesday as the first winner of the school's annual David D. Hawkins Award for excellence in mathematics.

The award was presented by Mrs. Hawkins. Her husband, who died April 29, taught mathematics at the school.

Thirty-five freshmen competed for the award, which includes a $50 bond, letter of commendation and engraving of winners' names on a new plaque which will become a perpetual school trophy.

The award was established by the mathematics department.

Wayne, 15, is a son of Dr. and Mrs. Edward J. Smith, 275 Richardson Drive, Mill Valley.

Old Burglary Charge Dropped

A six-year-old burglary charge against Hosea Daniel Beck, 24, of Richmond, was dismissed in Marin Municipal Court yesterday by Judge Peter Allen Smith on recommendation of the district attorney's office.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Jerry Herman said witnesses are now unable to identify Beck as a suspect. Beck was accused of burgling Novato Firestone Store at 7374 Redwood Highway on Dec. 16, 1961.

Novato police arrested him June 1 on a warrant after he served time in Contra Costa County Jail.

Giant Problems Pile Up

With their injury list and losing streak mounting, the San Francisco Giants faced the unenviable chore of taking on the National League's two hottest teams with a briar patch lineup.

Following last night's 5-3 loss to the streaking St. Louis Cardinals, the crippled Giants take on the Redbirds again today and tomorrow at Candlestick Park before preparing for the two-game invasion of the league-leading Cincinnati Reds Monday and Tuesday.

Pitcher Lindy McDaniel was the latest Giant to be shelved, and his muscle pull below the right shoulder had a direct effect on Friday's setback — the team's third straight and sixth in eight games.

McDaniel, making his second start of the season, struck out Lou Brock and Curt Flood to open the game, but then pulled the muscle while pitching to Roger Maris, who doubled to left field.

Orlando Cepeda walked and Tim McCarver beat out an infield hit to load the bases.

Mike Shannon and Julian Javier then connected for two-run singles before McDaniel was lifted.

"Lindy was taped up below his shoulder before the game," said catcher Tom Haller. "He was pitching great until he re-aggravated the pull.

The 4-0 lead stood up and the Cards added a run in the fifth on a walk to Brock, and Maris' single. Pinch hitter Billy Sorrell singled to left in the bottom of the inning for the first run off winner Ray Washburn.

St. Louis, a winner in eight of its last nine games, was effectively checked by relievers Mike McCormick, Ray Sadecki and Frank Linzy after the first, but the Giants failed to capitalize on their scoring opportunities until the eighth.

In addition to McDaniel, who will be out a week, the injury list also shows Willie McCovey, hamstring muscle pull in right leg; Ollie Brown, groin injury, and righthander Juan Marichal, pinched nerve in neck.

$90,000 For Nate

The San Francisco Warriors turned their persuasive powers and pocketbook to high-scoring Rick Barry today after signing Nate Thurmond who thought of jumping across the bay to the Oakland club of the rival American Basketball Association.

Warrior owner Frank Mieuli announced yesterday he had signed the 6-foot-11-inch former Bowling Green State University center to a three-year contract.

Terms were not revealed. But sources close to the rugged rebounder believe he signed for about $90,000 a year.

Mieuli said the contract would place Thurmond "right up there" with Wilt Chamberlain of the Philadelphia 76ers and player coach Bill Russell of the Boston Celtics. Chamberlain and Russell each earn $100,000 or more a year.

"The deal is comparable to the one I got from Oakland but I decided to stay with Frank Mieuli and this club because I've always been happy here," said Thurmond.

Earlier, Thurmond had indicated that he would sign with Oakland if Barry, the top scorer in the National Basketball Association last season, went there.

Barry is expected to announce his plans in the next few days. He enjoys playing alongside Thurmond because Nate the Great can snare rebounds to set up Barry on the Warriors' fast break. The presence of Thurmond also takes some of the scoring pressure off Barry.

Singer Pat Boone, principal owner of the Oakland club, has reportedly offered Barry a fabulous package deal. The cash offer has been variously reported as being $100,000 per year for a three or five-year contract plus a lush deal in Oakland real estate and a possible start in show business after Barry's basketball days are over.

In addition, Barry's father-in-law, Bruce Hale, is the Oakland coach.

Al Kaline Has One Big Detractor—Al Kaline

Only a handful of men in the history of the game could play it any better than he can. Only two players in the league have a higher lifetime batting average. Only one man on the team he plays for ever hit more home runs. He is leading the league in batting, is second in runs-batted-in, and third in homers. He won a batting championship before he could vote. He never spent an hour in the minor leagues.

You would think they'd be measuring Al Kaline for a glass case of his own at Cooperstown. But, alas! he has his detractors.

I talked to one of them the other day—an obtuse fellow who is not at all impressed with Al Kaline.

His name is Al Kaline.

In a Ham tramck bar, if they didn't know who he was, Al Kaline would get a black eye for talking that way about Al Kaline. Get a load of this: "I don't think you can class me up with stars like Mays, Mantle, Frank Robinson or Clemente or Aaron," says Al Kaline. "I never did think that much of myself. I know I'm a good player because I get a good salary. But I think I'm just a pretty good player."

Some Guys Should Be Prosecuted

You had to hit yourself alongside the head to be sure you're hearing right.If Al Kaline is just a "pretty good" player, then a lot of guys in the league who send back signed contracts should be prosecuted for using the mails to defraud. It's like the punch line of the joke about the guy who got caught by his wife coming out of the blonde's stateroom. "Who you gonna believe? Me or your eyes?"

There were only five other players who started this season with 2,000 or more hits. There are only about a dozen in history who hit two home runs in one inning. But people are always willing to take your word for it if you think the least of yourself. If Al Kaline feels he's only a journeyman, pretty soon that'll make it unanimous.

He'd Be A Big Hero In New York

Part of the trouble is, Al Kaline doesn't LOOK like an American League slugger. Pale as a bookkeeper, slender, his collar is a modest size 16, he's unmuscled and looks as if he spent the last 14 years in a monastery, not an outfield. Part of the trouble, too, is the old familiar one—the Middle West is just Bridgeport with tornadoes. "If he played in New York," complained a traveling writer, "they'd run out of ticker tape. If he played in L.A., he'd be a sheriff in a TV western. But even in Detroit, they turn the conversation around to Mickey Cochrane and Hank Greenberg. You'd think he was the Edsel."

If Baseball had a consumer magazine, it would have to disagree. "Style," as we have noted, is a thing difficult to describe but easy to spot. Al Kaline may be the most stylish good hitter since Joe DiMaggio. The swing is as pure and effortless. The contact is as precise as if it had been milled. "Kaline has the best balance of any hitter I've ever pitched against," the pitcher, Bob Lee, once confided. "It's impossible to get him off stride."

Al's Secret Is Exquisite Timing

He doesn't meet the ball with the controlled savagery of a Frank Robinson, or the swift, snake-strike wrist-snap of a Henry Aaron. He doesn't have the brute strength of a Mickey Mantle, or the button-popping, cap-losing energetic jump at the ball of a Willie Mays. "He could hit it without losing a monocle," Charlie Dressen once observed.

He chokes up on the bat like a slap-hitting shortstop. He strikes out fewer times than any resident longball hitter in the game. You're surprised when the ball pumps off the bat and over the fence. It's like watching a girl throw a man with judo. The secret is exquisite timing.

He badly needs the exposure of a World Series so that the guys who know baseball only through the office pool won't think "Al Kaline" is a typo in an antacid ad. But—just as Frank Robinson proved last year—one determined super-star can mean the pennant difference in a closely-bunched league, and Al Kaline may be it. The guy he's got to convince is Al Kaline.

A SALTY DECATHLON

Marin Skipper, Mates Off On Dream Trans-Pac Race

By GARY TISCHLER

At approximately 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Bud Lowrie and crew started the first leg of a salty journey in wish-fulfillment.

Lowrie, a benign, friendly man who seems welded to boat and harbor, began what will turn out to be a mammoth 2,220-mile jaunt on water from Lowrie's Harbor in San Rafael, in a 44-foot Islander, Mr. Blanding's dreamhouse of the waterways.

The first leg of the journey will take him and his seven-man, one-girl crew to Los Angeles, from where they will venture out into the Pacific Ocean along with 71 other boats on the biennial Trans-Pacific Yacht Race that will wind up in Hawaii, hopefully 12 to 14 days later.

NO NOVICE

Lowrie will not exactly be a novice in this decathlon for sailors. He has crewed on other boats twice, in 1955 and 1957. But this will be his first time as skipper.

"I've wanted to do this for a long time," Lowrie said. "I guess I had better do it now than later."

Lowrie is 50 years old, half a century if you're inclined to be dour. Lowrie isn't. His enthusiasm for this race and sailing or boating is such that he looks as if he will be skippering boats for another 50 years with no trouble, be they 44-footers in the Pacific or El Toros down a placid canal.

The race will be something

Seals Name New Boss; Pilous Out

OAKLAND (AP) — The California Sseals are going into the new Western Division of the National Hockey League without Rudy Pilous, who was general manager and coach of the team last season in the Western Hockey League.

Pilous was fired yesterday as GM by owner-chairman Barry van Gerbig because of disagreement over operating policy. He previously had been replaced as coach by Bert Olmstead.

Now Olmstead also will take over as general manager.

Van Gerbig said he expects an amicable settlement for the final three years of Pilous' four-year contract but gave no hint what that might cost.

Bob Wilson, chief scout, was handed the additional task of director of player development.

Nicklaus Chases Palmer

SPRINGFIELD, N. J. (AP) — Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Billy Casper.

Like cream, the three superstars of the game moved to the top in the most prestigious of all the world's golf tournaments, the United States Open Championship, and are poised for the final two climatic rounds today and tomorrow.

Palmer, his jaw jutting in determination and his game in harness, looked like the charger of old when he swept over the steaming Baltusrol Golf Club course in a two-under-par 68 yesterday for 137 and a one-stroke lead over Nicklaus.

Finals On TV

Tomorrow's final holes of the National Open will be televised nationally by ABC (Channel 7) from 2-4 p.m., PDT.

Big Jack, the sweat streaming from his pink face, pounded out a 67 on the sweltering, 7,015 yard layout for 138. He was one stroke up on Casper, the first of the trio in the clubhouse, and appeared unconcerned about the heat, Palmer, Casper or anything else.

The cautious Casper, who beat Palmer in a playoff for the title last year after Arnie's now-famous collapse, took a careful, par 70 for 139 and declined to make a comment.

"I'd rather wait and see what the other guys do," the two-time champion said.

Behind him, at 140 came reed-slim Bruce Devlin of Australia, who had a solid 68; rookie pro Deane Beman, who had a 71, and Marty Fleckman, the 23-year-old amateur from Port Arthur, Tex., who led the first round with 67, then went to 73. Don January was alone at 69-72 —141.

MAJOR CASUALTIES

In all, 66 of the original field of 150 survived the cut to the low 60 and ties. It took a 148 to make it. Among the major casualties are former Open champions Gene Littler, 151, Tommy Bolt, 149, and Jack Fleck, 149.

The contrasting styles of the big three of Palmer, Nicklaus and Casper were more than evident.

Palmer, the golfing millionaire from Latrobe, Pa., was again the charger, challenging the course, gambling, putting body English on every shot and jerking cheers and groans from his vast army.

Nicklaus plodded sedately over the course, looking neither left nor right, except to note distances in his little black book, the book that goes with the swing that makes him perhaps the most feared golfer in the world today.

COLORLESS CASPER

Casper was bland as ever, and as colorless as the oatmeal he can't eat. He picked up a birdie on the second hole, stumbled to two bogeys on the back nine, then got even again on 17.

"I liked my round," Palmer said. "I hit every green but one and I missed few fairways. I had several chances for birdies that failed to fall. But, in all, I liked it."

Asked if he was thinking of going for Ben Hogan's Open scoring record of 276, Arnie grinned broadly and replied: "Not yet. I just want to win this tournament."

NCAA SHOWDOWN

Stanford Versus Arizona Staters

OMAHA, Neb. AP) — "Ric Brewer is just a little boy but real brilliant upstairs and good at changing speeds, so I like to use him against the big boys," said Lovette Hill, coach of Houston's amazing comeback kids.

Houston had just turned the 21st college World Series upside down as Brewer shut out potent Arizona State 3-0 on four hits and coach Hill won a home plate drawing, getting a bye into the championship finals.

So Arizona State and Stanford will be playing tonight, but not for the championship. The winner will play Houston in the title game, and surprised NCAA officials haven't decided whether it will be Sunday or Monday. The crowd last night was 11,761, a Series mark.

Just about everyone in the ball park was surprised except Hill and Brewer, a 5-foot-10, 165-pound senior right-hander who had done little to distinguish himself in two one-inning series relief jobs.

Houston didn't look like the same team which made 11 errors the first three Series games and lost its first game to Stanford 12-1.

Arizona State and Stanford will use their top pitchers tonight. ASU has Gary Gentry, 16-1 right-hander and national strikeout leader. Stanford has unbeaten Rod Poteete, 5-0, a tall rookie with the confusing windup. Both are rested.

Old Trick Sparks Reds Over L.A.

The way Chico Ruiz was sneaking up behind John Roseboro, you'd have thought the National League's best-dressed benchwarmer was wearing his $20 alligator shoes.

And watching Ruiz race down the first base line with the first Cincinnati hit off Los Angeles' Bill Singer in the sixth inning of last night's game, you'd have been convinced of it.

Ruiz beat out an infield single for Cincinnati's first hit and woke up the Reds with baseball's oldest ruse—the hidden ball trick—sparking a 3-2 victory over the Dodgers.

In other National League action, Chicago shaded New York 4-3 in 10 innings, Atlanta nipped Houston 9-8 in 10 innings, Philadelphia dropped Pittsburgh 5-3 and St. Louis took San Francisco 5-3.

Ruiz purchased his alligator shoes last winter while playing in the Venezuelan League.

The Reds' No. 1 handyman, explains his expensive footwear simply. "You sit on the bench, you have to look pretty."

He didn't look so pretty to Roseboro in the second inning last night. Ruiz, playing second base, had just taken the throw at first, covering on Singer's sacrifice.

Chico carried the ball with him as he returned to second and before Roseboro knew what was happening, Ruiz played tag, you're out.

Four innings later, the Reds still didn't have a hit. With two out, Leo Cardenas was hit by a pitched ball and Singer balked him to second. Then Ruiz tapped a ball to third and beat it out for a single.

He promptly stole second and then rode home with Cardenas on Vada Pinson's single. The Dodgers tied it in the bottom of the sixth, but Lee May's seventh inning homer put the Reds on top to stay.

Mel Queen hurled a four-hitter for his eighth victory in nine decisions. May's homer was his fourth and Ruiz' hidden ball trick his first.

of a family affair for Lowrie. Crewing with him are his son Lance, 25, and daughter Bonnie, 20, a student at College of Marin.

Bonnie will take on the imposing task of being den mother and cook for the rest of the crew.

"They were both raised around boats," Lowrie said. "They'll be fine. Lance was born on this dock."

The race starts July 4. In the meantime, Lowrie, Islander and crew will lay over in Los Angeles' Point Fermen Harbor, doublechecking, tuning and waiting.

Lowrie has been tuning since December when he bought the Islander. Despite this first-time try as a skipper, he thinks his chances are good.

"I figure we can do it in 14 days maximum. If we can do it in 12 we're in awfully good shape," he said. "The winds are supposed to be medium to heavy. In our class (C), I think we have as good a chance as anybody."

Like any other ocean race, the Trans-Pacific will be run on a corrected time basis, depending on the size, speed and weight of the boat entered. And in a field of 72 boats, largest ever, there will be a good bit of variety.

"Some of these boats will give away as much as a two, possibly three-day handicap in time," Lowrie explained. "In turn, we might do the same in relation to a smaller boat."

The ship will carry 30 days provisions in food, most of it dehydrated food.

great player like Rick Barry to wind up with those rinky dinks," said Mieuli. "And it would break my heart to see him go."

"Money has never been a problem with us, even in our bad days. I can't meet blood ties (an allusion to Barry's father-in-law) but I can offer money, a reputation in the best basketball league and a chance to play with the best players."

Thurmond, who scored 1,214 points last season and finished fourth among NBA rebounders with 1,382, said he was happy to stay in the NBA. New York of the ABA also tried to sign up Thurmond.

"It took me a time to obtain a stature in this league," he said, "and I don't want to play in the new one."

Thurmond, a 225-pounder who hits well from around the free-throw circle, has played four seasons for San Francisco.

Greene Wins NCAA Title; He's Unhappy

PROVO, Utah (AP) — An unhappy winner and a remorseful loser showed their class in the NCAA Track and Field Championships last night, while Southern California began building a solid lead in team competition.

The 46th annual meet ends tonight with finals in 14 events.

The unhappy winner was Charlie Greene of Nebraska, who proved his class by winning his third straight NCAA 100-yard dash championship. He did it by beating back a challenge from Southern California sophomore Lennox Miller, who matched him until the final 30 yards.

Greene was clocked in 9.2 seconds. But he questioned the time. He said he felt he ran faster than he did Thursday night, when he tied the world record of 9.1 in a qualifying heat.

The remorseful loser was Bob Richards, defending steeplechase champion from host Brigham Young University. Richards, to the cheers of the 8,304 partisan fans, took a big early lead in the race.

Then he hit a hurdle about the midway point and fell to the track.

BLEEDING KNEES

His knees bleeding, Richards scrambled back to his feet and continued to run. By that time, Chris McCubbins of Oklahoma State had taken the lead. McCubbins won by a wide margin in 8:51.4. Richards finished ninth in 9:33.6 and stumbled into the arms of friends.

Earl McCullouch of South California literally leaped to a quick, wide lead in the high hurdles and held off the fast-closing Richmond Flowers of Tennessee for victory in 13.4. That tied the meet mark, established by Flowers in a qualifying heat earlier in the evening.

Other winners last night were world champion Randy Matson in the shot put, with a meet-record heave of 67 feet, 9¼ inches. Gary Ard of Kansas, 25-9 in the long jump; and Bob Narcessian of Rhode Island, 197-½ in the hammer throw.

Southern California was the leading team with 24 points after seven finals. With its world record-breaking 440 relay team and 17-7 pole vaulter Bob Seagren still to compete, Southern Cal appeared to be on the verge of making the team race a walkway.

Soccer Showdown In Oakland; Cal Meets Baltimore

The big collision in the National Professional Soccer League comes tomorrow when the California Clippers, leaders in the Western Division, host the Baltimore Bays, leaders in the East, at the Oakland Coliseum at 2 p.m.

The resurgent Clippers have won five in a row and hold an 11-point edge over second place Atlanta, with a 9-3-2 record. The Bays are 7-3-4 and have a slim edge over second-place Atlanta in the East.

Tennis Champ Hurt, Quits Marin's National Tourney

Defending champion Vladimir Petrovic has withdrawn from next week's National Men's 35 Hard Court Tennis Championships at Mill Valley due to an injured knee, it was announced yesterday.

Petrovic's doubles partner, Ed Kauder, has teamed with Hugh Ditzler for the tandem competition.

The tournament committee also announced yesterday that latest entries include former South American champion Hernan Molina and Superior Court Judge Lionel Wilson of Alameda.

The tournament will be played at the Mill Valley Tennis Club June 21-25. Seedings will be announced Monday.

SWIMMING

Five girls representing the San Rafael Swim Club will make an all-out attempt to break two National Amateur Athletic Union 11-12 age-group relay swimming records next Wednesday at the Terra Linda High School pool.

The team of Jo Hislop, Leslie Bryans, Cookie Arrighi and Lucy Suttles will shoot at the National AAU 200-yard medley record of 2 minutes, 4.1 seconds. They have been clocked at 2:04.5.

Misses Bryans, Arrighi and Suttles along with Katy Parnow will try to crack the 200-yard freestyle record of 1:50.0. Their best time has been 1:50.1.

The record attempts will be held starting at 4:30 p.m.

BASKETBALL

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — Larry Staverman, 30-year-old assistant basketball coach at the University of Notre Dame, yesterday was named head coach of the new Indiana Pacers in the American Basketball Association.

Staverman played in college at Villa Madonna of Covington, Ky. He played pro ball from 1958 to 1961 with the Cincinnati Royals of the National Basketball Association, with the Kansas City Steers of the American Basketball League, back to the NBA with Chicago, and finally back to the Royals where he ended his playing career in 1964.

Finch To U. S. Senate If Murphy Steps Down?

SACRAMENTO — As the weather warms up, day dreaming accelerates. Rumors fly thicker and faster.

How do you like this one?

Ailing U.S. Sen. George Murphy may retire. Such vacancies are filled by gubernatorial appointment. Governor Reagan would appoint Lt. Gov. Finch, whose political roots trace back to the Nixon inner circle of supporters. In a sense Finch has been an outsider in the Reagan "in" group. If Reagan goes on to become president (warm weather rumors are heady stuff) the "in" group would never get along with Finch as governor.

So Finch is the obvious pick for appointment to succeed Murphy in Washington.

(Editorial opinion: so far so good. Finch would serve California well as a U.S. Senator.)

WHO SUCCEEDS TO the lieutenant governorship?

This is important if Reagan is to go on to the presidency.

Isn't it true that the President Pro Tem of the Senate is next in the line of succession?

Assemblymen Bill Bagley and John Veneman checked the law.

And how do you suppose a vacancy in the lieutenant governor's office would be filled now in California?

BY APPOINTMENT OF THE GOVERNOR. That's how.

NOW TAKE ANOTHER LOOK at this day dream.

Start with the idea abroad here that Governor Reagan is a serious contender for the G.O.P. presidential nomination. Once bitten by the bug, it is easy for an aspirant to imagine himself moving into the White House.

But how can Finch be cut out so that the top Sacramento job stays "in the family?"

Ailing George Murphy should retire.

Finch should go to Washington, leaving the way clear for the Sacramento administration "ins" to perpetuate themselves.

Is it a day dream?

As you relax in the warming sun of the capitol grounds you catch yourself wondering if this rumor is as far out as you thought it was the first time you heard it.

And the fun continues as you listen to speculation about whom Reagan would hand-pick as his successor as governor.

It all adds up to a kind of consciousness-expanding trip without benefit of LSD. Which may prove that seemingly innocent day dreaming is really dangerous; it gets you out of touch with reality.

THE ANCIENT PROBLEM of how to control pornography without infringing on free expression is always with us. The Reagan administration and Reagan supporters in the legislature were pledged to bring forth some new controls this year — a pledge which accompanied Reagan's campaign opposition to the repressive Proposition 16.

All the proposals which came before the legislature as a result of that pledge ran up against the same old stumbling block. They were discarded as unacceptable because they infringed too deeply on freedom of speech and press.

Now, to the embarrassment of Republicans, comes Democratic Assemblyman John T. Knox of Richmond with AB 1664 to provide a measure of control over the peddling of pornography to youngsters.

AB 1664 looks like a winner. That is, it seems to provide adequate guards against censorship while still raising new legal barriers to the "pushing" of salacious material to the very young.

Bully for Assemblyman Knox. His bill may be embarrassing to Republican legislators and the Reagan administration, but it will be good for the people of California.

It appears that it cannot help but pass. And Governor Reagan just cannot refuse to sign it into law.

Freedom Looms

Like a lush green pasture, tree-shaded, and with a softly murmuring stream must seem to the parched and weary desert traveler, so the prospect of summer vacation and freedom from school looms on the near horizon for most Marin children.

Vacation is the lovely time of bites, stings, sunburn, poison oak, and other results of intimate contact with nature. Be that as it may, vacation is especially wonderful to the young, to whom so much is seen through fresh, quick eyes.

But vacation never wears out. Retirement is, or should be, perpetual vacation.

Bouquets And Brickbats

BOUQUETS to Stinson Beach School teachers Mildred Sadler and Louise Airey, who retired this month after teaching for 41 years and 26 years, respectively.

A BOUQUET to Linda Thaning, San Rafael High School senior, who is one of eight national winners in the "Be A Seventeen Model" contest.

A BOUQUET to San Anselmo Postmaster Manuel Dos Reis Jr., 69, who retires this month after 32 years of service.

BRICKBATS to both drivers and pedestrians who run red lights. Drivers who race through an intersection against the light are a menace. So are pedestrians who leisurely and insolently amble across, against the red light, knowing that cars will wait for them.

A BOUQUET to Msgr. C. J. McKenna for his 17 years of service as director of St. Vincent's School for Boys. He goes to San Francisco to become pastor of St. Patrick's Church.

BOUQUETS to organizers of the Novato Western Weekend for publishing the first issue of Novato Territorial Times, a keepsake edition which contains pictures and articles on old Novato, Marin and San Francisco.

A BOUQUET to Katherine Tasker, who retired as director of health services for San Rafael schools after 29 years of service.

BOUQUETS to the "hippie" generation for conducting themselves in an orderly and law abiding manner during the "Fantasy Fair" atop Mount Tamalpais last weekend.

LOVE ON A WINDSWEPT HIGHWAY

Seeing a shivering family hitchhiking on a windswept highway in Alabama last winter, a motorist stopped his car.

A jobless man, with his wife and four hungry children, was trying to get to California, where he hoped to find work. Someone had given them a ride, then driven off with all their belongings.

The kindly driver put them up in lodgings at his own expense. Then he went to local businesses to collect money for them.

By daylight he had $100. A local radio station's broadcast brought $300 more, plus food and clothing.

The happy family was then able to continue to California by bus. The grateful father said he planned to keep $100 as a nest-egg, and as evidence that the family are not vagrants.

Nothing in this world will ever replace love of one's neighbor that produces practical effects. It is evidence that God lives in and works through man to assist his fellow man.

"God is love, and he who abides in love abides in God, and God in him."

Ambassadors Say 'Thanks'

Editor, Independent-Journal:

The Novato Community Ambassadors wish to express their thanks to you and your Novato staff for the excellent co-operation and support given us this past year. The coverage on our many fund-raising events, parties, stories and pictures of our foreign exchange students, has done so much to help us promote the foreign exchange program in Novato and Marin County.

The solidarity of such a program becomes more necessary today than ever before; and we in Marin County can feel most rewarded, as these students that will soon be returning to their homelands, will singularly be ambassadors of good will for us.

Landscapers Go Unhonored

Editor, Independent-Journal:

May I add to your news coverage of the dedication of two new parks, by suggesting that you include the names of the landscape architects in future reports?

To be sure, acquiring the land and finding the money are the second steps after the first farsighted vision. The designer is the fellow with the creative ideas, knowledge and ability to put the dreams on paper. Next are the men who execute the plans and juggle things into place. Finally, we have the maintenance — and herein lies the factor that will make or break all the above. In this case, our parks will be dependent on those who use them as well as the maintenance men.

Henry Cole, local landscape architect, designed Pueblo Park at Santa Venetia. Scott Tilden, city landscape architect, designed Santa Margarita. The men of the park department look upon the execution of their work with great pride. They are the "little guys" we are inclined to overlook. Curtis Granis long ago saw the potential of the old city hall as a recreation center.

Those of us who are associated with the profession of landscaping are very proud of good jobs, well done.

The Giant Among Us

Editor, Independent-Journal:

The U.S., to no one's amazement, is indeed a sandlotter compared to France's De Gaulle in the game of international footsies. Note please, that this genuis builds Mystere Jets with U.S. loans to sell to Israel for dollars received by them from the U.S. sale of Israeli Bonds, which our boy demands in payment in order to drain the U.S. gold supply.

Knowing Israel will demolish the Arab armies, he screams in righteous anguish when war begins, and announces loudly he will sell Israel no spare parts. This appeases his cultivated friends, the Russians, who are now free at last to abscond with Arabian oil to ration to her eastern Europe satellites including of course, La Belle France. Luckily the U.S. emerges from this game with just a dirty if not oily face, and the old saw acquires a new attributee — that "there, by the grace of De Gaulle, goes God."

Mayor Defends Tree Cuttings

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Having noted several letters in this column, as well as other comment, concerning the matter of the elm trees in the Sir Francis Drake Boulevard widening project, I am glad to be able to give some reassurance to the many persons interested in this matter.

Of a total of 36 elms, only 8 are being removed. Seven of these were in areas necessary for turning lanes and the other was irremediably diseased. Removal of these few trees was necessary for traffic safety.

It will interest tree aficionados that the landscaping plan for the widened street provides for twenty-five new large trees to be added in this area, together with numerous smaller trees and shrubs.

The City Council of San Anselmo and Ross approved the plans only after assuring that all steps had been taken to provide the utmost aesthetic effect compatible with traffic safety.

College Scholarship Bouquets Are Tossed

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Although there is no question in my mind that Mr. Kent Seymour should receive dozens of "Bouquets" in connection with his many varied and sustained activities with the College of Marin both as a trustee of the college and then active as he is and has been on the College of Marin Foundation, I think that "Bouquets" should go to you, the Independent-Journal for all of your excellent support and constant publicity concerning the College of Marin and the College of Marin Foundation.

Without your greatly needed help and support the College of Marin Foundation could never have equalled its $17,000 scholarship and emergency loan fund goal. As a matter of fact, it passed the $23,000 mark and we feel that this could not have been done and this success could not have been gained without the Independent-Journal.

Thus, our "Bouquets" to you. Thank you.

While I am passing out "Bouquets" may I hand one to your classified advertising department? Everytime that I advertise something for sale or rent in your classified ads I have astonishing success: To the best of my knowledge I am running 100 per cent success with your classified ads and I don't think anyone can beat that, can they?

U.S. Playing It Cool About Stand In Mideast Peace Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israel's war on the Arabs was fast, to the point. The peace settlement won't be. The dragged-out haggling is starting. So far the United States hasn't stuck its neck out. Moscow has. It's trying to catch back.

It made a mess of its dealings with the Arabs. Before the short-lived war began a week ago, Moscow promised Egypt support. Nice word, support. What did it mean? It turned out to mean nothing.

The Soviets were playing it cute, probably hoping nothing would happen, and if it didn't they could pose as the Big Brother who had been ready to pitch in and help, the one big friend of the Arabs.

BUT THEN the Israelis swooshed through the Sinai Peninsula, wrecked the Egyptians and their air force, and knocked Jordan senseless, all in three days. The only help the Soviets gave Egypt was to ask the United Nations to call for a truce.

The Arab reaction to the United States, which had kept hands off, was bad and apparently for the old reason: If you aren't with me, you must be against me. But it was bad against the stand-by Soviets, too.

Now the Soviets are making such an obvious move to woo the Arabs again it looks unsophisticated. But diplomatically it's practical.

They're demanding in the United Nations that everything in the Mideast be restored to where it was before the fighting began, which means the Israelis should withdraw from all the land they captured and let the Arabs have it back.

IF THE ISRAELIS yielded to the Soviet demand, which they give no sign of doing, then everything, including 679 Israelis killed and 2,563 wounded, would have been for nothing.

And the Arabs would be just as well off—at least in real estate—as they were before they fell on their face.

There's one standout good reason why the Israelis won't buy it—they'd have to return control of the Gulf of Aqaba to the Egyptians whose blockade of Israeli shipping in the gulf was the main cause of the war.

On the face of it Moscow's proposal makes no sense, except for whatever good impression the Kremlin thinks it will make on the Arabs. This move is transparent enough to look juvenile except for a couple of things.

AT THIS MOMENT, both the United States and Soviet Union are trying to collect their senses after the sudden shock of the war and its sudden ending. And both are trying to play it cute until they know where they are going.

On May 23, before the war, President Johnson said this country was firmly committed to the support of political independence and territorial integrity of all the nations in the Middle East.

This might seem to mean the United States did not want to see any change in the borders or territories of the area. And this week, with the Israelis sitting on the captured land of the Arabs, Johnson said the United States remains wedded to his statement of May 23.

Did this mean he thought the Israelis should withdraw or keep what they had captured? All Johnson would say is that how the position he talked of on May 23 is carried out "depends a great deal on the nations themselves, what their views are, and what their proposals are."

WHAT DOES ALL this mean? That's what the Soviets and Arabs, no doubt, would like to know. Right now the United States itself probably doesn't know. By rubber-band language it buys time to see how the wind blows.

Consumer Frauds In The Ghetto

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG JR.

It's tough enough to be poor and discriminated against, but the poor in the ghetto also pay a "color tax" in the form of higher costs for food, housing, credit, and inadequate services due to discrimination. And they are also the victims of outright fraud.

Consumer frauds and cheating cost the nation many billions of dollars per year, a cost paid mainly by the poor who are victimized by these practices. Another loser is the legitimate businessman who loses sales to the crooked outfits and who often is tagged with the distrust caused by the crooks who prey on the poor.

NOT THAT ALL of them are crooks in the eyes of law. The law doesn't cover many sharp practices and the poor, who are likely to be less educated, fall for many a dodge which may be legal, but is dishonest and unfair. A fraud by any other name is still a fraud.

One of the ways poor consumers are victimized is through excessive credit charges. Since poor people don't always have the cash to buy the things they need, and since they can't get the credit they need from banks which consider them poor risks, they have to buy on time. Even legitimate businesses rarely tell a customer how much real interest he is paying. For example a monthly interest charge of one and one-half per cent a month could figure out to 18 per cent a year.

A NEW YORK housewife who bought a freezer unit offers an example of the frauds which are so common. She called a company which advertised a plan on television and the salesman said she would save so much on food that the freezer would be free. She signed a contract for a freezer priced at $995 and two months of meat and frozen food at $189. With three years of credit and other charges, the bill came to $1,454 without the food.

If you are victimized by frauds, complain to the state and local authorities whose business it is to stop consumer frauds and to the Better Business Bureau. Door-to-door salesmen with furniture, books, and other goodies should be checked out carefully before anything is signed. They may be perfectly legitimate, but too many people have signed contracts and ended up regretting that they did.

A common practice is for outfits to sell goods on the installment plan and then sell the contract to a credit company or a bank which then collects the installments from the customer. If something is wrong with the merchandise, the original company can't be found and the credit company is free from any responsibility.

THE SENATE BANKING Committee recently heard some testimony from people who had been victimized by these credit sharks. One Jersey City man bought a $124 television set to be payed for by monthly installments of $17.50 adding up to a 229 per cent interest rate — more than twice the cost of the set alone.

There are other tricks to bilk the poor besides the credit angle. Some companies will imply that they are part of the poverty program or say that the books they are selling must be bought because the local school insists on it, or other falsehoods. The merchandise is nearly always inferior and overpriced. This kind of preying upon those who can least afford it must be stopped.

THE BIGGEST step in ending this could be improvement in the economic and educational condition of the poor. When people are earning good wages and have cash in their pockets, they can buy what they need from reputable dealers and, if necessary, get loans that aren't usurious.

The Country Parson

" I wonder why we resist both change and death — the first a sign of growth and the latter the end of it."

Preaching Takes New Church Role

WASHINGTON (AP) — Preaching, which in the past took a secondary place in the Roman Catholic Mass, is being stressed today as essential to full-gauged worship.

"It's a real change, a recognition of the prime importance of the 'Word' in generating and deepening faith," says Rev. John Burke of Washington, a Catholic specialist on using the pulpit.

The trend is part of a two-way development in which Catholic worship, long concentrated on the sacraments, is giving more attention to the sermon, while Protestant services, characteristically focused on preaching, are restoring the symbolic aspects.

The tendencies, as liturgical scholars see it, point to a balancing of the two elements in both traditions.

Among Catholics, the accent on preaching was spurred by the Second Vatican Council, which ordered a stop to the casual omission of sermons, and called them the prime means of spreading the gospel.

In its decree on the ministry, the council said: "The preaching of the Word is needed for the very administration of the sacraments. For these are sacraments of the faith and faith is born of the Word and nourished by it."

Pope Paul, on the same theme, stressed in his Ecclesium Suam encyclical "the extreme importance of preaching."

"No other form of communication can take its place," he said. "Preaching is the primary apostolate. Our apostolate . . . is above all the ministry of the Word."

To implement that evaluation, and to upgrade the caliber of preaching, Roman Catholic seminaries are stepping up training in that field, and various refresher seminars have been held for pastors to polish up their pulpit approach.

Father Burke, 38, once an Army specialist in psychological warfare, later a network television director and now a Dominican teacher of drama and homiletics, cites some of the tips to good preaching, including:

Use of a conversational, rather than an oratorical, style.

Speak as if talking with an individual person, no matter how many in the audience.

Relate principles directly to specific questions and real-life problems.

Avoid especially the abstract phrase, the "sacred eloquence," the glittering generality; keep language within the range of contemporary experience.

Ordinarily, the first three-quarters of a sermon draft can be discarded, retaining only the last part, which gets to the point.

Don't wait until Saturday night to prepare it, but begin mulling it over and making preliminary notes early in the week, to give ideas a time to jell.

NEGRO PASTOR TO SUPERVISE PRESBYTERY

NEW YORK (AP) — Rev. Robert P. Johnson has been elected general presbyter of the Presbytery of New York becoming the first Negro top administrator of the Presbyterian district.

Since 1954, Rev. Johnson has been pastor of the Fifteenth Street Presbyterian Church in Washington, D.C. He is considered an expert on big city problems.

Officially he will be the chief executive officer in the district which includes 118 churches and 44,000 communicants in the city.

Unofficially he is called the pastor to pastors. He succeeds Rev. Graydon E. McClellan who resigned last year to take over a similar post in Washington.

Judaism Award Is Presented

NEW YORK (UPI) — The highest national honor of the Reform Jewish movement—the American Judaism Award—has been presented to Lester Avnet, president and chairman of the board of Avnet, Inc., a manufacturing and distributing firm.

Avnet was cited for "exemplifying the ideals of American Judaism through his leadership and service to endeavors on behalf of his fellow men." The award was presented at the annual award dinner of the Reform Jewish Appeal, the fund-raising arm of the national institutions of Reform Judaism, the Union of American Hebrew Congregations and the Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion.

Church Elects New Officials

Trustees of the Congregational Church, 145 Rock Hill Road, Tiburon, has elected James Balloun as chairman and Frank Neer as secretary.

In other recent church business, the music committee named Mrs. Verna Vison as chairman, and the board of directors selected Mrs. Allan Thompson as chairman and Mabel Griffiths as secretary.

Summer Schedule

The Novato Presbyterian Church is now in its summer schedule with services only at 9:30 a.m., including church school.

Indian Authority To Deliver Talk

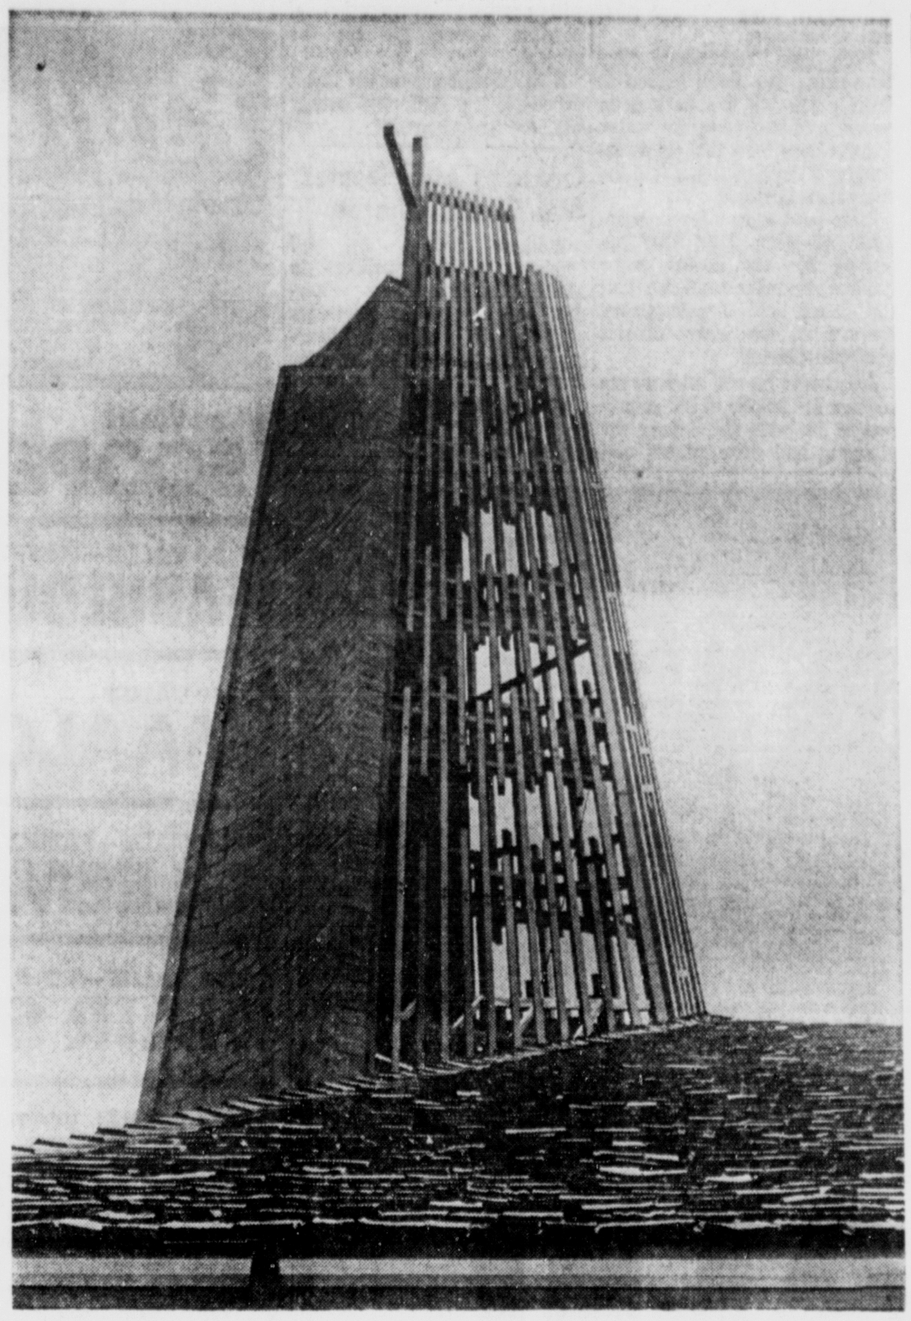
Vernon Brown, an Indian authority, will discuss the destiny of the American Indian at a meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. at 25 Mount Lassen Drive.

He will discuss the Great Indian Council Fire to be held next week at the Folger Ranch in Sonoma County. The session is sponsored by the Baha'is of Marin.

Junior Members To Give Program

A special children's day program will be presented by junior church members tomorrow at the 10:30 a.m. service at Sleepy Hollow Presbyterian Church.

Assisted by the junior choir, a group will present a pageant, "The Church in the World." Bible presentations are also scheduled to sixth graders.



CHURCH'S SPIRE TAKING SHAPE

The new Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Olema is nearing completion. The modernistic church is of buff brick and natural siding with a spire of brick and eventually stained-glass cutouts designed to bathe the church's altar in light. The church will service the Olema and Pt. Reyes Catholic community.

Bible Schools Set To Open Coming Week

A joint Bible school will be held beginning tomorrow by memberships of the Faith and Resurrection Lutheran churches.

Host for the school, with daily hours from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m., will be the Resurrection Lutheran Church, 1100 Las Gallinas.

Using as its theme, "The God I Love," school events will include worship service, Bible study and music and crafts.

First Baptist Church of San Anselmo will begin its annual vacation Bible school at 1 p.m. tomorrow. It will continue through June 30.

The church is located at Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Sais Avenue.

Vacation Bible school will begin June 26 for five days at the Christ Church, 50 Ranchitos Road, San Rafael.

Theme of the school will be "God Lives" with a 9 to 11:30 a.m. daily schedule. The school is open to children through the sixth grade.

Literature Funds

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UPI)—Men attending Assembly of God churches throughout the nation have pledged to raise $217,000 to supply Christian Literature for 1967 mass evangelistic "Good News" crusades overseas through the denomination's "Light-for-the-Lost" fund-raising program.

Seminaries Facing An Ordination Crisis

By LOUIS CASSELS
U.P. International

Should a man be ordained to the ministry if he rejects, or is agnostic about, some of the basic tenets of the historic Christian faith?

That may strike you as a far-fetched hypothetical question. But it's a real and agonizing one for deans and professors at many Protestant seminaries.

It's their responsibility to certify that a seminary graduate is ready for ordination. This is easy when the candidate is a committed Christian whose faith has been deepened and matured by three years of theological study. Most of the 6,000 seminarians being graduated from accredited Protestant theological schools this month fall into that category.

But there is also a substantial minority—in some seminaries, teachers say it includes more than a third of the graduating class—who are not Christian believers in any traditional sense of the term.

They don't contend that God is dead. But neither do they share Jesus' concept of God as one who can be confidently approached in prayer as "Our Father." They feel much more at home speaking of God in abstract, impersonal terms such as "ultimate reality."

They admire Jesus as a great human teacher and want to emulate His example of unselfish dedication to the service of others. But they do not believe that He was, in any unique way, the son of God. Nor do they believe that He rose from the dead.

They are attracted to some portions of the Bible, particularly those in which Jesus and the prophets attack social injustice. But they don't believe that the Bible has any special authority as the word of God.

Theological views such as these would raise no problem if the seminary graduate were going into the ministry of the Unitarian-Universalist association, but a question of integrity arises if he intends to be ordained in a Protestant denomination which is supposed to be committed to the doctrines of the Apostles' Creed.

Some candidates shrug off the question on the grounds that Doctrines are unimportant. What really matters, they say, is for the church to get dynamic young leadership that can make the most of its potential for social service.

Pope Presented A Fatima Memento

LISBON (UPI)—Thousands of ill and infirm persons in Oporto contributed to the purchase of a silver reliquary, studded with precious stones, to offer to Pope Paul VI as a memento of his visit to the shrine of Fatima.

The donors, most of them followers of the weekly radio program, "Blessed Are The Sick," augmented the gift with a 30-pound bar of fine gold for the Pope's Charitable Fund for the Poor.

Lesson Topic

Subject of tomorrow's lesson and sermon to be read in all Christian Science churches is: "Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force?"

PROJECTS IN TORREON

Novato Teen-agers Starting A Mexico Mission Adventure

A group of Novato teen-agers began a trip today which will take them on a missionary adventure into Mexico.

Their destination is Torrean, Mexico, where they will work on the San Pablo Methodist Church and its Mission Emmanuel.

Before the 14 youths, all from the Novato Community Methodist Church, are projects including partial construction of the mission and a fresh coat of paint to the church and its furnishings.

While in Torreon the youths along with five chaperones, will live with Mexican families, all members of the church pastored by Rev. Raul Macin.

The trip has been in the planning stage for many months. Study has been devoted to the Spanish language and to culture of Mexico.

Financing of the $3,500 project, which includes transportation, supplies and bulding materials, was raised by the youth in varying jobs. These included cleaning the church for the past five months, car washes and bake sales. Remaining financial help came from private donations.

The convoy is composed of two station wagons and a sedan. Tonight's stop will be in Upland (San Bernardino County) where they will be guests of the Upland Methodist Church. They will also spend nights in Scottsdale, Ariz., and El Paso, Tex.

Their host city, Torreon, is in the State of Coahuila about 500 miles south of El Paso, and is a city of 200,000 people. In addition to working on the church, living with Mexican families, they will also experience what it is like to be a part of a minority religious group in a predominately Catholic area.

They will work for two weeks and then spend seven days enroute home, arriving about July 10. In addition to El Paso, they will stop at Gallup, N. M., the Grand Canyon, Zion National Park and on to Fallon, Nev., where they will be the guests of the Methodist Church there. Rev. Lawrence H. Doyle of that church is the former pastor of the Novato church.

Teen-agers on the trip are Dan Andersen, Bonnie Campbell, Dan Crowell, Diana and Donna Halpenny, Alice Howell, Jean Hutton, Darlene Knickerbocker, Linda Lambrix, Debbie Larson, Rick Merrell, Stan Pelmear, Dan Andersen, Mrs. Arthur Rod Perryman, Mary Lou Howell, Mrs. James Hutton and Sauber, and Brad Varty. Mrs. and Mrs. George H. Adult chaperones are Mrs. Pelmear.

REV. FRANCIS SCANLON
25th anniversary

Dinner Set Monday Night For Priest's Silver Jubilee

Rev. Francis Scanlon, assistant pastor of the Mount Carmel Catholic Church in Mill Valley, will be honored Monday night on his silver jubilee of his ordination as a priest.

The occasion will be a dinner by parish members and friends at Dominic's in San Rafael.

In addition to the dinner, special groups from the parish will also pay tribute to Rev. Scandon for his work since coming to Mill Valley in 1961.

Father Scanlon was born in Berkeley and was educated at St. Joseph's Parish School, and later graudated from Saint Joseph's Seminary in Mountain View in 1936. He then attended Saint Patrick's Seminary in Menlo Park, and was ordained on June 13, 1942, by the late Archbishop John J. Mitty.

His first assignment was as assistant pastor at St. Agnes in San Francisco, until 1952, when he was assigned as first chaplain at the Modesto State Hospital.

In 1955, he became assistant at St. Andrews, in Oakland, becoming pastor in June 1957. During his work at St. Andrews he built the present church and hall. Members of that parish will honor him at a buffet supper and reception tomorrow night.

State Ends Longtime Ban On Dogs In Parks

LOS BANOS (AP) — For the first time in 20 years, dogs are about to get a good night's sleep in California state parks.

But the dogs are going to have to know their place—at least as well as cats—the state Park Commission ruled yesterday.

The commission, in a 6-1 vote, removed a two-decade old ban on keeping dogs overnight in state parks. It will be on a one-year trial basis, however, starting next Oct. 1.

The rules will require the canines to be restricted during nighttime hours to an enclosed tent, trailer, car or other vehicle. These rules already apply to cats.

But the pets also face a new leash law rule if they want to visit state campgrounds. The leashes must be no longer than six feet. There had been no length limit before.

Opposition to allowing dogs to sleep overnight stems from non-dog owning campers who contend the dogs are too noisy, especially when they howl.

Special Awards Presented To 12 Tam High Graduates

Twelve of 40 students graduated from Tomales High School Thursday received special awards in the commencement ceremony attended by more than 600 people.

Kathleen Adams, valedictorian, was awarded the $200 Jacob and Mary Kelmer Seitz scholarship through University of California, the Elks Lodge most valuable student Award of $250, and Tomales High School Parent-Teacher Association Award of $250.

Herbert Cabral received the Petaluma Council P-TA Award of $100 and a Tomales High School P-TA Scholarship of $250.

Salutatorian Kristine Echenroad won the California Savings and Loan outstanding student award of $100 and the Frank P. Doyle and Polly O'Mara Doyle Scholarship of $600.

Eugene Haley was awarded the Bodega Bay Grange scholarship of $250, the Sacred Heart Women's Club memorial scholarship of $100 and Jessie Craig Lowell scholarship of $300.

Single money awards went to Leroy Erickson, California State scholarship, $125; Nancy Lawson, Frank P. Doyle and Polly O'Mara Doyle scholarship, $600; Harriett Maisetti, Tomales High School Girls League service Award, $100; Jack Rickley, Marin County P-TA scholarship, $250; Paulette Rilla, Point Reyes Circle of the Champions of the Forest of America Award, $100; Terry Zimmerman, California Bankers Association Future Farmers of America scholarship, $400.

Old Planes Fly From Hamilton

The last of the "Gooney Birds," or C47 cargo transport planes assigned to Detachment 3 of the 2223rd Instructor Squadron at Hamilton Air Force Base, has left the base after 13 years.

The detachment, commanded by Lt. Col. John A. Godsey, will end operations on July 1. It is one of five units under the Continental Air Command that have the job of training reserve navigators.

After July 1, the 60th Military Airlift Wing at Travis Air Force Base will take over the job of training reserve navigators from the Bay Area.

Novato Father's Girl Wins Him KTIM Crown

Frank Regalia of Novato has been given the title of "Greatest Man in Marin" by radio station KTIM.

Regalia, of 2141 Novato Boulevard was nominated by his daughter Emily, a 19-year-old College of Marin student, for the station's "My Dad is the Greatest Because . . . " contest held this week in honor of Father's Day.

Miss Regalia wrote, "My dad is the greatest because he is kind, considerate, and generous. He has given up many things for us and has spent his entire life making our family one of unity. My dad is the greatest in Marin because I love him."

Station manager Hugh Turner said the letter won for its sincerity.

Regalia will receive a $25 gift certificate at one of the San Rafael men's clothing stores.

Deer Park State Funds Available

A Deer Park recreation area still could be developed with use of $69,650 available in state bond funds, if the Marin Municipal Water District is willing, Marin County Park and Recreation Director Pierre W. Joske said yesterday.

Joske said he will negotiate with water district Gen. Mgr. William R. Segger to see what can be arranged.

Park and recreation commissioners this week agreed to drop plans for the park temporarily to see what the water district does, now that its directors have decided to get into the recreation business.

State bond money for development of Deer Park was approved for the county some months ago with condition that the county get a satisfactory lease from the water district and good access.

Joske said he will stick to his request for $48,350 in the county budget for next fiscal year for planning and development and will continue investigation of possible federal aid for the project.

If the state bond money is not expended by 1969, the county will lose it, Joske said.

Oakland Man Denies Bad Check Charge

William Spores, 34, of Oakland, pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to passing a worthless $202.52 check. Preliminary hearing was scheduled for 10 a.m. July 11.

Spores allegedly gave the bad check Aug. 6, 1965, to Marin Lights, Inc., San Rafael.

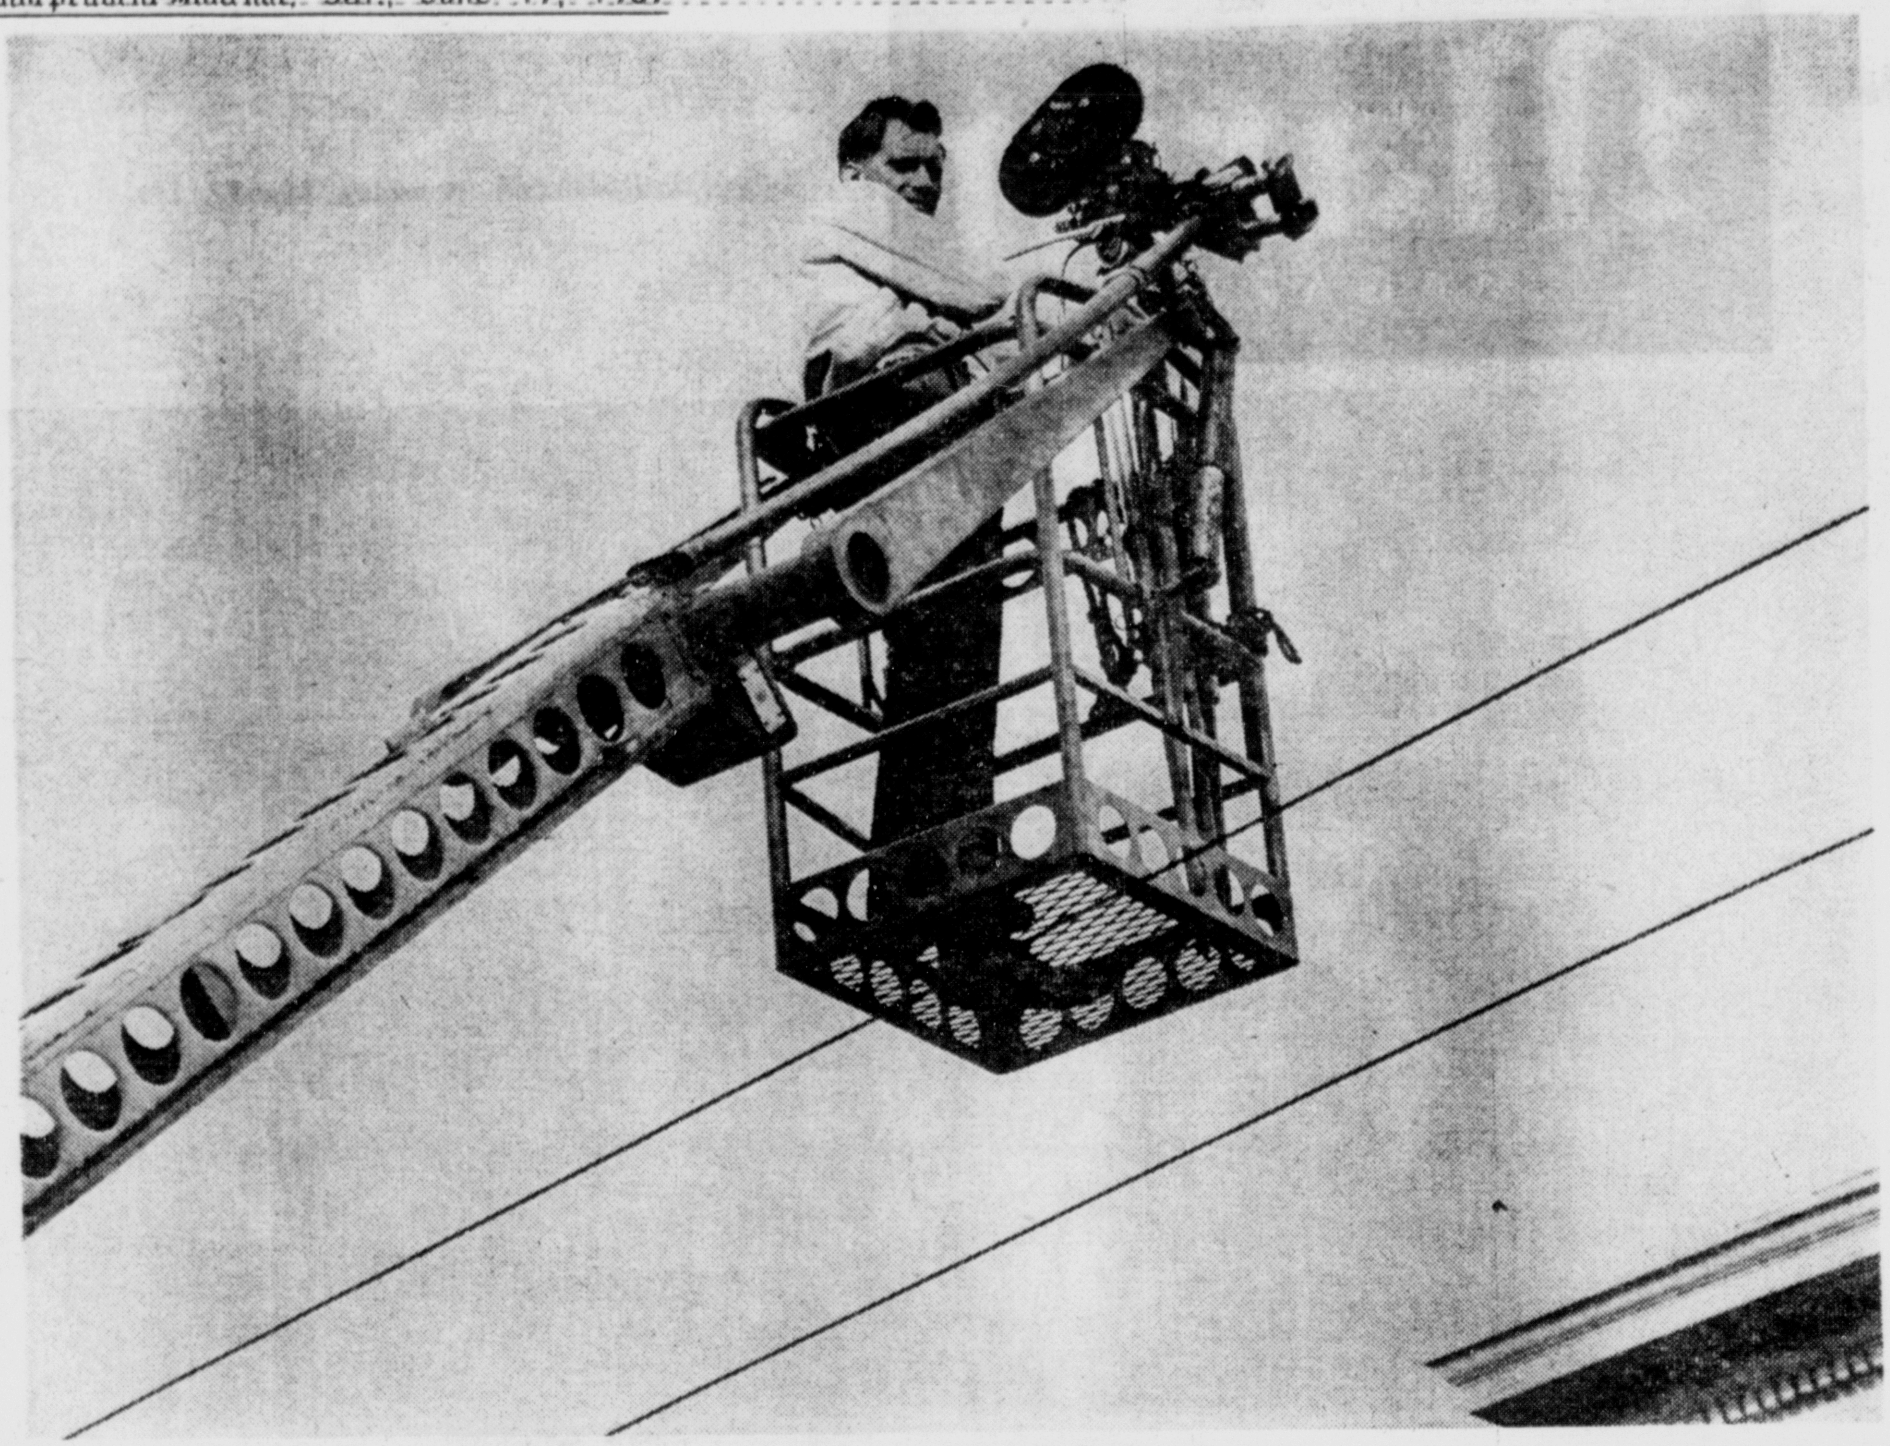
Documentaries Are His Profession

See Page M2



A HOISTBORROWED from the telephone company lifts Dick Williams, photographer and film editor for KPIX-TV, into the air for the perspective he needs for the filming of a scene for a television documentary. Williams, a Novato resident, is a full-time documentary-maker for the San Francisco station.

Man Who Makes TV Documentaries

Novato's Dick Williams Finds Job With KPIX Satisfying, Challenging

By DON KEOWN

The thing that Dick Williams likes about filming television documentaries is that "every show is different from the one you made before, and from the next one you will shoot."

"No two documentaries are the same," he insists. "But it seems to me that feature films very often are carbon copies of each other."

Williams, then, has the perfect job to fit his likes. As photographer and film editor for San Francisco's television station KPIX, he devotes his working hours almost entirely to the shooting of TV documentaries.

HE HAS BEEN with the station since 1962.

Now 37, Williams says he had his first real experience with photography while still in high school "when I used to work in various photography studios around town — not really doing much, but just watching and learning."

He graduated from Lincoln High School in Tacoma, Wash., attended College of Puget Sound, and then joined the army in 1951.

OUT OF SERVICE, he attended famed Brooks Photography School in Santa Barbara during 1954 and 1955.

For the next few years he earned his living as a commercial still photographer in Monterey.

Then, in 1958, he went to work as the station photographer for KSBW-TV serving the Salinas-Monterey area.

"I GOT INTO television work through a friend who had been an instructor at Brooks while I was there and who was then employed at KSBW," Williams relates. "I had had no formal training or background in motion picture photography to speak of. What I know about movie camera work, I learned the hard way."

Generally speaking, though, Williams believes a good still photographer already has half the battle won when he turns to motion picture cameras.

"There's a difference in mechanics that must be mastered, naturally, but the fellow trained in still photography has a big head start."

WITH KSBW, however, documentaries were but a small part of William's work. Instead, he devoted most of his time to such tasks as filming commercials, shooting publicity stills and making on-the-air slides.

It was not until he came to KPIX that Williams was able to devote full-time to the filming of documentaries.

One of the most appealing facets of making documentaries, the photographer says, is that "you are working with people. You can show emotions that are real, not pretense."

DICK WILLIAMS, award-winning documentary photographer and editor for KPIX-TV, began his career in the camera field as a commercial still photographer in Monterey. He joined the staff of the San Francisco television station in 1962 after first having worked for a Salinas-Monterey area station. Now he devotes full-time to making documentaries and regards his job as an ideal one, interesting and satisfying.

taries Williams has filmed for Channel 5, he says he has no special favorite.

But he adds that there are certain themes of which he has grown tired. "For instance, I think many of the social issues have been worked over too many times. And when you get involved in them, you also get involved with so many authorities. Things tend to bog down."

He adds that he doesn't like to "look back" at past shows. "I would rather look ahead at the next one coming up."

BUT HE ADMITS that one which did give him special satisfaction because "emotionally, it was very, very hard to do" was entitled "The Case For the Limited Child," an award-winning study of mentally-retarded children and their needs.

He will also confess that of all the documentaries he has filmed, there is but one he would like to repeat.

"That," says Williams, "is the one we did on San Simeon. There was just more there than could be shown and told in one film."

WILLIAMS SAYS he has a number of ideas in mind for future documentaries that he would like to do.

"For instance," he says, "one on old Fort Point. It has a history that is pretty romantic."

The one person who has done the most for him in his profession, Williams says, is

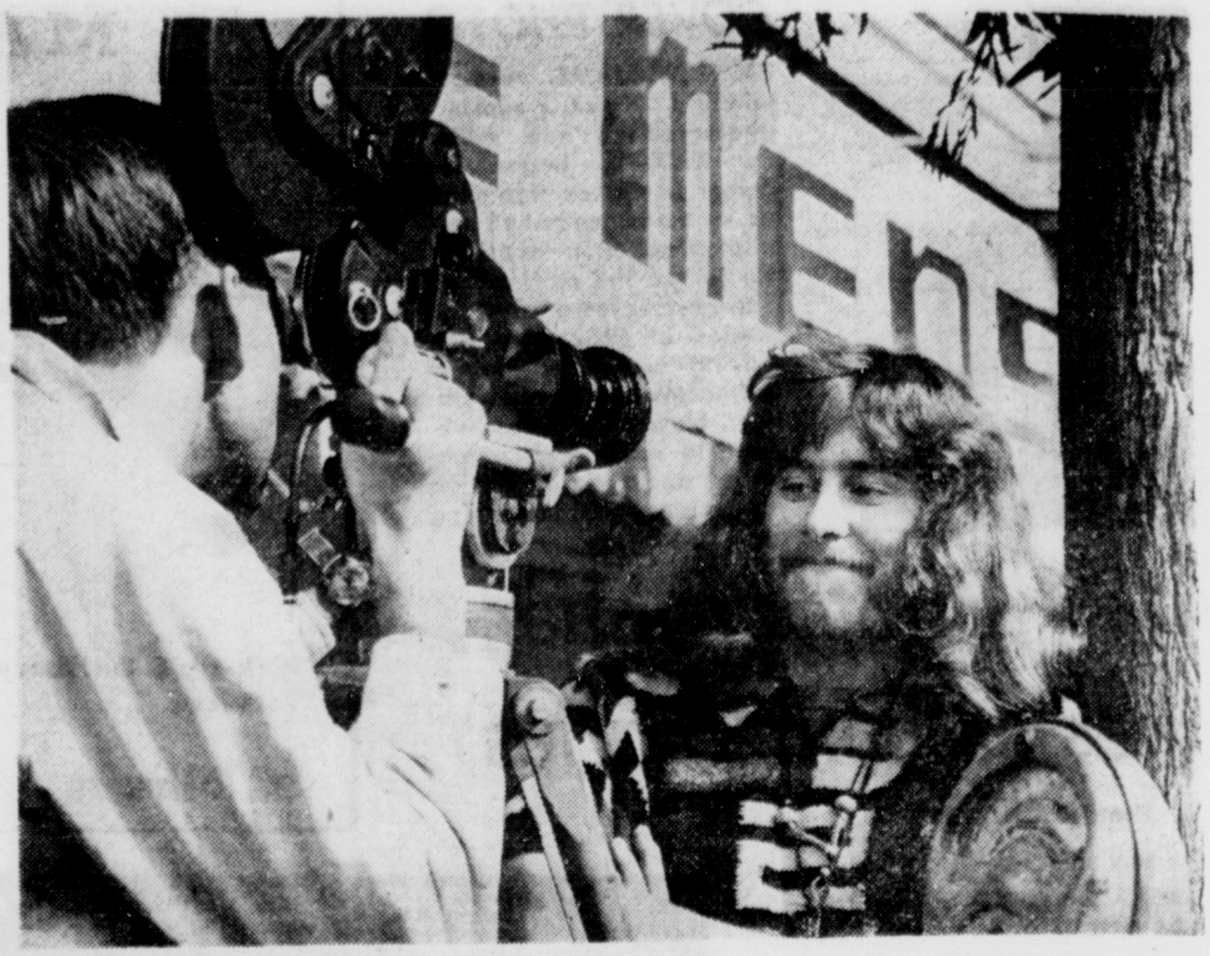
THE WORK OF Dick Williams as a television documentary filmmaker often takes him into unusual places to meet unusual people, and sometimes even into hazardous location. At right, he photographs long-haired Jerry Detroit in San Francisco's Haight-Ashbury District as part of a report on the Hippie culture there. Detroit described himself as a musician—"on the miniature cymbals." Below, center, Williams aims his camera from a high point while making a documentary on San Jose's famed Winchester House. Then, at lower right, he creeps along the peak of the roof amidst the gables enroute to his next shooting spot.



The Man Behind The Camera

Caryl Coleman, a fellow Marinite and KPIX's public affairs department head.

THE TWO FIRST worked together on the Monterey-Salinas station. Coleman came first to San Francisco and was instrumental in then bringing Williams to KPIX.

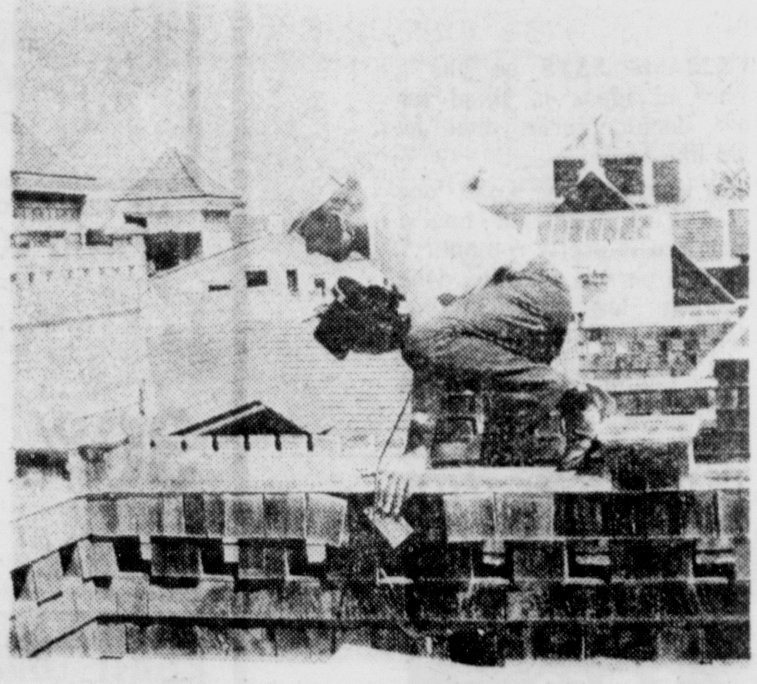
When his documentaries are shown on Channel 5, Williams likes to watch them in his home with his wife, Betty.

"I WANT TO know her reactions," he says, "and she doesn't like everything I do. As a critic, she can be pretty brutal. But what she says makes sense."

In his off-duty hours at home, Williams has no time to fool with cameras — "there are too many other exciting things to do. I have a terrible time even taking pictures of our children." The Williams have four children — Rick, 8, Christine, 6, and twins Jon and Valerie, 6 months.



One special interest of the Williams is in bonsai gardening. They have some 50 of the miniature trees, ranging in height from three inches to three feet, growing beside their home.

WILLIAMS DRIVES between his Novato home and the KPIX studios in San Francisco and says he does not mind the commute at all. "It gives me a chance to wake up in the morning and to calm down in the evening."

Most of his documentaries are filmed in the Bay Area, although he has made trips to Alaska and to Mexico.

He says he is perfectly content at his job of filming and editing — he edits his own film and does

PRICES

Sentiment should never interfere with good judgment—it is perfectly proper to expect a wide price range in funeral service. So, ask about costs at Russell & Gooch where three types of funeral services are available to fit every income.

- Wood caskets for Cremation or Burial from $70 . . . nine selections to choose from.
- Steel caskets from $285.

Service charges are extra enabling the family to select only those specific services they desire.

- Regular service provides all the facilities of our modern mortuary and attentions of an experienced staff.
- Budget service provides selection of only those facilities and aspects of service desired by the family.
- Minimum service . . . an accommodation for those families holding memberships in various burial associations as well as others desiring this type of service.

All details are fully explained in advance so the family has complete understanding of the total cost and can select according to individual circumstance. A monthly payment plan is available with approved credit.

the sound recording — documentaries for KPIX.

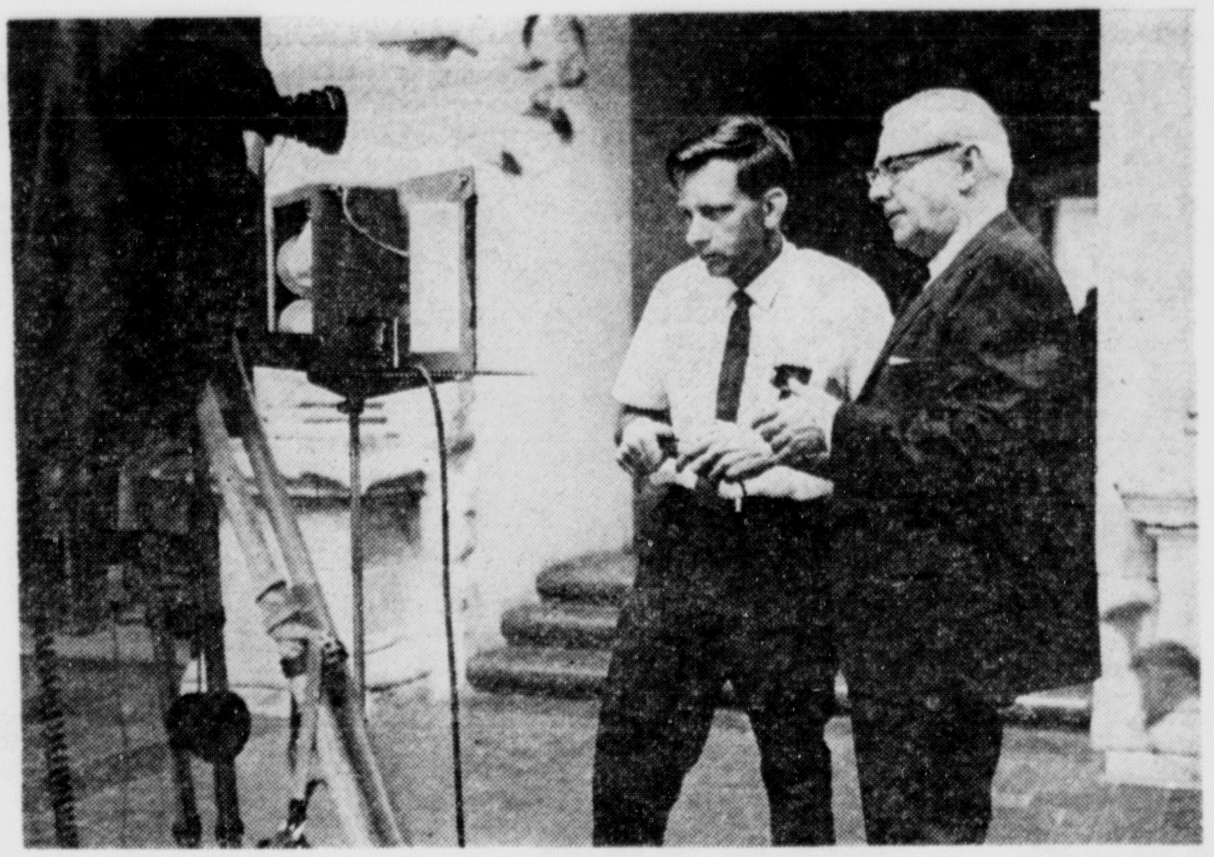
"I HAVE NO plans for anything different," he says.

But he adds that the big challenge in his field, as he sees it, will be the production of educational film for classroom use in the future.

"Some of our documentaries have been so used," he adds, "but they weren't made for that specific purpose."

BUT WHETHER shown in school before teachers and students, or in the home before the family, good documentaries have an educational as well as entertainment value that makes the work behind them worthwhile for Dick Williams.

"I'm one of those lucky guys," he says, "who is doing something he enjoys, and that he genuinely feels to be worthwhile."



TWO MARINITES, Caryl Coleman, right, KPIX-TV's public affairs department chief, a Ross resident, and Dick Williams of Novato, the station's photographer and film editor, confer on the next step in making of a documentary. The two first began working as a TV team with a station serving the Salinas-Monterey area.

exciting concepts from Orinda pools

One reason more people are buying ORINDA pools this year is because ORINDA pools cost less to buy. Your ORINDA custom pool representative, in fact, can show you on paper that, not only is the base price lower in most cases, but when you add the options you want, the price advantage of an ORINDA pool becomes even greater.

And because it is an ORINDA pool, you get all the advantages of an ORINDA pool. The uncommon luxury of design and engineering by Orinda, and styling leadership that has made ORINDA Pools the best selling in northern California.

All of which is still just the beginning. *A giant Laars boiler is included with the 1967 Orinda Custom Royal Series providing low cost heating year long. You also have the traditionally conservative value of an ORINDA pool to enjoy. On top of all the other advantages.

Low monthly payments on ten year plan from northern California's oldest major pool builder.

In Bay Area, He Is Mr. Conservation

Harold Gilliam is a lean, long, quiet man who writes in a loud, clear voice about his heartfelt dislike of bulldozers, steam shovels and "anything else that chops off hills."

This hatred was born as an avocation when he was a boy hiking in the vanishing Hollywood Hills and developed into a true vocation when he moved to the San Francisco area and "found the same thing starting to happen here."

In the past 10 years, Gilliam has published five books, has written more than 500 articles for newspapers and periodicals and has become a consultant to the United States secretary of the interior; all on the basis of his championship of conservation.

GILLIAM LIVES with one foot in Marin and often two feet. He owns a share in a cottage at Stinson Beach where he and his wife and two sons, Gregory, 7, and David, 4, spend as much time as possible and "at least once a week, I try to hike on Mount Tamalpais to keep my perspective and think about the things I want to write."

The rest of the week Gilliam and his wife, the former Ann Lawrence of Michigan, live in San Francisco where the author maintains a daily writing schedule in his home and downtown offices and teaches an evening course on "The San Francisco Bay Area" at San Francisco State College.

Next week he will combine all his interests as principal lecturer for the five-day symposium on "Nine Counties and a Bay" at Dominican College in San Rafael from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

IN ADDITION to presenting his own daily lecture, Gilliam will introduce 23 guest speakers and panelists, each an expert on some aspect of the San Francisco Bay Area.

The audience will include about 300 elementary and high school teachers from practically every city within a 50-mile radius. Though the college does not offer accommodations during the week, many couples and individuals have enrolled from cities outside of commuting range from Saratoga to Davis.

According to Dominican College officials, this will be the first known attempt to bring into focus the current studies and points of view related to the Bay

'The Natural World Of San Francisco'

He Cares About Beauty

Area in such fields as regional planning and government, climate, demography, geography, transportation, health, ecology, biology, art, conservation, labor and economics.

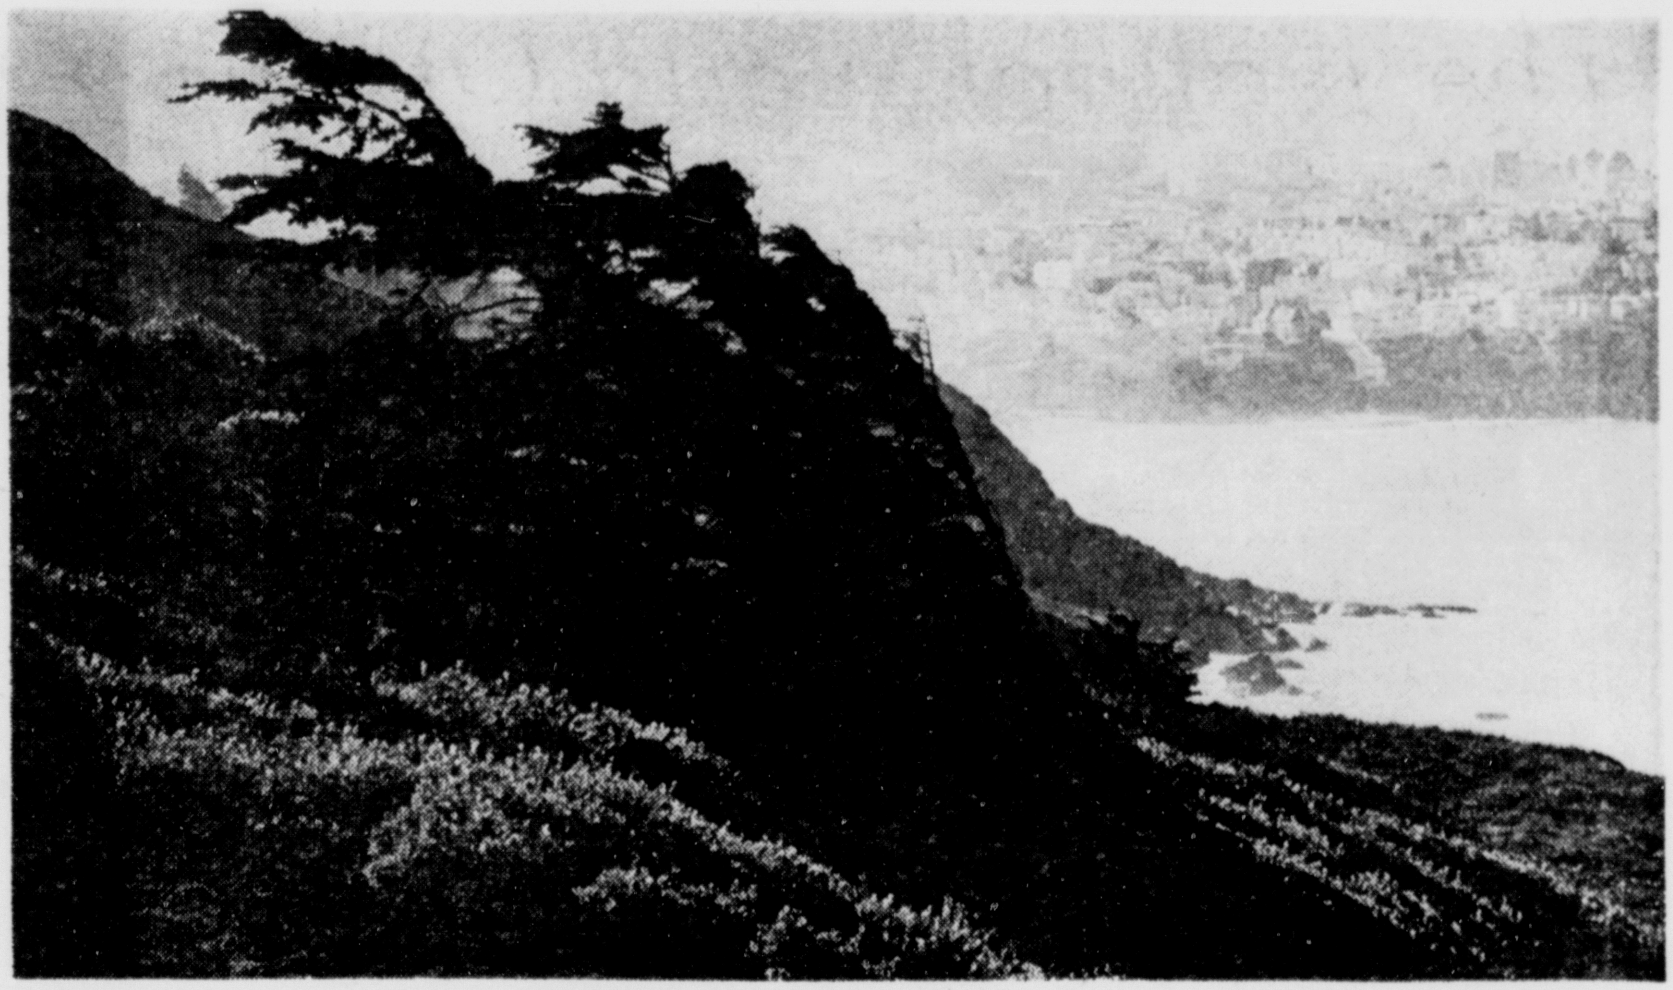
GILLIAM STATES that he does not regard himself as a naturalist nor does he care for the labels "conservationist or preservationist." He thinks of himself as a writer who cares about the natural beauty of the region and nation and has been lucky enough to be able to support his family through work he enjoys and believes in.

Before World War II, Gilliam received a Bachelor of Arts Degree in political science from UCLA and a Master's Degree in economics from U.C. at Berkeley. Following injuries received while serving with an armored division in Europe, he studied creative writing for a year with Wallace Stegner at the Stanford University Writing Center.

He worked on the staff of a San Francisco newspaper from 1948 to 1957. "During that last year," Gilliam recalls, "Doubleday published my first book ("San Francisco Bay"); I got married and quit my job."

SHORTLY AFTER this, he published "San Francisco, City at the Golden Gate," which was written with his wife in 1959; followed by "The Face of San Francisco" in 1960; "Weather of the San Francisco Bay Region" in 1962; "Island in Time" in 1962 also, and "The Natural World of San Francisco" this year.

The last volume is illustrated by photographer Michael Bry of Sausalito.



THIS MICHAEL BRY photo captures foliaged cliffside, the seashore and the city all in one picture. The Monterey cypress in the foreground grows in the San Francisco Presidio. In the background can be seen the Sea Cliff district. Too often, Harold Gilliam says, man has left his communities devoid of such beauty spots.

In 1960, he began teaching; in 1961, he added the job of part-time news writer in the field of conservation and in 1962 he was asked to come to Washington, D.C., by Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall for three months which turned into a year.

"This was invaluable experience," according to Gilliam, "because I learned the politics of conservation."

HE STILL DOES a good bit of writing for Secretary Udall for the national beautification program and spends some time each year in the nation's capital city as a consultant.

Right now he is at work on a new book that will be a collection of published articles, and he is trying to find time to write a book "on a broader basis, showing America's relation to the land and how it will shape the future."

Meanwhile, whether he likes it or not, Harold Gilliam tends to be known as "Mr. Conservation for the Bay Region."

"Why Did My Shirt Glaze When I Ironed It?"

Glazing as well as shining, scorching and delusterizing can occur in home ironing. This is especially true now, as so many garments are manufactured in part or all of synthetic fibers. Each fiber has its own danger temperature in ironing. In addition, pressure and moisture contribute to these types of fabric damage.

If your iron is working properly the synthetic setting should be 250 degrees; rayon and silk, 275 to 300 degrees; wool 400; cotton setting 450; linen up to 550. No iron should go above 550 degrees.

The trouble is that the thermostat controlling the temperature of your iron is so sensitive that a heavy jolt can cause it to malfunction. Continual use over a long perior may cause the thermostat to get out of adjustment, too. That may be what happened to you. The temperature was too high. The synthetic fibers in your skirt melted and glazed. Unfortunately, there is nothing that can be done to correct this damage.

You might take your iron to a repair shop periodically and have it checked for temperature controls at the various settings—or avoid all this trouble and possible damage by trusting your garments to the professional care of your drycleaner.

A Writer Talks Of Pressure

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A top television writer says that he and his fellow craftsmen "are being painted into a corner by self-censorship due to the cumulative effect of pressure groups."

The latest hazard, says scripter Norman Jolley, is the American Italian Anti-Defamation League, of which Frank Sinatra recently became national chairman.

THE NETWORKS' acquiescence to pressure groups has long rankled writers. They have said that they can't deal with reality because of orders not to offend any group. Businessmen object when an executive is portrayed as a villain; the same is true of doctors, Orientals, Indians, teachers, etc.

Jolley explained: "The function of the writer is to hold a mirror up to nature. If he can't present the truth as he sees it, then he will be showing a distorted image."

JOLLEY'S COMPLAINT was prompted by his experience with a two-part script he researched and wrote on the Cosa Nostra for "The FBI."

Titled "The Executioners," it was presented March 12 and 19 on ABC. Besides star Efrem Zimbalist, the show featured Walter Pidgeon, Telly Savalas, Celeste Holm and Susan Strasberg. Jolley pointed out that not one actor of Italian derivation was cast, and only one Italian name, Clemente, was used in the script.

Jolley said that after the second segment was shown, the sponsor—Ford—received a telegram from New York Civil Court Judge Ross J. Dilorenzo, president of the American Italian Anti-Defamation League.

HE QUESTIONED the veracity of the script and added:

"If pure fabrication it would constitute outright defamation of many thousands of American-Italian college students (the villain was a collegiate who killed for the Mafia) and violation of FCC regulations.

"In the name of 22 million American-Italians in the United States, we resent vehemently this type of program that slanders the decent, law-abiding citizens of an important ethnic group. We have been flooded with angry protests from our many members."

IN ANSWER TO Judge Dilorenzo's protest, Jolley declared that "The Executioners" script was based on 15 different FBI cases, "with the names and incidents changed to protect the guilty."

He added: "We're at war now —with La Cosa Nostra. Will the AID stand up and be counted in this war—as the American-Italians did in World War II?"

The writer charged that a U.S. representative and senator joined the pressure campaign and as a result "The Executioners" was removed from the summer re-run schedule on ABC.

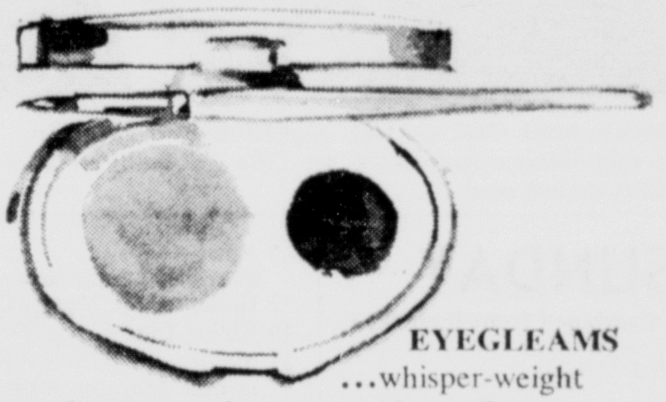
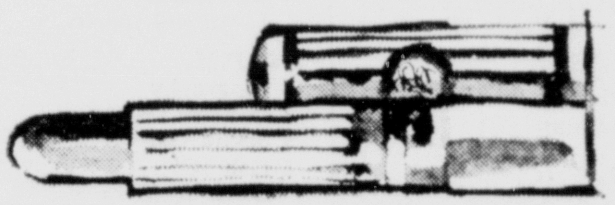
Easy on the Eyes

The most tender-care eye preparations ever conceived...



EYEGLEAMS ...whisper-weight color creams that come with an all-over shade for lid and bone, plus a deep-hued Definer for accent... applied to perfection with special Eyegleams Brush.



SUPER-EYE STICK... a magic wand of softening emollients to glide gently over the lids by day or night.

SUPER-LASH CREAM... to silken lashes to lustrous density while you sleep. (Try it under mascara, too, for lashes that look glamorous yet natural)

SUPER-EYE CREAM... the indispensable keeper of the eye beautiful, rich in vitamins and Royal Jelly to defy time-telling lines.

The Trend In Television Is Away From Trends, Says A Producer

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — If there's a trend in television, Bruce Geller notes, it's a trend away from trends.

Even among Westerns — "Rawhide," "the Westerner," "Laramie," "Road West" and "Johnny Ringo" — only the durable "Gunsmoke," "Bonanza" and "Virginian" remain in production — plus fall's upcoming "High Chaparral" and "Dundee."

Medicine shows? "Medic," "Kildare," "Casey," "General Hospital" Doctors and Nurses" have faded.

PRIVATE DETECTIVE programs like "Richard Diamond" and "Tightrope" have tiptoed away, leaving only "Mannix," a new show which Geller is producing for fall.

As Geller sees it, "Get Smart," starring Don Adams as a bumbling hero, sparked a recent trend to zany, unreal comedies including "Captain Nice" and "Mr. Terrific." Adams won an Emmy but the other two shows and their bungling supermen won't be back.

The trend-away-from-trends, says Geller, is good.

"TRENDS ARE nice for advertising agencies and sponsors. Trends allow you not to use your decision-making mind. Agencies and sponsors figure, 'If it's like 'Bonanza,' it's got to be good.' "

Geller, a swarthy, cool 36, carried off two Emmys at this year's ceremonies as executive producer of "Mission: Impossible" and writer of one of the segments. The show captured awards also for best actress—Barbara Bain—and film editing, the four winning categories making it second only to Brigadoon's five.

WHAT'S DISTINCTIVE about it?

The spectacled, studious-looking producer, a onetime high school salutatorian and Yale drama major, analyzes: "It's a filmic show, with not much dialogue, with an editorial style that's closer to new-wave features than most TV shows. It's a pure-story in which we say roughly three times as much as most shows.

"Everything happens from the show's start — we're not much involved with what happened before we went on the air. And we have a great cast of actors.

"TRADITIONALLY, actors like the heavy roles because they're more meaty. But our heroes do what criminals ordinarily do. If we rob a bank or a casino, it's because they're crooked. If we have a jail break, it's to get a good man out of prison."

If Westerns seem the hardiest of trends, Geller said: "Some of the best work has been done in Westerns. They're a staple."

South India's Golden City

Kanchipuram Boasts Some Of Country's Finest Temples

"The Golden City" is what some people call Kanchipuram, one of India's holy cities and a 40-mile car trip from Madras.

Kanchipuram's temples, some of the oldest in the south, soar upwards as high as 188 feet, creating a southern skyline you'll long remember. There are ornate carved pillars, unusual sculpture dealing with wars that were fought over 1,000 years ago, and paintings to admire in this "Benares of the South."

Near Kanchipuram, there is a small temple on a hill about 500 feet high. Here, every day around noon, a priest feeds two white kites. These birds appear, it is believed, to mark their faithfulness to two saints.

IN A VILLAGE, near the hill, is a handsome temple, carved out of rock.

After taking excursions to Mahabalipuram and Kanchipuram, you return to Madras to the comfort of your air-conditioned hotel. There are excellent restaurants in this sprawling southern city. The curries, often made with coconut milk, are a gourmet's delight.

Both the music and dancing of South India are outstanding. Any visitor to Madras would be well advised to attend a concert or a recital. The musicians, playing the veena (stringed instrument) or mridangam (drum like instrument), go on for hours as they sit cross-legged on the floor. The beautifully costumed dancers execute movements with grace and precision which takes years to master.

YOU DO NOT need to know anything about the traditions of these cultural offerings to enjoy them immensely.

CHILDREN PLAY along the seaside before one of the temples dating from the eighth century for which southern India is famous. Many other shoreline temples were swept away by the sea years ago, but the one seen here is regarded as one of the finest examples of surviving eastern temple architecture.

There is another thing to remember about travel in South India. It is that life moves at a leisurely pace there.

To savor all the surprises in that part of the country, go slowly, and you will enjoy the south to its fullest, the way a southerner does.

Before You Motor Into Mexico, Be Sure Of Insurance

Our Neighbor South Of Border Has Liability Laws Of Its Own

Thousands of vacationing Americans will be driving their cars into Mexico this summer.

Many of them will be falsely confident that they have proper liability protection in case of an accident in that country, the Insurance Information Institute warns.

When planning to drive south of the border, U.S. residents should check with their insurance agent or broker about obtaining an official Mexican automobile liability insurance policy.

UNLESS PROPERLY informed and insured, their pleasant vacations could turn into costly nightmares. Tourists should be warned: "Don't drive into Mexico without auto liability insurance from a Mexican company!"

Most Americans are unaware that only insurance companies located in Mexico are recognized under Mexican law. And contracts of insurance written by non-Mexican companies are not in force in that country.

A tourist involved in an accident in Mexico could be faced with a large cash outlay, informal detainment, or even jail, under the strict provisions of the Mexican law — even if he has the "Mexican auto endorsement" attached to his U.S. policy.

THE MEXICAN "endorsement" on some U.S. policies is designed for a limited purpose and its application to vacation use should be thoroughly discussed with an insurance agent or broker before a person drives across the border.

Without proper Mexican coverage, the motorist has four alternatives if he is involved in an auto accident which results in even minor personal injury or property damage. They are:

1. Post a cash bond with the local officials.
2. Post a commercial bond from a Mexican bonding company (a possibility if the tourist speaks Spanish, knows someone locally and has enough money).
3. Contact a U.S. insurance agent, via telephone or telegram (but, under Mexican law, it is illegal for the agent to settle the claim in Mexico. He may, however, advance the cash necessary to post bond).
4. Face legal detention and impounding of the automobile.

AS VISITORS TO Mexico, Americans are bound by Mexican laws, just as Mexicans traveling in the U.S. are bound by its laws. Compliance with those laws can make for a happier vacation in Mexico.

Here are some additional pointers for traveling south of the border.

Obtain a tourist card from the office of the Mexican Bureau of Tourism, the Mexican consul or at the border.

If you have an auto accident in Mexico, look for help from one of the green Turismo jeeps that patrol the highways. The driver will assist insureds in contacting an adjuster for the Mexican company which issued you insurance.

If no patrol car arrives in a reasonable time, call the nearest police officer. The policy should be shown to the chief of police, and no officer should be paid for his services. That is the responsibility of the Mexican insurance company.

EXOTIC SIGHTS such as this colorfully garbed Tarahumara Indian drummer are among the chief attractions of Mexico for the tourist.

Irish Houses And Gardens Are Spotlighted In Magazine

A special color magazine containing photographs and descriptions of houses, estates and gardens that can be visited by tourists in Ireland is available free by writing to the Irish Tourist Board, 33 East 50th Street, New York City.

Included is information on transportation to be used to reach each place, days and time opened and the admission price.

TRAVELERS WHO enjoy the intimate feeling of roaming leisurely through elegant old homes filled with antiques and valuable objects of art will be attracted to Bantry House, Bantry in County Cork. It is opened from Easter to October and can be reached by bus from Cork.

Situated on the shores of Bantry Bay, it is surrounded by huge gardens with beautiful flower beds, meticulously trimmed, green lawns and it is flanked by a series of artistic statuettes. The house was the principal seat of the Earls of Bantry and is now owned by the great-grand-daughter of the third Earl of Bantry.

One of the unusual gardens shown in the magazine is Garinish Island which can be reached by boat from Glengariff. This island garden, which is opened throughout the year, has plants from the most remote parts of the world: Himalayas, China, South Africa, Japan, South America and New Zealand.

SEVERAL well-known castles are also included in the publication.

The house and gardens magazine first appeared as an insert in the expanded format of "Ireland of The Welcomes," published in Dublin. The "Ireland" publication is printed six times a year and is available by subscription.

Ballad Of The Rockies

GLEAMS FROM UNDERGROUND by Alexander Chisholm, Handkraft Art and Publishing Co., 485 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Barbara L. Cullen.

Reviews Of New Reading

In a ballad of novel length, Alton Lang, whose fictional life in many respects parallels the author's, relates an historical saga dating back to the California gold rush of the 1800s.

Born in a ghost town in the Colorado Rockies, Alton was raised on haunting memories of the days of mining prosperity. His family was one of the few who remained when the gold ran out. Coal then became their chief source of revenue.

To a true miner, the hidden recesses below the earth's surface and the unexplored passages of caves and tunnels hold as great a fascination, as great a sense of mystery and beauty as any of nature's topographical wonders. Alton was one so moved by "gleams from the underground," and his destiny seemed marked by these luminescent signs from below.

In addition to the traditional story of love's tribulations and ultimate conquest, Alexander develops two remarkable legends from Indian lore. One tells of the Sleeping Bears, a band of the Utes who hibernated during the winter months, and the other of the Sasquatch, a primitive, cannibalistic man who stalked and terrorized the wild mountain regions.

The ballad departs from its personal focus on Alton Lang to encompass his larger role in the mining community during the formation of organized labor unions. As with every other industry when its arbitrary power was first challenged by labor, tension and disputes led to armed resistance and violence. Labor itself was internally fraught with strife by two opposing factions, one sanctioning the cooperation of labor with capital so that the two could ultimately share in the profits, the other advocating the total revolution of labor over capital in the Marxist interpretation.

According to Alton, the latter forcefully gained control over the miners' union until its leader was eventually tried and sentenced for sedition.

During this period, Alton's family was employed as scabs, their allegiance to an unusually honest and just employer overriding any feelings of loyalty to the greater plight of the miners in general. Although Alton attempts to evoke a sympathetic response toward his point of view, the reader cannot help but question his wisdom.

As a portion of our deeply rooted heritage, Alton's chronicle lends itself well to the ballad form. "Gleams From Underground" is successful for the most part as a story which is capable of sustaining the reader's interest, but it fails as a ballad song. What lyrical beauty Chisholm might have achieved in his narrative is lost in the attempt to preserve an exact rhythm by the constant wrenching of accents.

Sex As Integral Part Of Living With Others

SEX INCORPORATED by Hans Hofmann, Beacon Press, 129 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Lee Cadwallader.

Hofmann earned his doctorate at Princeton and the University of Zurich. He is now the president of the Institute for Human Development Inc., in Cambridge, Mass. Previously he taught at the Harvard Divinity School and Princeton Theological Seminary.

He says he hopes "for an incorporation of sex into life-awareness which will make it unnecessary and obsolete to be either for or against sex. Contemporary preoccupation with sex is mainly a strong reaction to the Victorian effort to silence sex to practical nonexistence."

He does not think of sex merely as a drive or habit. He says: "We are our sexuality and sex is an integral part of our living with others."

In his conclusion he states, "The question thus is not whether to experiment, but how honest, clear-sighted, and creative we can be in our experimenting. As long as we soft-pedal the evidence of a sexual crisis and ignore the need for a better understanding of sex, we force people to depend on their limited insights."

Don't let the size of this book deceive you. Hofmann writes concisely and cogently, and he gives you more than your money's worth in a short space.

The subtitle of this book is "A Positive View of the Sexual Revolution."

The Way It Was For One Jewish Family In America

ABOUT US by Chester Aaron, McGraw-Hill, 239 pages, $5.50. Reviewed by Frank Farrara.

There have been quite a few novels in recent years about Jewish families, but this one is different.

This isn't the story of the immigrant struggling in the lower east side of New York; neither is it the Harry Golden or Sam Levenson vein of humorous, philosophical reminiscences.

Aaron, in his first novel, takes a strong, head-on approach to his story of a Jewish family in a small Pennsylvania mining town in the midst of depression of the 30s and into the early years of World War II.

It isn't a happy story as discrimination and tragedy plague the family, but there is a warmth and a feeling that will absorb the reader and literally draw him into the family.

As a side effect, it offers strong comment on the social atmosphere in a small town of several decades ago and the effect of the turbulent days of depression and war on family life.

The story narrated by Benny, the youngest child, proceeds through his recollections of various members of the family, rather than by strict chronological order.

Throughout there is Papa, running his grocery store his way, extending credit beyond all business logic, in a land that is alien to him.

For those who lived through the era, Jewish or non-Jewish, Aaron's novel will bring on a twinge of nostalgia. It's not a case of "the good old days," but rather a case of "that's the way it was."

Being a member of the only Jewish family in a small American town in those years wasn't an easy life, but Benny's memories are heartwarming with a solid ring of truth.

Bishop Pike

YOU & THE NEW MORALITY by Bishop James A. Pike, Harper & Row, 145 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

Bishop James A. Pike has been insistent that theology must be made applicable to contemporary conditions and problems if it is to be truly meaningful and effective today.

With man striving for a precarious balance between freedom and responsibility, it is dangerous, the bishop says, to deal in absolutes—in black-or-white moral judgments.

He calls, instead, for consideration of the individual person and his special needs in these very special times. The wisdom of the Bible, thus applied, can be helpful in resolving confusions and in leading to wise decisions. To demonstrate that belief, Bishop Pike in this small book relates Bible-based yet contemporary principles to specific human situations—to case histories.

Two New Additions To Life's Science Series

THE PHYSICIAN by Russel V. Lee, Sarel Eimerl and the editors of Life; WHEELS by Wilfrid Owen and Ezra Bowmen and the editors of Life, both Life Science Library, each 200 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Jeff Greer.

One of the best in the science series to date, "The Physician" deals with persons more than things, dramatically showing the physician's impact on the extremely personal crises of life, illness and death.

In the picture essays typical of the Science Series, the book recites the long and sometimes weird history of the doctor, highlights some discoveries of medicine, and depicts rigors and philosophy of a doctor's training and life. It concludes with a look into the nearly fantastic attempts being made to save lives with organ transplants, laser beams and other techniques.

Excellent for high school age up, but may make some sensitive readers queasy.

"Wheels" essays review the history and science of the wheel, the tremendous change from horsepower to steam, and the history of the railroads that changed the U.S. Automobiles come in for a long, philosophical look; both as to how they work, what wonders they enable and what headaches they bring.

The engineering miracles of roads and bridges are also discussed, as well as ideas for humanizing the future for the wheels-crushed commuter, the urban dweller and the rural resident. One brief article describes the hovercraft experiment on San Francisco Bay.

The book is interesting for readers from junior high level through adult layman.

Mill Valley Dentist Writes On Proper Care Of Teeth

YOUR TEETH by Dr. Daniel A. Collins, Doubleday, 224 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

This small book contains exactly the kind of basic and sound professional advice on prevention and treatment of dental problems that one can obtain from the family dentist. Still, there is unquestionably an advantage in having such instruction in the home and immediately available.

Dr. Collins, Mill Valley resident, dentist, teacher, former member of the California State Board of Public Health, has written a handbook covering care of the teeth for all members of the family. It is comprehensive and easily understood. Perhaps he has tended to underwrite, to simplify too much. But that does have the advantage of making his advice comprehensible to the younger age group as well as adults.

The mere presence of the book may inspire a closer attention to dental needs, a field shamefully neglected by many Americans. We pay a three-billion-dollar bill annually that is to a considerable extent attributable to ineffectual or non-existent care and a sugary diet.

THE BOOK PAGES

A Superficial Look Into The International War Of Intrigue

By DON KEOWN

"The Art of Spying" by Italian journalist Enrico Altavilla is a disappointingly shallow look at a sensational subject.

That the book with all its superficiality still has considerable reader appeal is attributable more to our current preoccupation with espionage than it is to Altavilla's handling of the topic.

What he has done is to interview a few intelligence chiefs and former chiefs, largely German, Italian and Swedish, and then to supplement their observations with previously publicized disclosures and some undocumented generalities of his own.

All this is presented unevenly. The book was originally written in Italian and first published in Italy. The translation to our language is erratic, sometimes readable enough, sometimes lapsing annoyingly into a sort of awkward immigrant English. The organization of the material leaves something to be desired, as well.

The book falls far short of being the really serious treatment of the role of international intelligence and counter-intelligence in today's power politics that the subject would seem to merit. But highly popularized and lightweight as it is, it does contain some intriguing declarations, even if these are not always substantiated.

A basic premise of the author is that while there are no James Bonds among the real-life (and deceased) spies, because such a flamboyance of character would court immediate disaster, there does exist gadgetry equal to anything with which Ian Fleming armed his agent.

There are also assertions such as these attributed to an anonymous expert in the field:

The Russians have the largest number of agents and collaborators, the Germans have the best spy network inside the Soviet Union, the Americans have the largest number of "electronic brains," Israel operates the best school for spies, the English agents are the most imaginative and most daring, and the French are the most unscrupulous.

THE ART OF SPYING by Enrico Altavilla, Prentice-Hall, 199 pages, $4.95.

HOME by LeRoi Jones, Apollo Editions, 252 pages, paperback, $1.75.

Altavilla also tells us that the U.S. is handicapped by our regard of espionage as "a dirty business." And that the English are hobbled by a weakness in their defensive counter-intelligence set-up that sometimes offsets the brilliance of their offensive intelligence.

And in most countries, he adds, there is as much competition and strife between rival intelligence agencies of that nation as there is with their international counterparts.

A FEW YEARS back many shortsighted white Americans suddenly awoke to the fact that in the Negro civil rights movement Dr. Martin Luther King was exactly what he had professed to be — a moderate.

King's positions were put in proper perspective by new voices that were growing louder and more frequent, denouncing all compromises, rejecting all attempts to impose the time schedule of gradualism, refusing to be bound indefinitely by the concept of non-violence.

One of the most articulate of those voices has been that of LeRoi Jones, poet, playwright, novelist, essayist, firebrand.

The principles of this movement demanding full and immediate freedom for the black man, as an obligation of white society, not as favors, are embodied in "Home," a collection of social essays written by Jones from 1960 through 1965. These are presented in chronological order, so that they disclose a pattern of growing alienation, embitterment, distrust and resentment.

From the outset, Jones is sharply critical of white-dominated America. But in lashing out at "liberal stupidity" and "the actual filth of vested interest," he still includes himself as an American when he says that "we are an old people already" and that the vitality of "our art" is "like bright flowers growing up though a rotting carcass."

By his closing essays, his "we" and "our" no longer refer to all Americans, but to black people only. "Black people are a race, a nation, a culture. . ." And finally, "the Black Artist must demonstrate sweet life, how it differs from the deathly grip of the White Eyes. The Black Artist must teach the White Eyes their deaths, and teach the black man how to bring those deaths back."

Strong words, and there is much more of the same. And in his introduction, Jones warns that "by the time this book appears, I will be even blacker."

Jones and his fellow exhorters, from Stokeley Carmichael to Cassius Clay, no longer believe that our system of government and society can be remodeled so that the Negro will be welcomed and comfortable within it. They are set, instead, upon the complete destruction of the old and the building of a new structure with black men and women as the architects and carpenters. In this black drive for sovereignty and independence, they serve notice, they will no longer be bound by Caucasian conventions and restrictions.

Yes, Martin Luther King, after reading Jones' fiery rhetoric, seems moderate, indeed. And there are signs that the Jones' philosophy is growing while King's influence is on the wane.

Whites should read and ponder Jones' essays. They can then continue to dribble out civil rights and liberties to the Negro as a sort of alms, but only at their own peril, fully cognizant of the festering hatreds they are feeding and the potential violence they are courting.

If Jones and Carmichael have their way, the Negro will not be turning the other cheek much longer. No wonder Dr. King's calls for a termination of tokenism and the recognition unconditionally of that precious thing the Negro wants most and which is still denied him — his dignity as a human being.

SECOND OR vacation homes are becoming something more than a status symbol — almost an integral part of the American way of life, at least for the upper middle class and up.

Their acquisition, nevertheless, poses a considerable financial undertaking for the less than wealthy.

One solution suggested by Sonoma County's Paul Corey is "build it yourself."

And to encourage the plunge into such projects, he has authored a handbook entitled "Holiday Homes" (Crowell, $6.95). It contains basic building procedures from the ground up, concentrating on techniques and principles rather than upon plans for specific cabins and houses. His subjects range from selecting a site to the installation of sanitary facilities and utilities. Illustrations, 150 in number, help him make his points.

Anyone considering such construction, and not already a seasoned cabin-builder, will find Corey's book based on his own experience, extremely helpful.

LANE BOOKS has added to its Sunset Building Series "Ideas For Planning Your New Home" (softcover, $1.95).

Sunset editors have assembled a multitude of bright ideas on home design and planning covering just about every type of house and every possible kind of location.

The book concludes with a chapter of tested interior layouts that offer comfort while being outside the ordinary.

As always, Sunset has put its pictorial expertise to work assembling an impressive and effective collection of photographs to further clarify its points.

NO THE hippie generation didn't invent love, nor do they hold a patent on it.

It has been known for centuries — witness the Bible. It just seems sometimes that it is completely foreign to mankind, so rarely does he practice it.

One group that has long preached its merits are the so-called positive thinking theorists and related dispensers of inspiration and advice. Their ideas vary widely in content and in profundity, but generally love of self and fellow man is a key element in their thinking.

Reginald C. Armor, director of the Department of Extension Education of the Institute of Religious Science in Los Angeles, has written "The Magic of Love" (Dodd, Mead, $3.75) advancing the argument that in this age of scientific advances and social upheaval, the old truths of ethics, thoughtfulness and human kindness are more than ever vital. He discusses their application to contemporary circumstances. And he closes with a group of meditations that are the best part of the book, leading man into explorations of certain affirmative ideas rooted in the powers of love.

A Photo Album About A Fetching Family Of Lions

PRIDE'S PROGRESS by Emmy Haas, Harper & Row, 116 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Those who enjoy animal books, and particularly young adults, will find Emmy Haas' latest collection of photographs a pleasurable experience. It also has a great deal of merit as a serious scientific study of animal behavior.

Miss Haas has turned her cameras upon the lion Charlie, his mate Princess, and their cubs, living on the roomy African plains island of the Bronx Zoo.

For the first time, Miss Haas has supplied her own text as well as the pictures.

She describes her observations of the lion family over a period of years—the result of great patience and dedication.

But the real attraction of the book for most of us will be the 168 black and white prints she chose from the thousands of photographs taken.

Lions are unquestionably among our most photogenic beasts. And Charlie, Princess and offspring make delightfully candid yet always dignified subjects for a photographer of Emmy Haas' skill and sensitivity.

Sleuths & Suspense

LETS CHOOSE EXECUTORS by Sara Woods, Harper & Row, 246 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Donald G. Davis.

When wealthy old Mrs. Randall was murdered, her goddaughter, Fran Gifford, was blamed for the poisoning. Death occurred shortly after the old woman bequeathed everything to the girl. So naturally the family lawyers felt they couldn't handle the defense.

Barrister Antony Maitland steps in.

He doesn't think the girl is getting a square deal, but he can't help her because he catches her in one lie after another. Then, when it's almost too late for Fran, another girl dies. Maitland's bits and pieces of defense begin to fit together, and there's more to it than an old death and an accused young girl.

Maitland is a favorite Sara Woods character, and as usual, neither of them let the reader down in a suspenseful and dramatic story.

STEREO HI-FI

By C. J. Catania
Audio Engineer

ELECTRONICS AND ROCK AND ROLL — The new generation of rock and roll musicians, the guitar players, the bass players, etc., are creating new design problems for the electronic engineers and for suppliers like ourselves.

In an average home, about 1 to 2 watts of audio power is used from the home radio console for normal room volume. The new guitar players purchase amplifiers for their electric guitars that are rated at 100 watts of audio power. The bass man also uses a 100 watt unit for his electric bass. At a normal "A-Go-Go" club there may be 3 or 4 guitar men, a bass man, 1 or 2 vocalists, and some girls that furnish the gyrations. Each guitar and bass man has his own 100 watt amplifier and speaker system. Generally, the amplifiers are turned up almost wide open (fully on). With approximately 4 units going full blast, the intensity levels in these rock clubs reaches as high as 100 decibels (approaching the sound level of a jet engine). Now comes the fun — The vocalist pulls a microphone from the stand and without swallowing it, tries to sing into it loud enough to over-ride the 100 db level. Of course, the microphone doesn't know the difference between the vocalist's voice and the sound of the 3 or 4 loudspeakers of the electronic instruments (usually placed back-stage behind the singer and microphone). The result! A new kind of sound!!

Those of us in the engineering field that work with levels of sound call this "BUILT - IN DISTORTION." The rock groups come to us and want more volume. They want bigger amplifiers. They want bigger and better loudspeaker systems. Incidentally, one of the biggest problems that the rock groups have is that they are sold equipment with inadequate loudspeakers.

The average amplifier/loudspeaker system used by the new musicians is poorly designed. The instrument or microphone is driven with so much volume that when it arrives at the 1st tube or transistor, overloading takes place and immediately the sound takes on a new quality. This distortion is increased as it passes through the amplifier and compounded when it overdrives the speaker. Our aim is to custom-build amplifier/loudspeaker combinations that do not overload and that can handle these high power levels with clarity.

On The Stereo Scene

By JOHN SUNIER

Some more releases from Columbia:

BUXTEHUDE AT LUNEBURG (The Glory of the Baroque Organ) — E. Power Biggs, organ — Columbia MS 6944:

Buxtehude is generally passed over and minimized by labeling as simply a forerunner of Bach.

This is a shame for his music has most of the same good qualities of Bach, and yet is individual in its own way. In organ works, his music shows a wonderful feeling for the musical effects of which only the king of instruments is capable.

Biggs has chosen a magnificent instrument with the clear high Baroque sound, but also a rich supporting bass sound. Pieces include three chorale preludes, a partita for organ, a chaconne, and some preludes and fugues.

None of the previous Buxtehude organ LPs have matched this one in sheer stereo impact.

JOE MASTERS: The Jazz Mass — Columbia CS9398:

The so-called jazz mass is very in today. Churches throughout the country are turning to it as an expression of today, designed to reach the younger generation.

A recent example was Vince Guaraldi's jazz mass produced in Grace Cathedral.

Here is one of the latest, which stresses strong, hard-driving small combo jazz, with interludes of vocal passages sung by a soprano and tenor with chorus. Harold Land and Anthony Ortega are among the sax men in the septet.

The liner notes also swing a bit; they are by Fr. Norman O'Connor — the jazz priest of the Newport Jazz Festival.

This is one of the best examples of this experimental form of music, and almost as fine as Paul Horn's production on the Victor label.

BAROQUE SKETCHES — Art Farmer and The Baroque Orchestra — Columbia CS 9388:

This LP has some similarity to recent European (mostly French) efforts to combine classical and jazz music. But it seems even better thought out, arranged, and more serious in intent than most of these lightweight LP's have been.

The idea originated in some of the work done for the 1957 Brandeis Festival (available on Columbia) which showed strong classical music influences. The idea of a Baroque setting as a framework for Farmer's swinging flugelhorn was born. Of the 11 tracks, two are recent pop hits, one a fugue by John Lewis, and the rest very honorable and often lovely treatments of melodies by Bach, Chopin and Albeniz.

"Jesus Joy of Man's desiring" is especially attractive in this unique setting.

The tone of Farmer's horn goes beautifully with the woodwindy background and the stereo is fine.

On Keeping Cool In The Summer Time

Handyman's Page

The number of factors that affect the temperature inside your home during the warm summer months is far greater than you might suppose without giving intensive thought to the subject.

Somebody once estimated that at least 100 different things influence the degree of summer comfort in an ordinary house — entirely aside from such cooling instruments as fans and air-conditioning devices.

Most of these involve controls designed into the structure and the landscaping, placement of the house in relation to the position of the sun at different times of the day, and objects which reflect or block the sun's rays, such as awnings, blinds, shades, etc.

EVEN WHEN mechanical means are utilized, effective cooling is not always attained because home owners and apartment dwellers disregard basic principles.

The manufacturers of window air conditioners, for instance, spent many years convincing the public that the value of their products was diminished — and the maintenance costs raised — when hot air was permitted to enter the house through other windows. And there are thousands of homes which have one or more window or wall fans which whirraway in a room at the very same time that adjoining widows are open—which does nothing more than move air from the fan to the open windows instead of permitting it to circulate freely.

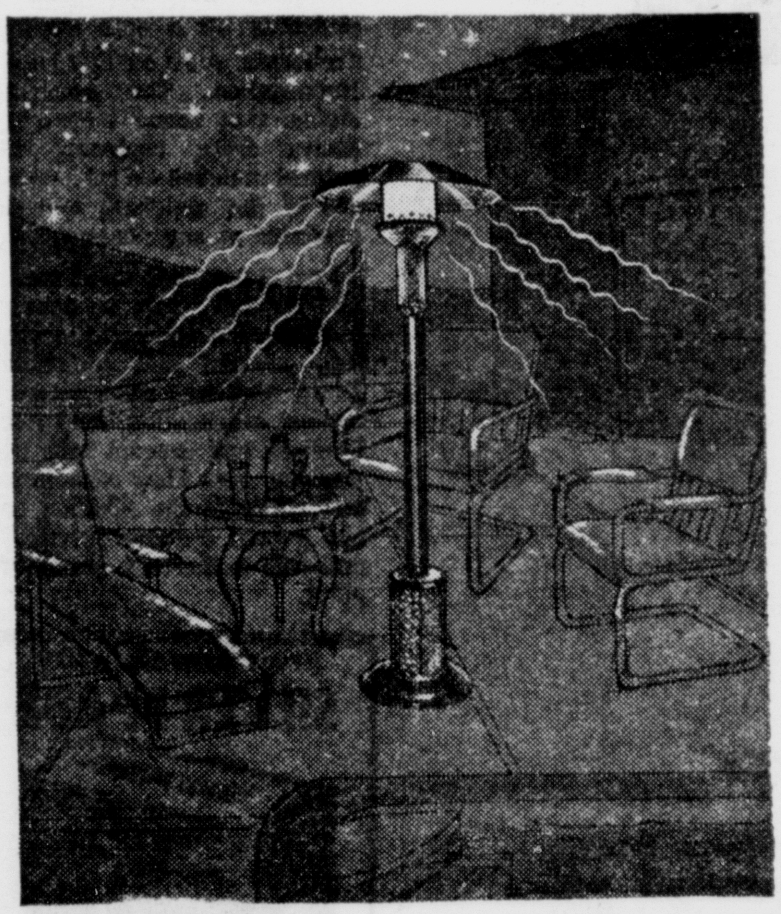
More and more, central air conditioning is being demanded by new home purchasers. And many owners of older homes are installing central air-conditioning systems, either in their entirety or as part of an over-all system which already includes warm air ducts.

NEW CENTRAL air conditioners are a lot more efficient than those of 20 years ago. One of the new models, in two, three and four-ton capacities, is said by its manufacturer to reduce operating costs 25 per cent, to have a much-reduced noise level and to change automatically from low to high speed when the outside temperature goes above 90 degrees.

The reduction of operating costs is, of course, important. Many home owners who otherwise might install central air-conditioning are a bit fearful that it might prove expensive to operate. Any development that cuts such costs is likely to meet with widespread approval.

But there isn't much doubt that air conditioning is here to stay. In every survey of architects on what the home of the future will contain, central air conditioning is prominent on the list.

Bright Ideas



THE REVERSE of the cooling of the house is the heating of the outdoor living area. And even in the summer, a patio heater can come in handy on cool nights. Heaters operate either in fixed positions on natural or propane gas, or in a portable model that uses propane only. Most of the heaters cast a 12 to 20-foot circle of infra-red heat that warms the air slowly by convection from warmed surfaces. The home handyman will have little difficulty in installing the heater himself. And come fall, the project will be all the more appreciated as it extends the outdoor living season.

WHERE THERE'S a wall, there's a way of enhancing it — with colorful plantings. Walls, being massive, need masses of color to brighten them. In the left photo, green yews provide the mass, while pale pink petunias lend color and accent. At right, a less formal wall requires informal plantings. Petunias in a number of varieties, chosen for blending colors, have been planted with a lavish hand both above and below the wall. Portulacas are used on both levels to carpet the ground below the petunias.

Mulching Is The Secret To Successful Summer Plants

In their natural setting, shrubs and trees provide their own mulch — a gradually accumulating layer of twigs and leaves which protects a plant's roots, conserves moisture and returns to the soil some of the nutrients consumed by the plant's root system.

Many gardeners, in their fetish for tidiness, rake or sweep this layer of debris into the trash pile. Result: An exposed soil that dries out faster, tends to crack and heats or freezes more quickly, as the weather dictates.

A tidy garden is desirable, but not at the expense of a plant's good health.

With summer upon us, we are reminded of the value of mulching by a note from the California Association of Nurserymen. The association claims that many benefits derive from replacing the natural mulches we rake up with one of the mulching materials available at any nursery.

Peat moss, leaf mold and the like not only help to conserve moisture during warm weather, they prevent soil compaction, guard shallow-rooted plants against overheating, hold weeds in check and prevent soils from washing out. They also impart an acidity to the alkaline soils and return a minor portion of nutrients to the root system of a plant.

Summer Is Season Your Lawn Needs Good Care To Beat Heat And Drouth

There's nothing more willing than a lawn in spring.

Spurred by winter and spring rains and a long rest, it grows furiously — and beautifully — for several weeks. Then comes summer, and with it a soil-baking sun and no rain—or precious little of it.

If you have laid the proper foundation through mulching with peat moss, bark or manure, summer weather poses little threat to your beautiful lawn. The soil is well prepared for drouth and easily takes up water and food.

AN UNPREPARED LAWN dries out quickly, then becomes compacted, and impenetrable. By mid-summer at the latest, it has lost its spring-fresh look and you, the gardener, have lost some pride. Even an unusually heavy winter-spring rainfall won't save it.

But don't despair. The California Association of Nurserymen is here to tell us that today's compacted lawns can be tomorrow's carpets of green.

Beg, borrow or buy a coring tool and spike the compacted areas thoroughly. If the entire lawn is in need of it you may want to rent a renovator. It will save time and labor.

SPIKING WITH A spading fork is not the best idea for it tends to compact the soil in the process. A coring tool removes a plug of soil and leaves the ground open to admit water and food. Brush or sweep sand into these holes to hold them open and water frequently.

Roughing the surface and scattering new lawn seed will benefit severely worn areas.

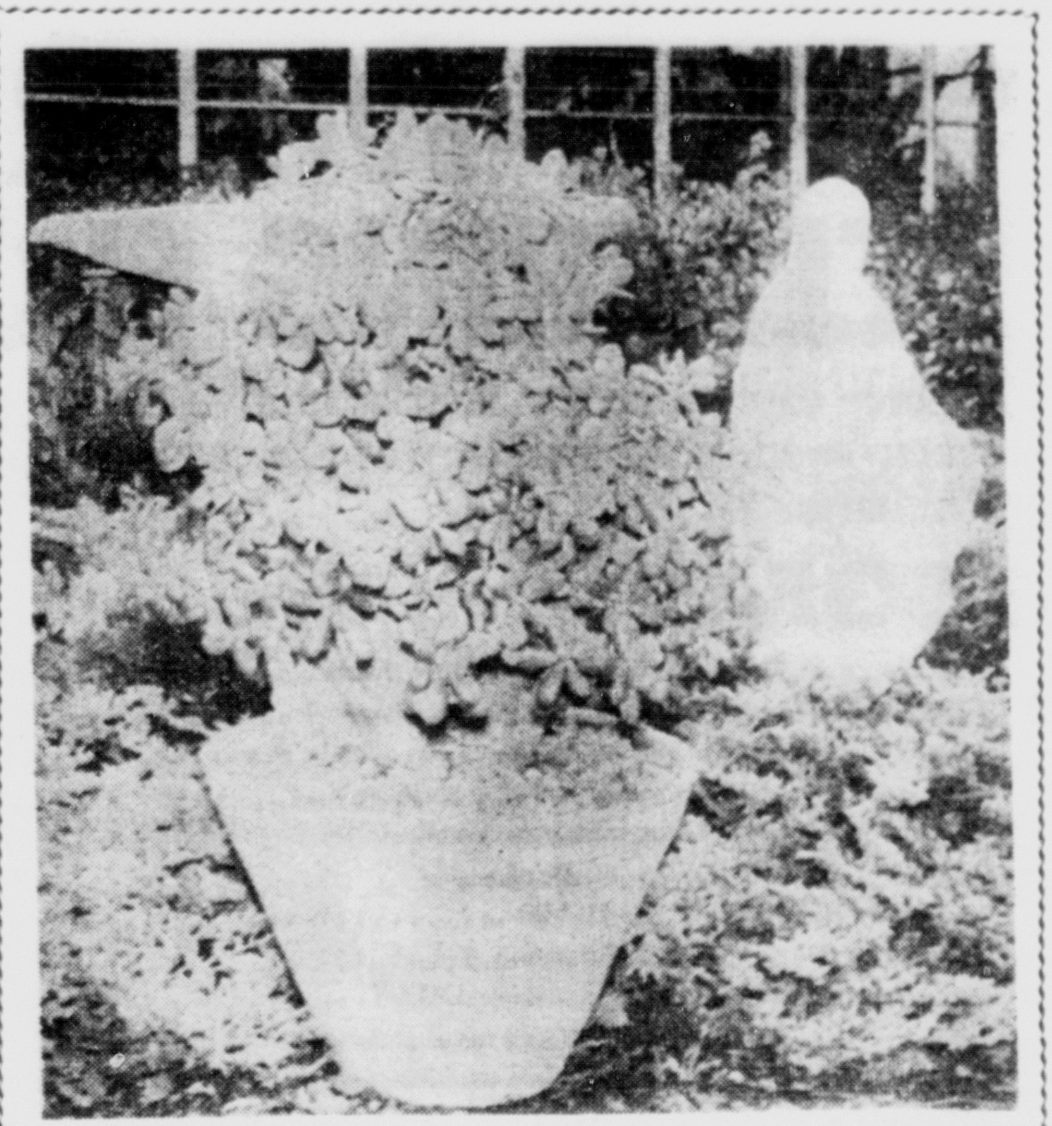
Top dressing with the abovementioned peat, manure or bark will lay the groundwork for a healthy soil surface and freedom from future compaction.

WATER YOUR LAWN frequently during summer and feed it lightly at least once a month. One or more of these feedings may be in the form of ammonium sulphate, a high-nitrogen dressing which gives tired lawns a shot in the arm.

Feed in the morning early and water thoroughly — not so thoroughly that the food washes away, however.

Weeding is easiest with one of the chemical weed controls. Ask your nurseryman which type is best for your particular lawn.

Be sure to follow the manufacturer's instructions in your application. Too little will do no good. Too much may do great harm.



SUCCULENTS ARE especially suitable for use as accent plants on the patio or deck. And here is one of the best — the Jade Plant. This specimen will grow happily and handsomely indefinitely in the same container it is growing in now.

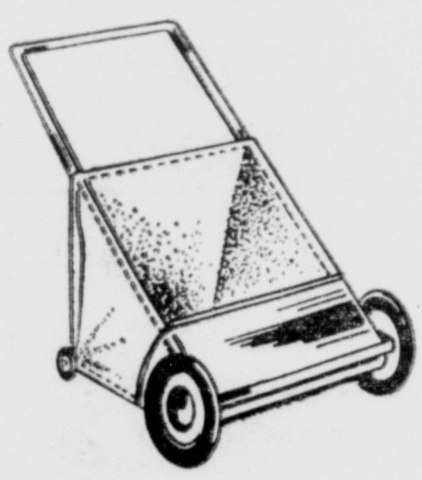
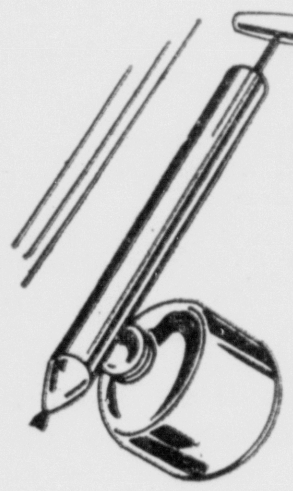
Some Instant Color From The Nurseryman

Garden Pages

Ours is an age of instant everything — instant credit, instant breakfast, instant this and that.

In the nursery trade, however, instant color is nothing new. As long as nurseries have been around, they have offered plants in bloom which give quick garden color.





A CHECK WITH your nurseryman this week will turn up any number of flower-bearing possibilities. You buy them in bloom, plant them in bloom and there you have it—instant color.

Take fuchsias, for instance: These lovely shrubs are coming into full bloom at this time and are easily transplanted to a shady or semi-shaded spot in your garden. Hanging basket varieties are especially popular with gardeners who seek added color parade right now. You can keep these in pots, moving them up a size or two as the roots become bound, or you can plant them in the garden in full sun.

THE IVY Geraniums are ideal in hanging baskets and are often growing this way in nurseries.

Roses, too, will give quick color, and while they may be out of bloom when you buy them, they'll be full of color again in very short time. Roses can be grown in their containers temporarily, then transfered to the ground or to more attractive plant containers as you have the time.

An expedient, if you're not sure where you want them permanently, is to sink the containers in the ground where their color can be enjoyed immediately.

ONE OF THE finest color shows at any time is from container-grown chrysanthemums. You can plant them now for instant color, then cut them back and feed them. They'll start growing again this year and give you a second show of color in the fall.

Other color bearers will be available when you shop the nursery this month. So why wait?

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- When delphinium blooms fade, cut the plants down and work fertilizer into the soil around them. Watering will bring new growth, more bloom in August.
- Tomato plants produce better fruit when they are trellised or otherwise propped up to keep them from sprawling on the ground.
- All citrus may be planted now. Water them frequently and thoroughly while they are getting established.
- Plant culinary herbs in your garden or in pots. Nurserymen have started plants available.
- Tall bearded iris will probably need dividing and replanting if it has been three years since the job was done last.
- Be sure to arrange for garden care before departing on that vacation trip.
